The Rig-Veda, the oldest book of Indian literature, has very properly been made one of the principal class-books for those who study Sanskrit in the schools and colleges in India, and though at present a scholar-like knowlege of the Vedic hymns is in the examinations required of the more advanced students only, yet, as soon as editions, translations, grammars, and distributions shall have a ndeed the study of these ancient documents more accessible. I doubt not that the time will come when no one in India will call himself a Sanskrit scholar who cannot construct he hymns of the ancient Rishis of his country.—Extract from Preface.

CONSTRUCTION OF A SERAI IN THE TOWN OF BEHAR.

No. 277J, dated Bankipore, the 16th October 1874.

From—S. C. BAYLEY, Esq., Commissioner of Patna, To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Judicial Department.

I HAVE the honor to forward herewith copy of a letter, with enclosures, from the sub-divisional officer, Behar, received with the Magistrate of Patna's endorsement No. 1603G, of 23rd ultimo, reporting a project of constructing a new serai at the town of Behar, for which the Deputy Collector has raised and already realized subscriptions amounting to Rs. 12,500.

2. Except an old house in a wretched condition, there is no other public place available at Behar for the commodation of the large number of people who resort to it for commercial and religious purposes. The proposed serai will therefore supply a great want.

3. The owners of shops on the site is for the serai applied for and obtained compensation for the Sybscribers to the Behar Scrai.

Dated Behar, the 18th September 1874.

From—Shah Nurul Hossein and others, To—The Commissioner of the Patna Bivision.

WE, the humble subscribers to the serm intended to be constructed in the town of Behar, beg to address you the following lines, and respectfully hope you will be good enough to accede to our humble request.

You are well aware that the town of Behar is considered a place of great sanctity, both by the Hindoos and Mahomedans. It contains the tombs of Makhdum Sharaffuddeen and Syed Abrahim Shah, both saints of great celebrity. Thousands of pilgrims assemble in it twice during the year to pay their homage at these shrines. Apart from the religious celebrity of this town, it forms the principal seat of trade between Gya, Patna, Monghyr, and Hazarcebagh. Within twelve miles of it are the hot-springs' temples of Rajgir, which are annually visited by tens of thousands of people professing the Buddhist faith. These reasons cause a great influx of pilgrims into the town during all seasons of the year. But to our shame we have to confess that, besides a few huts, we have no respectable lodgings in the town to offer to the pilgrims for shelter. To remove this standing disgrace, we have thought it proper to erect a seria in the heart of the town for the accommodation of all classes of people. We have up to this moment subscribed the sum of Rs. 12,500 for the purpose. We have made over the money to the members of the Behar Municipality, who have taken a permanent lease of some land, and intend to construct on it 25 rooms for the accommodation of respectable Hindoos and Mussulmans, and a building about 260 cubits long, open on three sides, for the convenience of all the poorer classes of pilgrims and travellers.

As you are the head of the division in which we live and hold property, as the interest you take in the welfare of the Beharis is widely known all through the division, as you are the patron of the Behar school, and the chief promoter of education among our poorer brethren, we beg to approach you to ask your leave to allow us to associate your name with the serai, and call it "Bayley Serai". Though this is a very humble tribute to the great benefits you have conferred on us, we sanguinely hope and humbly pray you will not deny us the privilege, which to our eyes is very great.

No. 4230, dated Cilcutta, the 3rd November 1574.

From—J CRAWIURD, Esq. Offg Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, To—The Commissioner of Patna.

In reply to your letter No. 277J, dated the 16th ultimo, I am directed to

Chowdhoory Tahurul Huq Moulvic Abdul Aziz Baboo Nanhu Singh Baboo Doorga Prosad

Shah Fazul Say id Shah Nurul Hossein Baboo Heer i Nund Baboo Luchmi Narain say that the Lieutenant-Governor thanks the zemindars named in the margin for their liberal contributions for the construction of a serai in the town of Behar. His Honor is also glad to acknowledge the success of the efforts made by Baboo Bimola Charan Bhuttacharjee, the Deputy Collector, to secure the funds necessary to provide so useful a building.

The mean barometer as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

16. The public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1873-74, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years—to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue.

17. Any further information respecting weight or quality of the Opium advertized for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Member in charge entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of Opium, or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the Opium for shipment.

18. It is hereby further notified that under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1875, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided however that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this notification. If the Agent of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above mentioned, the entire quantity of about 45,000 chests of

Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner; and if they shall make application for a quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertized for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French Authorities may so fail to pay for, either by increasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Article of the Convention above referred to.

Article VI .- "With regard to the trade in Opium, it is agreed between the high con-"tracting parties that at each of the periodical sales of that article, there shall be reserved for "the French Government, and delivered upon requisition duly made by the Agents of His Most "Christian Majesty, or by the persons duly appointed by them, the number of chests so sup-"plied for, provided that such supply shall not exceed three hundred chests in each year, and "the price for the same shall be determined by the average rate at which Opium shall have "been sold at every such periodical sale, it being understood that if the quantity of Opium applied "for at any one time shall not be taken on account of the French Government by the Agents "of His Most Christian Majesty within the usual period of delivery, the quantity so applied "for shall nevertheless be considered as so much in reduction of the three hundred chests hereinbefore mentioned. The requisitions for Opium, as aforesaid, are to be addressed to the "Governor-General at Calcutta within thirty days after notice of the intended sales shall have been published in the Government Gazette."—By order of the Member in charge.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE SALT DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

RESOLUTION. REVENUE DEPARTMENT. Calcutta, the 16th November 1874.

READ-

The Report on the Administration of the Salt Department for the year 1873-74, submitted by the Secretary to the Board of Revenue on the 2nd October 1874.

The quantity of salt which paid duty during the year shows a falling off as compared with last year, though it exceeded the quantity upon which duty was paid in 1871-72. The salt revenue of the year amounted to Rs. 2,59,92,661, which exhibits a decrease compared with 1872-73, in which the receipts reached Rs. 2,61,19,562, but it is a higher revenue than was received during any of the four years previous to 1872-73, and is not below the average receipts since the present rates of duty were fixed in 1861-62.

2. Of the several items of which the receipts are made up, there was an increase in the proceeds from the sale of Government salt, owing to the measures taken for clearing the golas at Hidgelee. The duty on excise salt also showed a small increase. The principal falling off was in the receipts from duty on imported salt; and there was also a small decrease in gola rents and in rowanah fees and miscellaneous receipts.

3. The net decrease in the salt revenue of the year, as compared with 1872-73, was Rs. 1,26.901, or more than 4 per cent. of the total receipts.

4. The salt supplies of the last three years have been as follow:—

	1871-72.	1872-73.	1873-74.
Quantity imported and manufactured	 8.014,098	7,531,304	7,841,600
Cleared for consumption	 7,766,133	7 981,286	7,944.247
Balance in stock at close of year	 2,841,001	2,325,766	2,059,418

Both importation and manufacture were greater in 1873-74 than in the previous

There is some discrepancy between the figures given in paragraph 4 of the Report, and the details entered in tables Nos. I and 11, owing apparently to the inclusion in the former of certain quantities of salt found in excess, which are excluded from the latter.

year, the quantity imported showing an increase of 3,08,619* maunds; and that manufactured an increase of 1,677 maunds over the figures of 1872-73. The increased importation was confined to the port of Calcutta, Chittagong showing a decrease of 47,180 maunds. It is explained, however, that this decrease was probably accidental, as some cargoes arrived just after the close of the official year. The increase in Calcutta was due principally to importations from Great Britain. Importation from Italy to Calcutta commenced in 1871-72, in which year 50,591 maunds were received. This quantity was more than trebled in the following year; and in the year under review the importations from Italy again show an increase, though to no great amount.

5. On the other hand, Spain, Portugal, and Zanzibar sent no salt to Bengal during the year; the imports from France fell off from 1,67,781 maunds to 33,567 maunds; and there was also a decrease in the quantity imported from the Arabian and Persian Gulfs. This uncertainty in the foreign sources of salt-supply is not a satisfactory symptom. It may be said that, in round numbers, out of $79\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs of maunds consumed in Bengal last year, $74\frac{3}{4}$ were imported, and out of these $7\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs were supplied from India 1 ports, $58\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs from England, and only $8\frac{3}{4}$ lakhs from all foreign ports together. Where so large a proportion of a necessary like salt is derived from importation, it is manifestly desirable that the supply should be drawn from as extended an area as possible.

6. The clearances for consumption, show a decrease of 37,039 maunds as compared with last year, but the amount cleared did not fall short of an average, and was sufficient to allow of a consumption of about 9½lbs. per head per annum throughout the territories administered by the Government of Bengal. It is believed that there is a small export of salt from Bengal to the North-Western Provinces, but this is more than balanced by importations from Ganjam into the Orissa Tributary Mehals, and along the coast there is a considerable production of salt which is locally consumed and finds no place in the accounts. The available supply, therefore, of salt for the inhabitants of the Lower Provinces may be stated at fully 9½lbs. per head per annum.

7. The stocks in hand at the close of the year were considerably smaller than those of the previous year, which again showed a scrious falling off as compared with 1871-72. The stock in hand was little more than sufficient

First quarter 1872 73 ... 53 824 the first quarter of 1874-75 the shipDitto 1873-74 ... 51,896 ments of Liverpool salt have shown a large* increase, and consequently there

8. The quantity of salt manufactured under the excise rules increased in the 24-Pergunnahs and in Balasore, while there is a large decrease in Poorce, and the Cuttack District has ceased to manufacture altogether. Almost every year shows remarkable fluctuations in the manufacture in the Orissa districts, and the causes of these fluctuations do not seem to be very accurately understood. The Lieutenant-Governor cannot accept as sufficient the explanations given in the present report. If the demand for salt in Northern Cuttack stimulated production in Balasore, the demand in Northern Cuttack might have been expected to have a similar effect on the Poorce manufacture. Balasore, however, showed an increase of 58,281½ maunds as compared with the former year, while there was a decrease of 41,786; maunds in Pooree. It is satisfactory to find that, though manufacture has ceased in Cuttack, there has been an increase in the consumption of duty-paid salt in that district. From Table VII of the report it appears that this increase amounted to 15,202 maunds.

- 9. The sales of imported salt from shipboard showed a decrease in both Calcutta and Chittagong. There was an increase in the clearances of bonded salt in Calcutta, but a small decrease in Chittagong.
- 10. Of salt sold for consumption in the ten districts which lie within the Salt Law limits, there was an increase in five districts and a decrease in the remaining five; but the sales altogether exhibit a net increase of 25,723 maunds. The largest increase was in the Orissa districts and in Midnapore. An attempt is made in the report to explain the causes of the increase or decrease in each of the ten districts: but the Lieutenant-Governor observes that while the high price of food is assigned as a cause of the decrease of sales in Jessore, the same cause is said to have produced the increase in Noakholly. The increase in Midnapore is sufficiently accounted for by the forced sale of Government salt in Hidgelee. The opinion of the Commissioner of Orissa that illicit manufacture on any large scale has ceased to exist in his division is not entirely borne out by the figures given in Table X for the districts of Balasore and Cuttack. The Commissioner's remarks on the artificial dearness of salt in the Tributary Mehals, caused by the attempts of the Rajahs to maintain monopolies of the sale, will be considered in the Political Department.
- 11. Table VIII shows the quantities of salt attached, released, and confiscated during the year. There was a decrease in the number of cases, but a large increase in the quantity attached: the increase being principally in the two districts of the 2t-Pergunnahs and Cuttack. Of the whole quantity attached, 53.4 per cent. was confiscated, and this ratio would have been largely increased but for the release of a cargo of 2,000 maunds in the 2t-Pergunnahs, in which the salt was liable to confiscation under the rules of the department, and the police were fully justified in making the attachment. Some of the figures, however, in the Table appear to call for further explanation than has been given in the report. In the 2t-Pergunnahs, 20 maunds 2 seers 13 chittacks of salt were confiscated in 146 cases, giving an average of only $5\frac{1}{2}$ seers in each case; and the figures for Midnapore exhibit a very similar result. Without further explanation, the Lieutenant-Governor cannot be satisfied that a proper discretion was exercised in making the seizures in these cases.
- The return of cases prosecuted under the Salt Laws, as given in Tables IX and X, shows a decrease in the number both of cases instituted and of persons brought to trial; while the proportion of convictions to persons brought to trial has slightly increased as compared with the figures of last It is satisfactory to observe that the decrease is principally in cases of the more serious classes, such as illicit manufacture and illicit possession of salt; whereas the increase is for the most part in minor and technical offences. This is especially the case in Pooree, the only district which shows a very large increase in the number of cases. In Jessore there was no case of illicit manufacture; and the Commissioner appears to think that this shows a want of energy and of detective ability on the part of the police. But the Lieutenant-Governor observes that by the figures given in Table VII, it appears that the sales for consumption in Jessore amounted to 82,579 maunds among a population of 623,514, and if these figures are correct, they allow for a consumption of about 10-10s. per annum per head of population, which is in excess of the estimated average consumption of the Lower Provinces. It does not, therefore, appear that illicit manufacture, even for private home consumption, can be at all common in Jessore.
- 13. The return of salt passed into the interior of the country shows a total decrease of 66,802 maunds. There was a decrease of 163,473 maunds in the despatches by the water routes, which was partially compensated by an increase of 101,671 maunds in the quantity conveyed by railway. The resolution upon last year's report expressed an anticipation of an increase in the despatches by the Eastern Rengal Railway, and this anticipation has been realised to some extent, though a still greater increase might have been looked for.

ANNUAL REPORT ON THE RECRUITMENT AND TRANSPORT OF LABOR TO THE DISTRICTS OF ASSAM, CACHAR, AND SYLHET FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

RESOLUTION. JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT. Calcutta, the 16th November 1874.

READ-

A letter from the Superintendent of Emigration, No. 776}, dated 21st August 1874, but received on the 16th September following, being his Annual Report on the recruitment and transport of labor to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet for the year 1873-74.

From the returns now submitted it is ascertained that in the past year there has been no abatement in the activity with which of late years laborers have been recruited for the tea districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet. The total number of emigrants despatched to these parts during the past three years was as follows :-

	To Assain.	To Cachar and Sylhet.	Total.
1871-72	 5,979	3,363	9,342
1872-73	 8,140	6,271	14,411
1873-74	 15.351	10.460	25.811

These figures show that the results of the operations of 1873-74 have exceeded the combined results of the two previous years. This great increase in the flow of the laboring population eastward is not to be accounted for by any addition to the inducements held out to the laborer to leave his home, for the terms offered to him in the tea districts remain the same as before. The past year, however, has been one of dearth and of hardship in Bengal, and there is reason for the conclusion that as the scarcity generally prevalent in the western districts, was beginning to be felt during the months of January, February, and March, advantage was taken of the impending pressure to push on recruiting with unusual energy.

The Lieutenant-Governor observes with dissatisfaction that Dr. Macnamara, who held the office of Medical Inspector of Emigrants during the whole period under review, left India on furlough without submitting any report or returns. The Government is therefore left with little information as to his proceedings regarding the medical inspection and supervision of the depôts, and the examination of intending emigrants. From the report of the Superintendent, it appears that the condition of the depôts was throughout satisfactory, and a later statement furnished by Dr. W. J. Palmer contains information regarding the death-rate among the coolies while in Calcutta. It is stated that the standard of physical fitness for labor required was to some extent reduced with a view to afford every facility to the distressed population of the famine-stricken districts to proceed to the labor districts. The total number of intending emigrants admitted to the Calcutta depôts was 15,006. It is not stated how many of these were rejected as unfit to emigrate, and the Government is therefore without the means of judging of the discretion with which the proceedings of the recruiters have been conducted. The total number of deaths in depôt was 63, including 43 which resulted from cholera. The rate of mortality was thus 0.41 against 0.34 in the previous year. It would be satisfactory to have in future more detailed information as to the length of time the coolies were detained under observation in depôt, and the Licutenant-Governor would wish to see some effort made to trace, in the past history of individual batches and in the facts ascertained in depôt, the reasons for those frequent outbursts of disease on the passage which have continued to mark the transport of emigrants.

3. It has long been a subject for complaint in the department, and it is renewed in the present report, that batches of coolies who have been carefully selected, after inspection by a Medical Officer, are exposed to contagion by having to travel in company with coolies with respect to whom no such precautions have been taken. The remedy suggested has been to subject sirdaree coolies to the same detention and examination in depôt before allowing them to proceed on their journey. The subject domands the greater attention from the prominent fact established by the present report, which shows that the practice of recruiting laborers chiefly through garden sirdars, and independently of contractors, is extending rapidly, especially among the managers of plantations in Cachar and Sylhet. It is obvious that the system hitherto allowed, of embarking inspected and non-inspected emigrants to proceed together in crowded vessels, is a dangerous system, and the results of past experience are very much against it. As the existing law, therefore, contains provisions to meet the case, the Lieutenant-Governor is quite decided that arrangements should be made by the Embarkation Agent to subject sirdaree coolics to observation, if he is not satisfied without it, that they can be safely permitted to accompany those forwarded after examination from the depôts. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that the practice has, in a few cases, been adopted of passing coolies recruited by garden sirdars through the Calcutta depôts, and he would wish to have received some expression of opinion from the Superintendent of Emigration as to the effect which the procedure has had in preventing or in detecting disease.

4. Of the 25,811 persons despatched to the labor discrets, 964 are said to have belonged to small batches of not more than twenty coolies who embarked for Assam at Kooshtea! As these are subjected to no merical supervision on the journey, there is an absence of information as to the mortality among them. Of the 24,847 persons who are accounted for in the returns, 21 absconded, 503 died of cholera on the journey, and 215 fell victims to other diseases. The total death-rate on the journey was thus 3.0, 2.75, and 2.72 per cent. for Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, respectively. Dr. Grant clearly shows that the mortality was greatest among coolies recruited by garden sindars—a fact which, attested by the recurrent experience of successive years, demonstrates the necessity for medical observation. This feature is less noticeable in the returns for Cachar and Sylhet than in those for Assam, on the journey to which the percentage of mortality was 2.29 among contractors' coolies, and 3.57 among sirdareo coolies.

5. The experience of the past year confirms the results of previous observation that the mortality is less when the emigrants journey in small batches than when large numbers proceed together. It is to be remembered, however, that the latter course is adopted exclusively on the journey to Assam, which is much longer and more difficult than that to Cachar, and which could not be performed in any reasonable time by country boats. Altogether 42 trips were made by steamers to Assam, carrying 14,387 emigrants. On all but 18, occasions cholera was present. In eight cases only was there a complete absence of mortality, and it is to be remarked that in one of these cases only did the number of emigrants conveyed exceed 100. In seven instances, the rate of mortality on board exceeded 5 per cent. In one case, that of the Simla, which started on the 3rd March last, with 482 coolies on board, it exceeded 11 per cent.

6. How to provide for the salety of the coolies on their journey, is a question involved in much difficulty. Of the causes of the diseases to which they chiefly succumb, little is yet knewn. Change of climate may, as Dr. Nicholson thinks, be chiefly to blame, and there may be a predisposition to cholera in places where it is endemic in the case of those whose lives have been spent in districts which are generally free from it. The measures from which, in Dr. Grant's opinion, the most good is to be expected are the subjection of all recruits to observation and selection by a Medical Officer, and an acceleration of their transit to their destination. The Lieutenant-Governor attaches much importance to the improvement of the means of communication by steamer with Assam; but it is not always the most protracted voyage which is the most disastrous. The cold weather—the season when emigration is most active—is that when the constitution of natives is least able to withstand disease. It is the most fatal to them on the voyage to Assam. It has been suggested that the clothing allowed is insufficient at this season of the year, and the Lieutenant-Governor has directed that the allowance shall be increased in the cold weather; and at the suggestion of the Chief Commissioner of Assam, he has also ordered that additional shelter from the cold winds should be provided for the coolies on board the steamers.

7. By the passing of Act VII (B.C.) of 1873, which came into force in January last, the Labor Transport Fund has been put on a much more satisfactory footing, and there is a prospect of the expenses under the Act being now fairly met by the receipts. The figures given by the Superintendent show that at the close of the past year, so far as the transactions of his Office are concerned, the deficit of the previous year had been turned into a handsome surplus.

8. The increase in emigration has been attended by a large increase in the labors and responsibilities of the Superintendent and of the Embarkation Agent. The thanks of Government are due to Drs. Grant and Nicholson for the efficient manner in which their duties have been discharged.

ORDERED that a copy of the Resolution be sent for information to the Superintendent of Labor Transport, Calcutta, the Embarkation Agent, Kooshtea, and to the Secretary to the Chief Commissioner of Assam.

By order of the Licutenant-Governor of Bengal,

RIVERS THOMPSON,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE JAILS OF THE LOWER PROVINCES OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1873.

RESOLUTION.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.-JAILS.

Calculta, the 17th November 1874.

READ-

The Annual Report on the Jails of the Lower Provinces of Bengal for the year 1873.

This report was received on the 28th September, which is several weeks after the date on which it was due. The failure of the Inspector-General's health may account to some extent for the unusual delay, which the Lieutenant-Governor notices from a desire that the administration reports of large departments should reach the Government as soon as practicable after the close of the year to which they relate.

Frequency of inspection is essential to success in jail administration; and it is creditable to the industry of the Inspector-General that his visitations should have extended to a total of 33 jails besides several lock-ups, and that, with the exception of Orissa, he should have been able personally to examine the jails in all the divisions of the Bengal presidency. It is well that the results of his observations and his proposals for the future should be communicated to Government, but it is a plain rule of administration reports that they treat of things done and of actual present conditions, and not of things proposed. In this view, paragraphs 4 to 7, which deal with large questions connected with the agency to be employed in the superintendence of jails, should not have found a place in the present report. They materially increase the bulk of the volume, and, involving as they do financial considerations of importance, cannot be fitly discussed in the reviews of the proceedings of the past year. Such proposals and recommendations should be reserved for separate communications, on the receipt of which the Lieutenant-Governor will be prepared to consider the views of the Inspector-General with respect to the several points raised by him. The concluding remarks of the 7th paragraph are not suited to a report of this

- kind, and His Honor requests that they be omitted from it.

 3. Chapter II.—Population of Jails.—This chapter abounds in matter of social and general interest. The Lieutenant-Governor will not attempt to criticize the inferences which Mr. Heeley draws, or which might perhaps further be drawn, in connection with the subjects to which it relates. He will only advert to certain special points. The total number of convictions during the year, in which the punishment awarded was imprisonment in whole or in part, was 38,885, or an increase of 2,330 compared with the previous year. An analysis of the figures shows that in certain of the trans-Gangetic districts of the Patna Commissionership the number of such convictions was less than in the previous year. Mr. Heeley observes that these are the districts where the scarcity was undoubtedly most severe, and he explains the coincidence by observing that in famine years a large proportion of the offences that would otherwise be punished with imprisonment are punished with flogging. It is clear, however, that too much stress cannot be laid on this argument; as, at the close of the year under report, the scarcity had only begun, and had not at all approached its climax. We need hardly then look for any "epidemic of crime," such as took place in the carly part of 1866 in the district of Orissa, before the close of 1873; and the Licutenant-Governor's general belief is that there has been no such epidemic even in 1874, the actual year of famine, to the statistics of which we alone can refer to discover the real effects of the scarcity on crime.
- 4. Though the total number of convictions in the year 1873 increased considerably as compared with the two previous years, it is noticeable, as confirmatory of the Lieutenant-Governor's previous remarks, that, with the exception of the Presidency and Orissa divisions, the increase was less in the Patna division, where the famine has been most sorely felt, than in any other; and even in the Patna division the increase was very trifling.
- 5. Regarding the districts according to their proportion of crime to population, it is remarkable that for two years in succession the 24-Pergunnahs and Calcutta are the lowest in the order of criminality of all the districts now under this Government.
- 6. The observations made by the Inspector-General on the increase observable in juvenile crime; on the reason there is to apprehend an increasing resort to the practice of deliberately training up young children to a life of crime; and on the means which should be adopted to reclaim juvenile offenders, are important and point to the need of reformatories. As. Mr. Heeley is aware, the question of establishing a reformatory is under the consideration of Government on the report of the committee recently appointed to examine the subject. Legislation is necessary to give full effect to the measure, and funds will have to be provided for the establishment of a suitable institution.
- 7. It is unsatisfactory to learn from the abstract given in paragraph 24 that in the course of the year 1,072 males and 5 females were convicted of robbery and dacoity. These crimes, the Lieutenant-Governor learns with dissatisfaction, have largely increased in Rungpore and Purneah. Gya and Moorshedabad have also contributed largely to swell the total. This is not creditable to the administration of the district officers, whose attention will be called to the facts. In Midnapore these crimes are decreasing, though in point of the number of persons convicted of them this district heads the list. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction that a similar decrease has taken place in Calcutta.
- 8. The interest of the table given in paragraph 27 of the report, to show the religion, caste, and occupation of convicts admitted to jail, would be enhanced if a percentage were struck of their numbers on the totals of the several castes as returned in the census. No less than 1,262 Brahmins and 1,099 Kayasths were admitted to jail in the course of the year. The Lieutenant-Governor thinks it somewhat melancholy to see so many prisoners of these two castes, which enjoy so many advantages, social and other. The immunity from crime, or at least from punishment, enjoyed by the fishermen caste continues to be very marked. The Lieutenant-Governor doubts, from what he has seen of the numerous rivers of Bengal, whether the explanation offered—that those who pass their lives on the water can commit but few crimes and can easily escape—can be accepted, and vigilance must continue to be directed to the point.

9. Regarding the subject of re-convictions, it is certainly not possible to believe that the Superintendents of the Midnapore and Tirhoot Jails can have been at any pains to discover how many of their prisoners had been previously convicted. The Lieutenant-Governor expects that they will in future give the subject greater attention. The care with which Mr. Lambert, the Deputy Commissioner of Police in Calcutta, has prepared a complete register of habitual criminals is very commendable; and the attention of the Mofussil magistrates will be called to the advantages which might be secured by maintaining a similar register at the head-quarters of each district, from which the antecedents of any criminal previously known to the police and again put on trial before any of the courts might be readily ascertained. The district superintendents of police, acting under the magistrates' orders, will be instructed to keep up such a register in their offices.

CHAPTER III.—Sanitary.—In the year under review the total number of deaths in the jails, including lock-ups, was 1,024 against 1,063 in 1872 and 759 in 1871. The death-rate was thus 4.77, or .42 less than in the previous year. Mr. Heeley maintains that there can be no grounds for attributing the mortality in the Bengal jails to any want of attention on the part of jail officers, who are apt, he says, to sacrifice much to sanitary considerations. It is represented that where the most pains have been taken the mortality is the greatest, and that there is no prospect of improvement till the worst of the jails are replaced by new ones in healthy localities. From what the Lieutenant-Governor has himself seen, his own impression coincides with that of the Inspector-General. He regards the death-rate as not unsatisfactory in most, though not all, of the jails. The death-rate in the jails at Chumparun, Bhagulpore, Gya, Tirhoot, and Burdwan he regards as suggestive of sad considerations. Chumparun maintains the unsatisfactory position at the head of the list of unhealthy jails in these provinces. The death-rate which last year was 13.75 is returned in 1873 at 11.74, and this notwithstanding a small average number detained in it, and these only for short periods of imprisonment. In Tirhoot and Gya also the mortality has been considerable. The former, though showing improvement as compared with the preceding year, has suffered much from the scourge of dysentery, which was very fatal to the prisoners; while in the Gya Jail the death-rate has nearly doubled, being returned now at 13:71 against 7:03 in 1872. In Bhagulpore, both the central and district jails, the mortality has been considerably heavy; and here nothing can be alleged against the situation of the jails, which, as regards the central jail especially, was chiefly selected for its healthy position in the country, away from crowded bazars and an impure atmosphere. As contrasted with last year, the jails at Julpigoree, Backergunge, and Baraset, and the Midnapore Central Jail, show a great improvement, though there is room for a great deal more in the three first named. In Moorshedabad there was a striking change for the better. In his 66th paragraph Mr. Heeley has given at some length an analysis of the sanitary result of transferring prisoners. The facts here stated tell gravely against the Bhagulpore Jail and partly against the Gya Jail. question is whether the bad result in Bhagulpore arises solely from cholera outbreaks or from other and more permanent causes.

11. In reviewing generally the statistics of prison mortality the Inspector-General of Jails has instituted a comparison between the death-rate prevalent in the past year in the different provinces of Lower Bengal and the North-Western

Provinces and Oudh, with the following results:—

Orisea					•••	•••	1.36

Death-rute

The return re-establishes the conviction of past experience as regards the very remarkable contrast between Behar (bearing the reputation of an extremely healthy province) and Bengal, which, especially in its eastern districts, is considered very unhealthy. Behar jails suffer in comparison with Bengal on one side and with the districts to the north-west of it on the other. No reasonable explanation has yet been given for this difference; for, though some of the Behar jails are badly situated, the reproach does not attach to others in the same province, which yet exhibit excessive unhealthiness, and this notwithstanding the most careful attention in recent years to sanitary considerations. The Lieutenant-Governor has therefore determined to prosecute the inquiries which his predecessor had suggested for the appointment of a Commission to examine the subject; and arrangements have been made under which the Inspector-General of Jails and the Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal should be associated with a medical officer having jail experience to report upon the condition of the jails in Behar.

12. Chapter IV.—Jail Buildings.—There has been a failure to carry out projects for improvements in many jails, and the construction of some new ones has been deferred of late. There has been financial pressure owing to famine, and the claims of jail buildings, however important, have had to be postponed for matters of greater importance. The delay in carrying out improvements in lock-ups, the systematic revision of which had been undertaken, was perhaps fortunate, as the plan proposed for extensions and alterations in them will probably be found to be too expensive. From recent visits to several sub-divisions, especially in the eastern districts, the Lieutenant-Governor is confirmed in the opinion that the outlay proposed for these small jails is out of all proportion to the necessities of the case.

Mr. Heeley complains of obstructiveness on the part of subordinate officers in the Public Works Department. The observations contained in his 71st paragraph on the difficulties occasioned by tardiness on their part in the execution of orders will be communicated to the Department Public Works of this Government. If, however, he desires to complain of the action of the Department Public Works, he should do so in a separate reference. His 75th paragraph is not suited to a report of this kind, and should not have been It refers to a matter on which it would not be just for His Honor to form a judgment without hearing the explanations of the Department of Public One-sided statements of the nature contained in this paragraph are seldom productive of good. Similarly the remark in the 76th paragraph about insufficient expenditure on juil buildings under former administrations is somewhat out of place, and touches on subjects regarding which His Honor is not in a position to judge properly. The requirements of district jails, which the Inspector-General notices in detail, will be borne in mind so far as financial considerations and the claims of other departments may admit. new buildings and of improvements in existing jails is a very long one; and it may safely be said that if ten new jails are wanted in Bengal, besides important changes in others which are at present imperfect, the expenditure required must extend over several years. Considering the demands upon Government in other directions, it cannot be said that the Jail Department has been neglected when it is shown that the expenditure on jails and lock-ups by the Public Works. Department in 1873 came to more than four lakks of rupees, securing the completion of three central jails and expensive repairs and alterations in several others. In the preparation of his next budget estimates the Inspector-General of Jails should note especially the buildings and works to the construction of which he attaches the greatest importance.

CHAPTER V.—Guards and Escapes.—The substitution of jail warders for police guards has occupied much of the attention of the Inspector-General. The change has been effected in Darjoding, Baraset, Purneah, and Alipore. It has been ordered in Arrah and recommended in several other jails. It is stated by the Inspector-General of Jails that it is essential to the new system that "an addition should be made to the staff of warders, more then compensated for by the diminution in the staff of police." The subject was one which had been under the consideration of the late Lieutenant-Governor, who was in favour of the entire substitution of warders for police for the ordinary purposes of jail guarding. The principle, nowever, upon which he gave support to the proposition was that, while there was a necessity of increasing the staff of regular warders, the police guards attached to the jails "should be correspondingly diminished." From the correspondence which has passed upon the subject it appears that while the Jail Department is desirous of establishing the warder system in most jails with the object of securing increased efficiency in the internal discipline of jails at the expense of the police force employed merely as guards, the Police Department demur to the reduction of the police reserves which supply these guards, and especially to such reductions in the It is manifest that without material reductions in the police higher grades. the arrangements for warders cannot be carried out; for, in the present financial exigencies, the Government cannot stand committed to a largely increased expenditure on jails, and it seems hardly advisable to allow of the increase in the cost of warder establishments, especially as, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, the work can be done by the existing police if they are properly instructed. The Lieutenant-Governor cannot at all judge of the questions raised by the Inspector-General as to the efficiency and zeal with which the police guards generally perform these duties, and the amount of supervision which is exercised over them, without hearing the explanations of the Police Department upon these points. But regarding the question from the Government point of view the Lieutenant-Governor can certainly say that the question is not one for the interest of the jails only, but for the interest of the police also. If Government had large pecuniary resources at its disposal, it would be well that it should have separate warder establishments for guarding the jails, and at the same time maintain the police force at its existing strength. present position it uses its police reserves for guarding the jails; and, by thus preventing additional expense in the Jail Department, retains at its disposal a trained body of men, drilled to the use of arms, for any sudden emergency in which a police force is required. Again, another condition upon which the introduction of the warder system was approved was that the magistrates of districts should accept the arrangements. It is manifest that in several districts the local authorities are opposed to the proposed changes; and in large jails containing many dangerous prisoners it is not surprising that officers bearing the actual responsibility of the safe custody of convicts should hesitate to surrender the armed guards who now perform the duties of watch and ward over the jails. It is clear, then, that if the Inspector-General's views are to have effect, they can be adopted only tentatively and gradually. With experience of its working some definite solution of the question may be secured. At the same time the Lieutenant-Governor must insist that, if the antagonism which he supposes to exist between the Jail and Police Departments really exists, it must at once be put a stop to; and he regrets that he cannot approve of such a statement as that made in the 83rd paragraph with respect to the Inspector-General of Police being made in a report of this nature. If the Inspector-General of Jails desires to complain of the Police Department, he can do so by a separate reference.

14. The total number of escapes during the year was 146, or 67 less than in the previous year. Including prisoners who escaped in previous years, the number of recaptures was 141. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that many of these were due to the energy and success of the police. On the other hand the 88th paragraph of the report contains a serious catalogue of escapes attributed to their carelessness or misconduct. The attention of the Police Department will be called to the matter. Mr. Heeley's complaint that prisoners in most jails, in violation of all rule, are sent outside the jail for some purpose or another is a reasonble one, and the attention of all magistrates will be drawn to the necessity of enforcing a strict adherence to the rules laid down regarding the practice.

15. CHAPTER VI.—Internal Discipline.—During the year the subject connected with the pay of jailors has been under consideration; and after some correspondence it has been arranged that, except in the case of the Deputy Superintendent of the Alipore Jail, the commission payable to jailors on the sale of jail manufactures should be abolished, and that the jails of the Lower Provinces being graded according to the average number of the population in them, a progressive salary should be assigned to each grade. It is now represented that the system errs on the side of inadequate pay for the labours and responsibilities of the office, and Mr. Heeley urges, with much reason, the claims of the jailors to better remuneration. It is again a question of money, and the Inspector-Generals admits the difficulties of Government in meeting demands for larger expenditure. All that the Lieutenant-Governor can at present say is that he recognises the force of the arguments used on behalf of the jailors and will bear the matter in mind.

- The year under report has been characterised by the advance which has been made in the introduction of the new system of classification of convicted prisoners, which Mr. Heeley has devised with a careful attention to all its details with the special object of preserving from the tainting influence of jail acquaintanceships juveniles of whose reclamation there is some hope and persons not usually addicted to crime, or who have been guilty of offences not indicating any great moral obliquity. Mr. Heeley has explained fully the principles upon which the new system is based, which, in its main features, are sound and practical. The beneficent results to be realised from their adoption depend upon an intelligent attention to many details on the part of the local jail officers; and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to find that the Inspector-General, in his inspection tours, has personally supervised the working of the measure. The greatest difficulty experienced in its introduction has arisen from the fact that the jails are not generally adapted for classification; yet with appliances at hand, such as they are, it is possible to do much; and in most though not all the jails which the Lieutenant-Governor has seen, the distribution of the different classes of prisoners in accordance with the rules laid down is fairly carried out in the work-sheds. His Honor quite concurs with the Inspector-General in ruling that it can and must be done in all, and that thoroughly.
- Section III of the report, which deals with the question of jail rewards and the mark system introduced during this year into the jails of Bengal, contains much information of great interest. It appears that, so far as the now. rules have yet had a fair trial, from the majority of the opinions quoted in the report they have been successful. The Lieutenant-Governor fully believes in the moral effect of such a system of rewards where carefully and impartially administered, and he is glad to find, from the concurrent testimony of nearly all the superintendents of jails in these provinces, that the experience of other places in favour of the principle where the system has been in force is confirmed. When officers who have long had charge of jails in India, and are acquainted with the difficulties of jail management, speak of the system "as thoroughly understood by the prisoners, and much appreciated by them;" "of the strong desire of prisoners to obtain remission"; "of the fining marks being an effectual punishment for smaller offences," and "of the great assistance which it gives to superintendents in making the prisoners work steadily and behave in an orderly manner," it is clear that the scheme has been inaugurated successfully, and that a just application of the rules gives a power in the hands of the superintendents which must materially assist in the maintenance of discipline and the general improvement of jail administration. It secures an especial advantage in a matter where previous practice was defective, inasmuch as it gives to a superintendent the best possible means of appraising his own menthe good workers and the indolent—and thus, in addition to the beneficial effect upon the prisoners themselves, enables an officer in charge of jails to select the men he requires for offices of trust. The Lieutenant-Governor notices the favourable opinion which Dr. Jackson, at Dehree, records upon this point, in the propriety of which he fully concurs.
- 18. The question of extending the benefits of the plan to other classes than those whom it was originally contemplated to bring under the rules has been under the consideration of Government. Their applicability to habitual offenders has been called in question, but the successful experience in England and the North-Western Provinces, where the system is applied to the most hardened offenders, justifies the decision of extending the rules to habitual criminals. Where measures of repression have failed, there is a hope in a method which gives incentives to industry and orderly conduct. With increased establishments there is no reason why even short-termed prisoners should not come under the rules.
- 19. As regards the subject of "conditional" remission, the abolition of which is suggested by the Inspector-General, the Lieutenant-Governor would prefer that the application should be submitted in a separate reference. It is understood that many magistrates of districts, opposed to the system of any remission, as it casts upon their districts men whom they have had trouble in arresting and convicting of crimes, regard the enforcement of conditions with favour as the only terms upon which the rules can be properly worked. The Lieutenant-Governor is not satisfied that such an opinion is tenable, and fears that the surveillance which accompanies conditional release might often be exercised with harshness and oppresive rigour; but, before giving definite orders on the question, he thinks it right that the subject should be discussed on its merits after communication with executive officers who are responsible for the security and the good order of their districts.

- 20. The number of offences against prison discipline was 26,464 against 20,026 in the present year. His Honor regards this particular increase as a proof that discipline is growing stricter. He is glad to learn that the frequency of corporal punishment is diminishing. This feature is most marked in the Presidency and Beerbhoom Jails.
- 21. That the pettiest criminals should be kept hard at work on the oilmill, while the worst criminals are at once placed on comparatively easy work, is obviously unreasonable, and this circumstance has unfavourably impressed the Lieutenant-Governor during his various visits. He entirely concurs in thinking that an effort should be made to impose a certain amount of penal labour on the worst classes of criminals irrespective of the length of their sentences.
- 22. CHAPTER VII.—Expenditure and Profit.—The average annual cost of a prisoner to the State during the year under review was Rs. 80-11-8 against Rs. 73-2-3 in 1872. Distributing the charges among the various departments, they stood as follows:—

	Average cost per head in 1873.	Average cost per head in 1872.	Increase.	Docrease.
	Rs A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.	Rs. A. P.
Jail Department	52 3 8	50 11 5	1 8 3	••
Police Department Public Works Depart-	9 9 9	10 3 5	•••••	0 9 8
ment	18 14 3	12 3 5	6 10 10	•••••
Total	80 11 8	73 2 3	7 9 5	0 9 8

The slight, saving in the Police Department is a casual one. The substitution of warders for police guards in certain jails should result in a further decrease in the charges of this department for the current year. The expenditure in the Public Works Department amounted to Rs. 2,50,232, or Rs. 1,54,653 in excess of the previous year. As the expenditure on original works exceeded that in the previous year by Rs. 41,121 only, the accounts of the current year should show a considerable reduction under the head of repairs, to which the greater part of the increase in the past year is chargeable. In hospital and clothing charges the returns show some diminution both in jails and in lock-ups. The reduction in the cost of clothing is, however, said to be nominal, and to be due chiefly to the non-adjustment of the accounts before the close of the year. Economy is, however, said to have been practised at the Hazareebagh European. Penitentiary in this respect.

Taking, as a whole, the charges of the Jail Department, for the control of which the Inspector-General is immediately responsible, there was an increase of expenditure amounting to Rs. 80,370, which is less by some Rs. 6,000 than the increase in the single item of rations. These cost in the past year Rs. 6,27,505, which represents an increased cost per prisoner of Rs. 1-8-10 in jails, of Rs. 2-13-4 in lock-ups. With the prices of rice and wheat averaging 14 and 19 per cent. respectively over the prices current in 1872, this was to be expected. High as the dieting charges always are in the Assam jails, there was an increase at Seebsaugor, against which may be placed a considerable saving effected at Luckimpore. The Pooree, Rajmehal, and Cuttack jails are mentioned as having been economically managed. At Julpigoree the exercise of "a reasonable amount of supervision" resulted in a decrease of expenditure, or rather, as the Inspector-General says, of "peculation among subordinates." The effect of the management in the Bhagulpore central and district jails appears be different: the cost of rations having increased in the one and decreased in the other. In Sarun, Tirhoot, and Shahabad, all districts affected by the scarcity, the cost of dieting the prisoners has exceeded the average. Taking the jails all round, however, and deducting the cost of grain stored in advance for the current year, the increase in dieting charges was only Rs. 53,824. Excluding exceptional and petty jails, the Licutenant-Governor considers the average cost in most of the rest to be fair and indicative of good and economical administration on the whole.

- 23. In this as on the last occasion Mr. Heeley, in dealing with the question of jail profits, has considered the Alipore Jail separately. Comparing the cash remittances from all other jails with the amount drawn by them on account of manufactures, the balance or cash profit to their credit was only Rs. 35,800; a sum less than in the previous year, and representing barely 10 per cent. on the cash outlay, notwithstanding the absence of any charge for Considering, however, that the cash statement does not include the value of articles supplied to other jails, it is reasonable that the Inspector-General should ask that results should not be judged by this standard alone. Deducting cash received from the total value of sales made, the balance of profits appear to be Rs. 72,100 against Rs. 61,800 in the previous year. The total outturn of prison labour shows an increase of Rs. 91,800, and amounted in all to Rs. 4,83,700. Deducting from this the total expenditure in cash and materials, the net outturn of prisoners' labour was Rs. 1,23,500. Against this, however, there is the fact that the value of manufactured goods in hand had increased at the close of the year by Rs. 41,900, and was valued in all at Rs. 1,21,200, or very little less than the final balance of profit struck after this manner. To account for this, the Inspector-General suggests that, owing to the abolition of commission, there is a want of incentive to the jailors to press sales. It must be admitted, however, that we are far from having yet discovered the proper direction in which to direct the industry of many of our jails, and that much of the labour in them must necessarily be employed unprofitably. The Lioutenant-Governor trusts that with the assistance of the Superintendent of Jail Manufactures, who has now been appointed, much may be done to systematise the application of prison labour, and that fresh and profitable methods of utilizing it may be devised. Mr. Heeley hopes much from the establishment of central jails, and does not despair of making, at some future time, income equal expenditure. Schemes have already been matured for providing profitable employment in the Presidency and in the Bhagulpore jails. These will entail a very heavy initial expenditure for plant and machinery, and will require careful consideration before their adoption can be sanctioned.
- 24. The great inducement to extend the use of machinery in the Bengal jails is the success which has attended its introduction at Alipore. The final balance of profit on the outturn, minus the expenditure, was here Rs. 2,55,000 against Rs. 1,81,500 in the previous year. The net profits of the press are stated to have been Rs. 1,09,858 against Rs. 1,05,904 in the previous year. The latter figures do not, however, represent cash receipts, but are merely bookcarnings. Combining the results at Alipore with those in the mofussil, the total balance of profit for all jails was Rs. 3,78,500 against Rs. 2,72,400. Mr. Heeley repeats his remarks, made in the previous year, regarding the necessity of invisting on the more profitable working of the district jails, in view of the uncertainty of the continuance of the prosperity of the Alipore mill. He points out that profits are welcome, not only on their own account, but because they are an indication of steady hard-work and good discipline. His Honor is not inclined to underrate the importance of this test, and he thinks it an object that machinery should be introduced into the jails generally should the application of the test be thus rendered more complete.
- 25. The estimated carnings of prisoners on special works are shown to have amounted to Rs. 73,689-14 in all at the three central jails at Bhagulpore, Hazareebagh, and Midnapore; at Dehree they amounted to Rs. 30,383. In a separate communication the Inspector-General has shown that instead of any increased expenditure to the Government there has been a considerable saving of cost, as far as the Jail Department is concerned, by the employment, on the Soanc canal works, of the prisoners who were formerly at Deegha. On a comparison of the results for six years past, it appears that the net saving per head is Rs. 8-11-7. This result is encouraging, but it is unfortunate that this camp is unable yet to show any balance of profit, though there is an improvement in the work.

Appended to the Inspector-General's report is a memorandum by Mr. Donaldson, Superintendent of Jail Manufacture, on the result of his inspection last year of some of the principal English prisons. The thanks of Government are due to him for the care with which he has recorded his observations. and for the valuable suggestions which he makes for the improvement of the Bengal system of prison labour. The adoption of some of these, such as the proposal to abolish simple imprisonment, may be rendered impossible by considerations quite apart from those appertaining to jail administration; others may be usefully considered with a view to their adoption. There is no reason why combined labour should not be adopted in the Bengal jails, with the restrictions necessary to keep separate the prisoners of the Whatever may be the force of the arguments generally different classes. advanced against Government competing in the market against free producers, there can be no objection to its availing itself of the means at its disposal for the supply of the wants of its various departments. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that it may be possible on this principle to select special industries to be carried out in special jails. To a certain extent this must await the introduction of costly machinery and improved appliances, but the Lieutenant-Governor hopes for much from the professional assistance which Mr. Donaldson will have it in his power to give to Superintendents of jails in the mofussil in the choice of the most profitable industries. With existing means penal labour can seldom be exacted with a profit, and the Lieutenant-Governor concurs in thinking that in outlying district jails it would be better to make a free use of the inexpensive native oil-mill than to go to the expense of providing costly tread-mills, or other appliances of an expensive character. It is, however, important that these should exist in the larger jails, where there is always a sufficient number of prisoners to utilize them fully. His Honor thinks the proposal to introduce light machine work, with a view to render profitable the labour of those who are mentally or physically incapable of other profitable labour, worthy of attention. The method adopted at Wakefield prison of imposing first-class hard labour on prisoners employed in weaving coir might perhaps be with advantage introduced in Bengal if it is not already employed. The proposal to extend the Alipore jute mill, and to introduce a good baling press, will be considered if separately submitted by the Inspector-General. His proposals with respect to providing employment for the prisoners in the Presidency Jail are already under consideration.

27. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure the favourable testimony borne by the Inspector-General to the services of the officers (noted in the RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL GENERAL REPORT OF THE CHITTAGONG DIVISION FOR 1873-74.

RESOLUTION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT .- MISCELLANEOUS No. 3463.

Calcutta, the 13th November 1874.

READ-

The Annual General Report of the Chittagong Division for 1873-74.

The report was received very late, and nothing is said as to the dates of receipt of district officers' reports by the Commissioner. The Lieutenant-Governor expects greater punctuality to be observed in future. The Commissioner, Mr. Mangles, did not take charge of the division until after the close of the year under report. He, however, is fortunate in the possession of local knowledge and experience gained at previous periods, and is consequently able to present a report of much interest. The Lieutenant-Governor's thanks are due to Mr. Mangles and the district officers, especially to Mr. Alexander, the

- The weather during the year was on the whole favourable, and the outturn of the rice harvest throughout the division was fully up to the average. The Commissioner, in his tenth paragraph, endeavours to make some estimate of the quantity of land devoted to food-crops in each district; but he has adopted a variable unit for his calculation, and the proportion of land devoted to rice cultivation in each district is not as clearly set forth as could be wished. The Lieutenant-Governor is aware that Chittagong itself is a district which does not ordinarily produce a large rice surplus, but he would have expected that a larger area than 460,000 acres would have been sown with foodcrops in the district. Even if the whole of this area is sown with rice, and an average produce of 12 maunds of rice to an acre is accepted, the total rice produce of the district will only a little exceed $5\frac{1}{2}$ million maunds, from which deductions must be made for wastage and seed-grain. The population of the district, on the other hand, is 1,127,000, which, at the ordinary rate of six maunds per head per annum, will consume 63 million maunds of rice, requiring thus an apparent deficit of about 1½ millions of maunds to be made good by importation into the district. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, does not believe that Chittagong is to be included among the Bengal districts which import rice for their own consumption, and requests the Commissioner to give further consideration to this subject. Mr. Maugles estimates that in the district of Noakholly about 747,000 acres are devoted to the cultivation of rice and pulses—which would allow of about 700,000 acres being cultivated with rice—and that about 1,150,000 acres are cultivated with rice in Tipperah. The accuracy of the Tipperah estimate appears questionable. There are stated to be only 100,000 acres not under rice; but jute cultivation is put down at 78,000 acres, which leaves only 22,000 acres for all other crops. If we accept the average produce to be 12 maunds to an acre, and the average consumption to be 6 maunds per head of the population, we find after allowing for seed-grain, &c., that the Commissioner's estimates admit of an ordinary exportation of over 2 million maunds of rice from Noakholly, and of over 4 million maunds from Tipperah. The Lieutenant-Governor is not inclined to consider that these estimates are at all excessive.
- 3. The larger proportion of this surplus produce finds its way westwards, and joins with the vast quantity of rice which every year is imported by river and canal from Eastern Bengal into Calcutta and its neighbourhood, and into Behar. But there is also a considerable trade in rice from the sea-port of Chittagong. The quantities exported come principally from Tipperah and Noakholly, and are sent, not to Europe, but to the Indian ports, and also to Ceylon and the Mauritius. During the past season, however, the trade from Chittagong was slack in consequence of the high prices that were induced by the local demand up-country; and at one time the trade of the port was almost at a stand-still for want of sufficient stocks, even for the comparatively small number of ships that entered. The sea exports of rice from Chittagong are stated at 2,549,892 maunds in 1872-73, and at 1,366,809 maunds in 1873-74.

4. The net customs revenue of the port shows a slight decrease in con1872-73.—Rs. 10.88,167.
1873-74.—Rs. 9,37,667.
sequence of the general diminution of trade; but there are no reasons for considering this depression to be more than temporary. The port, as remarked by Mr. Mangles, has been professionally pronounced to be one of the best in India, and its near proximity to rice-growing districts of large surplus produce gives it advantages which, as its position becomes better known, and as facilities for inland communication are improved, will no doubt establish its trade upon a firm basis of increasing prosperity.

b. The Lieutenant-Governor notices that the cultivation of tea continues to prosper in the Chittagong district, and that the outturn last year was very favourable. The official returns lately supplied show that the average produce per acro is 169lb in this division, which is decidedly less than the average produce of the Assam plant; but Mr. Mangles considers that as good soil for tea is procurable in Chittagong as in any part of India, and he mentions one garden where the extraordinary outturn of as much as 12 maunds or about

The Commissioner has taken the opportunity of quoting in this report some of the principal results obtained by the late census. No less than 68 per cent. of the population of the division is Mahomedan; in Noakholly the Mahomedans actually constitute three-fourths of the population—a very large proportion of the inhabitants of this district devoting itself to boating and scafaring pursuits, and, as has been remarked, all the sailors of the east are Mussulmans. Speaking next of the Hindoo community, Mr. Mangles observes that "the largest proportion is, as may be expected, made up of Kayasths." The Lieutenant-Governor was, however, not prepared to find such a result; and he doubts whether it is the case that in any other part of Bengal the Kayasth portion of the community predominates among the Hindoo population. The question is one of some interest; for it has, on the other hand, been stated that the numbers of the members of the Kayasth castes in the Lower Provinces have of late years been decreasing, and in Behar it is certain that the Kayasths.do not form numerically an important element in the population. The number of Hindoos in the division who devote themselves to agriculture is far less than the aggregate number of Hindoo weavers and artizans, and the agriculture of the division is almost entirely carried on by Mahomedan cultivators. The year is said not to have been a healthy one, but its unhealthiness or otherwise can hardly be tested by the mortuary statistics of the division, which, even in the selected areas, have not been very accurately ascertained. In the municipal limits of Chittagong the death-rate is recorded at 33 per thousand; in those of Noakholly at 33, and in those of Tipperah at 26 per thousand. It will be necessary to bestow more care and attention upon these returns if the results are to possess any real value.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor has read with interest the Commissioner's observations regarding the causes of the unhealthiness of Chittagong, which has now acquired so unenviable a reputation among Bengal districts. Although the district is generally unhealthy, sickness does not prevail to the same degree in the interior as in the thickly populated limits of the station itself. The Commissioner has been urging sanitary measures on the municipality of Chittagong, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes soon to hear that the municipal commissioners have, with the funds at their disposal, and the grant of Rs. 30,000 lately accorded them by Government, commenced to carry out sanitary improvements in the direction indicated by the Commissioner.

8. The prices of food last year were abnormal, owing to the large exportations which took place. In Noakholly and Tipperah the price of rice reached three rupees a manud, which is more than double the ordinary extreme rates reached during the season, and indicates clearly the decisive influence of the operations of trade towards equalising prices in a province even as large as Bengal. The division as a whole, however, profited largely by the scarcity which prevailed in the western districts of Bengal. There are few persons in the division who have not some land, or are entirely unconnect and who have not benefited by the demand for rice for export, a high prices they have realised thereby. In spite of high prices, also, Commissioner, there has been no trace of actual want even among the classes, and beggars may be said to be almost unknown.

- 9. The Lieutenant-Governor is gratified to observe the successful proposed for road cess operations in the Chittagong division. In Tipperah valuations are reported by the Collector to have been successfully finishe without difficulty, and without any severe or harsh measures being resorted to. Mr. Mangles adds that the people fully understand the advantages of roads being made passable and of khalls or streams being opened for navigation, and remarks that they are all already in the habit of co-operating for the purpose of keeping up their village paths and water-courses. He suggests the extension of the Act in this division. The question of extending the Act generally over Bengal has already been under the consideration of Government, and orders have been passed for its extension to the districts of Noakholly and Chittagong.
- 10. The Lieutenant-Governor notices also as satisfactory that the year under review was unmarked by disturbance in the relations between landlord and tenant. In the Tipperah district these questions had given rise to much anxiety, and in the preceding year the Civil Courts had been choked by the institution of suits by the landlords. These suits have now decreased, and rent disputes are less numerous, and are said to excite less attention than formerly.
- 11. The importance of acquiring correct statistical information as far as possible is fully recognised by the Commissioner, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that, with the aid of the subordinate executive establishments, which are stated in the report to have been of great service to the executive heads of districts, our knowledge of the conditions of labour, cultivation, and manufactures in this division, may be much improved.
- that the transfer of rent suits from the Revenue to the Civil Courts has been a change decidedly in favour of the ryots. The multiplication of courts for the determination of rent suits has been a convenience to the ryots. It is said that fewer rent suits are heard ex parte now than formerly, and it is admitted that trials are conducted with care and precision. On the other hand, from an administrative point of view, Mr. Mangles regrets that the district officers have lost their jurisdiction under the rent law, and it is true that landlords have some reason to complain of the extra expense, delay, and difficulty, which they at present experience in realising their rents owing to the procedure followed in the Civil Courts. The Lieutenant-Governor believes that the Commissioner's arguments well express what is to be said on both sides of this question, which has given rise to so much discussion. The subject is under His Honor's careful observation, as it was under that of his predecessor.
- 13. The progress of educational measures has been satisfactory, and there is apparently no want of indigenous primary education in this division. Mr. Mangles does not consider that in the matter of education the districts of the Chittagong division are at all in a backward condition. On the contrary, as regards primary education and such learning as is suitable to the social status and position of the large bulk of the inhabitants, he believes that the division would contrast very favourably with any other in the province, and there can, he says, be no question that the ordinary ryots and labourers are comparatively well educated and intelligent.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor fully acknowledges the services of the Commissioners who were in charge of the division during the year, Mr. H. Hankey, Mr. F. C. Fowle, and Mr. Horace A. Cockerell, and of the district officers and their subordinates.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT FOR THE COOCH BEHAR DIVISION FOR 1873-74.

RESOLUTION.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.-MISCELLANEOUS, No. 3464.

Calcutta, the 13th November 1874.

READ-

The Annual Administration Report for the Cooch Behar Division for 1873-74.

The present excellent Commissioner, Sir William Herschel, has been in charge of the division for one month only of the year under review.

The late Commissioner, Mr. Metealfe, and the Deputy Commissioners, Mr. Edgar and Captain Money, were for a long time in the interior of their districts on inspection duty, and seem to leave made useful tours. The Lieutenant-Governor especially notes the Commissioner's report to the effect that the knowledge acquired by Mr. Edgar during his mofussil tours is always fruitful, because "he has the art of coming very close to the real needs and feelings of the people."

The rainfall during the year was very short, being only 70 inches against an average of 120 inches at Darjeeling; and 87 inches against 119 at Julpigoree. The rain, also, was very unseasonable, as there was a drought in May which proved injurious to the autumn crops, and a failure from July to October, the needful months for the great rice harvests. As a consequence, the rice crop suffered much everywhere, except in the Dooars and in the very north of Julpigoree; and it was almost totally destroyed over considerable areas in the south of that district. Jute, which is a crop of great importance in this division, especially in Julpigoree, gave only a moderate outturn; but tobacco fortunately gave a good crop, and the cold weather and spring crops were also favorable. Tea, which occupies by far the largest part of the cultivated area of the Darjeeling district, and over that area employs at least three-fourths of the population, was a fair crop, and the outturn is said to be steadily increasing.

4. It is evident from the Commissioner's account that the people of the division are, on the whole, well-off. The very high prices that have prevailed this year occasioned pressure, but not distress until late in the season, and there was "not a single sign of impatience against any one except exporters." Money, writes Sir William Herschel, is abundant; cowries are used indeed, but pice much more so. The habit of living in separate patriarchal fashion, and not gathering in villages, helps also to keep the style of living simple, but liberal. The people have three good meals a day. That the people indeed are well-todo is proved most clearly by the dearth of labor that prevails in the division. Earth-work, for instance, is very frequently refused by laborers, and the Commissioner has not known offers made high enough to overcome the objection. Captain Money, the Deputy Commissioner of Julpigoree, says that he has heard one rupee a day refused.

The Lieutenant-Governor notes the marked improvement of the tobacco trade in this division; indeed tobacco last year, realised 50 per cent. better prices than usual all round. The Commissioner states that an experiment in manufacturing tobacco is being tried at Cooch Behar, which, if it succeeds, will affect the rest of the division, and that the proper cultivation and manufacture of tobacco is said to be one of the objects of the planters who have taken land in the Dooars.

In commenting on public feeling in the division, Sir W. Herschel dwells on the effect of the measures for famine relief. "The general impression I have formed is," be writes, "that the unprecedented appearance of the ruling power, whether in Cooch Behar or in British territory, has been received with silent wonder, with an absence of greed, and a sincerity of gratitude, which is an ample reward to the administration. I lay no stress on the loud , remarks of men in crowds speaking in a clamour; nor on petty jealousies about the distribution of good things. The general tone has been one of true thankfulness, accompanied by astonishing endurance. By far the greatest feeling arising out of the scarcity was the intense alarm that followed the demonstration of violence in the Dooars against the exporters. I have seen nothing like it since the mutinies. The town of Julpigoree was in dread of being plundered one night by the Bhooteas, and kept up a fusillade of private musketry for some hours. Export was stopped summarily all over the district; and it was several days before even local bazars were fully supplied again at out-of-the-way places." The circumstances of this case are remarkable as being almost the only instance of any outbreak, or of any tendency towards food-riots during the past season of scarcity in the province.

during the past season of scarcity in the province.

7. The Terai sub-division in the Dooars was abolished last year, but the successful introduction of the Khas Mehal system was unfortunately hampered by the paramount claims of relief work upon the time of the Deputy Commissioner. The system, however, has been started, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes with the Commissioner that this year may see a vigorous khas administration.

8. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that nothing was done during the year towards acquiring statistics of any value. The mortuary returns of the division, it is stated, did not turn out well; but Sir Richard Temple considers that in the small selected areas of this division, a very fair degree of success in the preparation of mortuary returns ought to be attained, and he desires to impress upon the Commissioner and district officers the importance which, in common with his predecessor, he attaches to these enquiries. It is hoped that the Deputy Commissioners will show better results this year both from Darjeeling and Julpigoree.

9. The Commissioner devotes an interesting paragraph of his report to the system of revenue collections in the division. The contest that has gone on for some years between the jotedars and their tenants for a right of occupancy has, contrary to what has been observed elsewhere in Bengal, where agrarian questions have excited less attention than usual this year, become stronger, and the whole question demands all the attention which it is receiving at the hands of the Commissioner and the local officers.

10. His Honor is glad to observe the success that has attended the working of the Darjeeling Municipality and of the District Road Committee. The excellent plan has been followed of distributing the roads in the interior of the district among the members of the Road Committee, each of whom undertakes the supervision of a particular area, for which he and the Deputy Commissioner are jointly responsible to the committee, and this arrangement has been found to operate very satisfactorily.

11. The acknowledgments of Government are accorded to Mr. Metcalfe, who was Commissioner of the division for nearly the whole of the year under review, for his efficient administration; and to the Deputy Commissioners, Mr. Edgar, Captain Money, and Mr. Smith, for the ability with which they have managed their districts.

12. The Lieutenant-Governor is confident that the good supervision which has so long existed in this division is well maintained by the present Commissioner, Sir William Herschel.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. J. S. COTTON,

Acting Junior Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE SERAMPORE MUNICIPALITY FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

No. 466, dated Burdwan, the 13th October 1874.

From-C. T. Buckland, Esq., Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, To-The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Judicial Department.

I HAVE the honor to submit, in original, the annual administration report of the Serampore municipality, in the district of Hooghly, for the year 1873-74.

2. The total population of the town is reported to be 24,440, the same as in the previous year, and the total demand of the house-rate during the year was Rs. 18,525-12-6; hence the incidence of the municipal tax under this head was Re. 0-12-12 per head of the population. The incidence of house-tax per head of the population is lighter than that of the year 1872-73 by Re. 0-6-101, though the percentage of the rate levied is the same, viz. 71 per cent., the maximum allowed by law. This is perhaps owing to the care taken in making assessments.

The system of electing Municipal Commissioners under Act II of 1873 was introduced in this municipality in September 1873. Before the election took place there were fourteen Municipal Commissioners, but subsequently there were eighteen. Ten meetings of the Municipal Commissioners were held during the year. The average attendance of members at the meetings was about eight. The meetings ought to have been convened more frequently than they were during the year.

4. The actual receipts during the year amount to Rs. 26.549-1-0, including the balance at the close of the year 1872-73. They show a deficit of Rs. 3,565-6-3 as compared with the budget estimate. This is attributed to the leniency shown in making collections on account of the general poverty of the people consequent on the failure of the crops, which excuse is hardly admissible in a town. The greater part of the balance is reported to have been collected subsequently.

5. The total expenditure during the year was Rs. 24,061-14-3, or Rs. 6,052-9-0 less than the estimate. The decrease is chiefly under the heads of roads and local improvements, but no satisfactory explanation is given of this decrease.

No. 135, dated Scrampore, the 17th August 1874. From-J. E. B. JEFFERY, Esq., Vice-Chairman of the Serampore Municipality, To-F. H. Pellew, Esq., Magistrate and Chairman, Hooghly.

All the other members attended at both meetings.

Baboos Shib Chunder Deb and Shumboo Chunder Chatterjee are noticeable as having attended all the meetings during the year.

The average attendance was about eight; but under two such different systems an average is of no value.

8. I find that in 1872-73 there were five meetings in which no quorum was obtained. I am happy to say that in 1873-74 there were quorums at every meeting. As a rule, meetings were called only once a month, and in two months, July and January, no meetings were held. In the latter month the appointments of the Commissioners had not been gazetted.

At the ten meetings there were eighty propositions made. Out of these, there are only five which appear to have been of much consequence:

1st.—The introduction of the elective system. This has been sanctioned by Government, and there was, and there probably will be for many years, great difficulty in making the election a reality; yet it was conducted without any complaints, and a very large number of rate-payers were induced to vote. I have already expressed my opinion on the election of last December, and I now wish to say that the result has been eminently successful, inasmuch as the present Commissioners are gentlemen who do take an active and personal interest in municipal affairs. They are regular in attending meetings, have many propositions to make, and have exhibited no tendency either to fractiousness or obstructiveness.

2nd .- It was resolved that an attempt at systematic drainage throughout the municipality be made, and engineer officers were consulted. A drainage survey is now being taken, and works have been sanctioned for the village of Rishra.

3rd.—An educational sub-committee was appointed, and a grant of Rs. 100 a month sanctioned under Section 4, Act XI of 1873. This was at the last meeting of the year, and the measures which have been carried out belong to the present year.

4th.—Some rules for the conduct of business at meetings similar to the Howrah rules were adopted in opposition to my wishes, as I did not think that they were necessary in such small meetings as we generally have. I can, however, say of them that if they have done no good they have done no harm.

5th.—Government has been asked to make over the whole of the ferry collections to the municipality, instead of the half which it now receives.

10. The great majority of the propositions were on simple matters of conservancy or road-repairing, which, as my pre lecessor remarked, are hardly matters for the meeting. that when there are two opposition schemes, or when two schemes are proposed which for want of money cannot be carried out together, the Commissioners at a meeting might be consulted; but as an ordinary rule, it should be sufficient if they by letter asked the Vice-Chairman for orders, and then remembered that they, as Municipal Commussioners, were responsible for seeing that these orders were carried out. Several of the propositions are also really questions as to what has been done. The Commissioners should remember that the municipal office is their office, and that the municipal establishment are their servants, and that they can come into the office and see for themselves.

The following shows the financial results of the year as compared with the preceding:-1979 79 1079 *4

The decrease in the receipts is due to two causes: first, only one-half the ferry collections were credited to the municipality, whilst in previous years the whole amount had been credited and one-half debited by orders of the Magistrate. This accounts for a decrease of Rs. 3,829 in both receipts and disbursements. The remainder is due to great leniency having been shown in making collections during the last quarter, under the authority of the Magistrate's No. 102 of the 30th December; and also to the general poverty of the people consequent on the failure of the crops. The greater part of the balance has, however, now been collected.

12. The reduction in the expenditure is due to the Rs. 3,829 referred to above, and also to the fact that two extraordinary payments of Rs. 4,324-4-9 of ferry collections for 1871-72, and of Rs. 601-1-6 to the police superannuation fund, were made in the previous year,—vide Mr. Boxwell's report, paragraph 8.

13. The collections are shown below:—

14. Ferrice.—The ferries were let-

Mr. Boxwell appears to have been right in supposing that the bidders did not know what they were about; for this year the ferries were only let for Rs. 7,090. At present the municipality receives only half the value of the ferries, though it pays the whole of the expenses. An application has been made for the other half of the proceeds, which is at present supposed to be lying in deposit in the treasury; the amalgamated district road fund, to which it was formerly made over, having become extinct, and the new district road fund having no claim to it. Should this request be granted, the municipality will be able to extend its usefulness considerably.

15. Bazars.—There are three bazars in the municipality, which are let in a lump.

No expenditure was incurred, the repairs having been executed a week or two after the close of the year. These bazars, though let by auction, are virtually a monopoly, having been let to the same man from 1869-70 at the following rates:—

	K	8.			Ks.

1871-72	1,4	25 1874-75	•••	•••	1,475

The collections of the bazars are very difficult to make, and require a great deal of experience; and a new man taking up the business would not realize nearly so large a sum as one accustomed to it; he is thus enabled to outbid every one else. When the collections from the road shops at the two Juggernath festivals were put up lately there was no other bidder.

16. Pounds.—The pound collections were—

1872-73 1873-74	•••	•••	•••	Rs. 757 649	8 5	6
		Decrease	•••	·108	2	9

The decrease is supposed to be due to a change in the system of management, by which the pound is placed under the control of the police and the municipality receive only the net instead of the gross proceeds. The realizations for March, moreover, were not credited till after the expiration of the year. The number of cattle impounded, as ascertained from the police, was—

An application has been made to the Magistrate of the district for the establishment of a pound at Kunnaghur, where it is much needed, as Kunnaghur is 4 miles from the present pound. The pound-shed was repaired during the year at a cost of Rs. 26.

- 17. Cart registration.—Cart registration fees amounted to Rs. 180. The budget estimate was Rs. 175.
- 18. License fees.—The table below shows the license fees under the different heads. The amount collected was Rs. 1,129, as against Rs. 1,083-8-0 in 1872-73:

20. Night-soil fees.—There is but one public latrine, which has for some years been, given for nothing to a farmer, ... 10 engages to keep it clean and collects half a pice from each person.

21. The night-soil fees collected were Rs. 546-12-0, as against Rs. 560 in the previous year. The decrease in the collections appears to have been due to the fault of the night-soil inspector, who has since been dispersed with.

22. Miscellaneous. The miscellaneous collections were-

The decrease in the collections of house-tax was apparently due to the sirkers having been engaged during the last quarter with the Municipal Commissioners who were revising the assessment, and also to the difficulty in realization caused by the distress amongst the poorer classes and the leniency shown in issuing distress warrants.

The first of the above facts explains the decrease under the head wheel-tax. The ollections have, however, since been made up.

The decrease in the ferry is explained by the collection for March having been made in

The estimate for the pound appears to have been framed too high, and not to have taken into account the new system under which the municipality receives the net instead of the gross proceeds.

The increase in license fees is attributed to the year having been favorable for brick-making. The decrease in distress warrant is explained above.

The decrease under the head bazars is merely due to the rent for March having been credited in April.

The increase under the head recovery, i.e. of expenses for works done by municipal coolies, is attributed to the fact that the principal landholders of Serampore have latterly adopted the plan of having all their jungles cleared by the municipal coolies in consequence of disputes between them and their co-sharers.

The increase under the head miscellaneous is chiefly due to police savings, which do not appear to have been budgeted for.

24. As to disbursements, I append a similar statement :-

Collecting Establishment.—There was a saving in collecting establishment as compared with the budget estimate, but an increase as compared with the previous year, being Rs. 1,466-8-3 against Rs. 1,296-14-9; but it appears that in 1872-73 only eleven months? payments were made. There was no change in the establishment.

25. Office Establishment.—The saving under the head office is due to the abolition of the 2nd clerk, whom I thought unnecessary.

26. Roads.—The saving under the head of roads is due to the metalling of the Chattra road having been postponed to this year; it is now nearly finished.

The Baroipara road was finished at a cost of Rs. 175-10-9. The Tantiparah and its extension was metalled at a cost of Rs. 375-15-0. Small repairs were done to other roads at a cost of Rs. 405-5-3. The roads have been kept generally in good order.

27. Lighting.—At the commencement of the year there were fitty-six lamps in the town, but during the year seven new ones were erected. The decrease on the budget estimate is partly due to delay in erecting lamps which had been budgeted for, and partly to a decrease in the rate charged by the lighting contractors. Twenty-two new lamps have lately been set up.

28. Watering.—Three new carts were bought for watering, but not paid for during the year. The main streets of the town were very well watered.

29. Conservancy.—The conservancy coolies worked very well, and the drains I have always found well cleared out. The decrease on the budget estimate is due to savings from coolies absenting themselves or leaving before others could be found to take their place. On the 16th February the conservancy establishment was placed specially under the charge of Dr. Greene.

30. Police.—The cost of the police was really Rs. 7,996-15-9, the amount shown in the accounts being eleven months' payments only. The cost was therefore about one rupee for every three persons in the municipality.

31. Crimes against property have been very numerous, and are very seldom detected. There were two serious dacoities: one in a fisherwoman's house at Kunnaghur, perpetrated by coolies employed at Boidabattee, who came down in a boat; and another, also at Kunnaghur, in the house of a wealthy baboo-also by Burdwan coolies who were living at Uttarpara. In both these cases convictions were obtained.

There was a theft of ornaments worth Rs. 1,000 from one of the adhekaries of Mahesh. In this case conviction was obtained.

There was also a theft in my own hopse of a box containing a large amount of money belonging to my servants and a small amount belonging to myself. This was not detected. Of course some of the servants were implicated in it, but it could not have been done without assistance from outside.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE CALCUTTA GAZETTE, NOVEMBER 18, 1874. 3463

The value of property stolen was Rs. 14,356-12-9; that of property recovered, Rs. 3,012-12-0. Of crimes against the person, the chief were a murder of a mehter by a khitmutgar in one of the European houses.

32. The head-constable of Chattra was punished for house-trespass whilst drunk, the head-constable of Mahesh for neglect of duty, and the head-constable of Kunnaghur for criminal breach of trust.

33. Local improvements.—The steps at the Chattra burning ghaut were finished, and the compensation paid for the Chattugunge roads. All other improvements were on a small scale. The Strand railings were repaired, several tanks fenced in, and several culverts built and rebuilt. The municipality have now undertaken a comprehensive scheme of drainage, and work has been commenced in Rishra, where the drainage was most defective.

34. Ferries. - The cattle-boat at Jogul Addy's Ghaut was thoroughly repaired at a cost of Rs. 312-0-9.

35. Pound.—The pound was repaired and put in a proper state.

36. Miscellaneous.—The municipality subscribes Rs. 50 per month to the charitable hospital, and made an extra donation of Rs. 50 for the erection of a moribund ward, which is completed. Since the close of the year Rs. 15 per month has been subscribed to the Mahesh dispensary.

37. Mortuary returns.—The deaths this year were 679 out of a population of 24,440, or one in thirty-six. This is an improvement upon the previous year, when they were one in thirty. There was very little fever comparatively, but the greater part of the mortality is still due to it. The following are the details:-

The mean barometer as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

- The powers vested in or exercisable by the Board under all the Rules made (d.)before the 2nd February 1874, under which waste land grants are held in the Province of Assam.

The following order, issued by the Government of India in the Financial Department, is republished for general information:-

No. 6694.—Fort William, the 19th November 1874.—Notifications.—Leave and Alfowances.— The Governor General in Council is pleased to sanction the insertion of the following as Rule 2 under Section 25 (b) of the Acting Allowance Code:-

A Commissionership of a Division is a Judicial office within the meaning of Section 25 (b). No. 6711 .- The 20th November 1874 .- The Governor-General in Council directs that the following be inserted as Rule 2 under Section 1 of the Civil Leave Code:

2.* If an officer who has completed the term of service when by ordinary rules he would be compelled to retire, as, for example, a Covenanted Civil Servant under Section 8 of Supplement A to the Civil Pension Code, or a chaplain under Section 4 of Supplement C to the same Code, is granted an extension of service, the only leave admissible to him during such extension is privilege leave under Chapter VI.

The Governor-General in Council also directs that the following be inserted as a footnote under the foregoing rule :-

^{*} Applies to all Officers in Civil employ.

8. There is a decrease of 19 per cent. in the value of rice exports amounting in value to rather more than 33½ lacs of rupees. The total quantity of rice exported from Calcutta to Foreign Ports in 1872-73 was 288,952 tons; in 1873-74 it was 181,880 tons. The falling off in quantity amounts to 107,072 tons, or 37 per cent. This decrease is due to the prevailing scarcity. The decrease of exports to the Mauritius alone amounted to more than 58,000 tons, and to more than 20,000 tons to the Gulfs; but it does not appear that the exports to Great Britain and Europe were in any way affected. The figures quoted do not, however, fully show the effect of the scarcity on the export trade in rice, as they are confined to the trade from Calcutta to Foreign Ports, and take no notice of the large stocks of grain exported from other ports, or from Calcutta to other ports under the Government of India. The Lieutenant-Governor would have been glad if the Board of Revenue had gone carefully into the question of the rice exports for the past year, and he would be obliged if the Member in charge would procure from the Collector of Customs a special and complete report, showing the effect of the season's scarcity upon the operations of the rice export trade.

9. The decrease of more than one million sterling in the value of raw cotton exported is passed over by the Board without any comment, although the Collector of Customs observes that he is not informed how much of this T is due to "shipments from Bombay, short crop, and increase in the price." The Lieutenant-Governor could wish that the attention of the Board had been drawn to this subject.

10. Opium shows a small falling off, the average declared value per chest having only been Rs. 1,270 against Rs. 1,386 in 1872-73.

11. The exports of indigo show also a slight decrease in value, and a very large decrease in quantity, which is attributable to the exceptionally good season of the previous year.

Jute has exhibited a great reaction in consequence of a smaller area having been sown with it, and the crop having been poor as compared with the two previous years, when there were abundant crops The excessive exportation of 1872-73 had also over-stocked the markets in England, and the demand in Calcutta during the past year was very slack. There is no reason, however, to suppose that the reaction is more than temporary. In dyeing, or coloring materials, especially safflower, there is a marked decrease, the falling off being attributed to the discovery of a cheaper substitute called "saffronine." The facts in this matter are of great importance to the Dacca district, where the cultivation of safflower for export to Europe i. largely carried on, and the Board have complied very fully with Sir George Campbell's request that they might be enquired into and ascertained. There can, indeed, be no doubt of the discovery of a chemical substitute, but although the trade has already been materially affected, the Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction Mr. Money's expectation that as soon as the accumulated stocks of 1872 have been disposed of, a steady demand for safflower will continue, similar to what formerly existed, as the new aniline dye has not, it appears, the same brilliancy as safflower, and can never compete successfully with it for the purpose of mixing with other dyes.

13. The export trade in oil-seeds has to some extent recovered from the very great depression which was noticed in last year's report. The decline in the seed trade was then so marked as to attract the attention of Sir George Campbell, who desired that a detailed account might be given of the fluctuations of the market, and of the reasons why Indian seeds have lost so much ground in the estimation of European and American consumers. The Board have now furnished a very interesting and complete report on this subject. It appears that the exports of linseed go very largely to North America; but that the growth of domestic flax is increasing in the Western States, and entering more and more into competition with imported seed. In 1870 and 1871 tole American crop was injuriously affected by the rain, and the imports were then large, but in 1872 there was a very abundant harvest. On the other hand, there was that year a short crop in Northern India. The exports of Indian linseed to America during the last four years are as follows:-

Tons. ... 96,534
... 56,947
... ... 66,763

It is re-assuring to know that there was an increase of nearly ten thousand tons in the exportations of the past year, and Mr. Money gives it as his opinion that excluding the exceptional circumstances of 1870-71, there is no reason for considering that there has been any abnormal decline of the trade, or that there is any special cause for anxiety in the future.

14. It is but a chance coincidence that in the same year in which the brisk trade with America occurred in linseed, an unusual demand for rapeseed was made from France and the United Kingdom. The exports of rapeseed for the last four years have been as follows:-

			U	nited Kingdom. Tous.	France. Tons.
1870-71		•••		86,595	17,674
1871-72	•••	•••	•••	41,720	14,839
1872-73	•••	•••	•••	1,344	••••
1873-74	•••	•••	•••	5,012	9

The Franco-Prussian war having interfered with the supply of German seed which usually supplies the English market, an extraordinary demand sprang up for local produce, and as large stocks happened to be available in India, the bulk of the trade was transferred to this country. The demand, however, suddenly became so great, that the ordinary precautions in the selection and shipment of the seed were neglected, and in many cases the consignment arrived damp and worthless. Heavy losses ensued, and the trade became alarmed and shippers disheartened, although the slight increase in the past year seems to show that Indian trade is reviving to some extent. The circumstances of the war sufficiently account for the large exportation to France during 1870 and 1871, and the cessation in 1872.

15. The Board have furnished no explanation of the increase of exportation of tea, lac, or of tobacco. The increase in tea is very satisfactory, being no less than 9 per cent. following on an increase of three per cent. in the previous year. The results of the tobacco export trade are also very encouraging. It was pointed out last year that a great start had taken place in the exportation of tobacco, the returns showing an increase of nine times upon the exports of the previous year. In the present year there has been a further increase of nearly 20 per cent., which is almost entirely due to trade with Continental Europe. There has been a considerable decrease in the exports to Great Britain. The opportunities for the increase of tobacco cultivation in Bengal are, however, very large, and the rapidly increasing demand that has now arisen for the Indian article may prove of the greatest significance to the country, and especially to the districts which chiefly export at present, such as Julpigoree, Rungpore, and Tirhoot.

16. Among the foreign imports, fluctuation has occurred principally in the following items:—

			Value of impo	orts in the years.
			1878-74. £	1872-73. £	£
Specie and bullion	•••	•••	1,944,660	1,096,251	848,409 increase.

Government stores (inc	luding rice)	•••	235,872	77,960	157,912 ditto.

17. The increase in the importation of bullion was entirely in silver; in gold there was a decrease of £372,189, following on a decrease of £322,134 in the previous year. In silver the net increase was no less than £1,220,598 against a net decrease of 2½ millions in 1872-73. The principal importations, as usual, were from Great Britain and China. The very great decrease in the importation of piece-goods is attributable to the unfavorable state of the market for the greater part of the year. The import trade in coal and fuel shows a great reaction from the depression of last year, which was occasioned by the very high prices prevailing for English coal. The imports of coal into Calcutta during the four past years are—

There is a large increase in the value of the importation of machines and machinery which is unexplained, but the increase in Government stores is due to rice importation from foreign ports (such as Saigon) on Government account, and to materials for the Hooghly bridge.

19. The number of vessels entering Calcutta during the past four years is as follows:-

			1870 71	1871 72	1872-73	1878-74
Vessels of all kinds	Number Tonnage	•	1,082 890,675	1,109 978,693	1,118 992.211	1,359 1,052,112

Suor Canal Steamers included in the first	(Number		56	13,324 89	1 3,299 91	2 0,435 104
two totals	(Tonnage		56,353	109,175	121,534	161,660

The increase both in the number of vessels and the tonnage continues to be satisfactory. The increase of 200 steamers during the year is attributable to the large number of steamers employed to import rice.

20. Owing to the exceptional circumstances of the year, there was a decrease as compared with the previous year in the trade of the Chittagong port. The figures of the trade of the port for the past two years are as follows:-

		1872 73	1873 74
		£	£
Total customs collection, exclusive of salt duty	••	35,891	25,344
Value of exports		452,749	376 692
" of imports		101,260	100,029
" of total trade		554,009	476,721
Square rigged vessels entering the port Number		267	223
Equare rigged vossels entering the port Tonnage		102 767	87,687

This statement, showing the estimated value of the trade, is this year framed in the same way as the estimate for Calcutta and other ports, and is exclusive of goods cleared from bond. The figures therefore will not agree with that published in the resolution on last year's report, where the value of salt imported was taken at the invoice price, plus the duty, instead of being taken at the price in bond.

The dutiable exports of rice, i.e., the export to foreign ports, are principally to the Mauritius and Ceylon, and amounted last year to only 11,64,047 maunds against 17,66,598 maunds in the previous year; but owing to the enhanced market rates, the customs value of the rice shows an increase of £274,650 in 1873-74 against £265,139 in 1872-73. There was a decrease also in the export of rice to British Indian ports beyond Bengal, but there was a large trade with Calcutta, amounting to 3,67,694 maunds, while the exportation from Chittagong to Calcutta has been blank in provious years. The rice market on the whole was dull, and owing to the high price of rice, and to the irruption made by traders from Calcutta and Behar into the Noakholly and Tipperah markets, from which Chittagong usually draws its supplies, there was an unusual deficiency of local stocks for export. The rice exports from Chittagong for the past four years have been-

	•			Mds

In 1872 73	•••	•••	•	25,49,492
In 1873-74	•••	•••		13,66,809

The importations of timber and earth-oil from British Burmah, alluded to in last year's resolution, have continued to increase. But the most satisfactory increase of trade evinced by the Chittagong Report is the gradual and steady development of the tea trade, to which the Board of Revenue invite particular attention:-

The Licutenant-Governor trusts and expects that every succeeding year will show a further development of this traffic.

23. The fustoms duty realised at the Orissa ports shows a large increase, from less that $1,000,44, more than £5,000 in the year. There appears, however, to have the port of Pooree, where the port of the port

The inter-portal trade especially has enormously increased, owing chiefly to the shipments of rice to Calcutta on account of famine. The value of exports from Balasore alone has increased by £119,658. The Commissioner notices that the improvement in imports and exports is due to the growing steamer traffic which is beginning to resort to Balasore, and especially to the new Port of Chandbally, which Mr. Ravenshaw considers to be the best port in Orissa for passenger trade and for coasting trade in country produce.

24. The Lieutenant-Governor's acknowledgments are due to Mr. Money, the Member of the Board of Revenue in charge of the Customs Department, and to Mr. Crawford, the Collector of Customs, who is now on leave, but who for

The Lieutenant-Governor desires, also, that his acknowledgments may be conveyed to the officers mentioned at paragraphs 43, 61, 62, and 90 of the Board's Report and named in the margin. The present Customs Report for Calcutta has been submitted by Mr. Lane, who only took charge of the office of Collector after the close of the year under report. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to see that the Collector's attention has been drawn to the uninteresting form in which it has been the practice to prepare this report, and that he proposes to prepare, for the current year, a report containing less repetition of figures without explanation, and to make "some attempt at a detailed narrative on the principal articles of trade with Calcutta, with special reference to the countries concerned, and to notable changes within a moderate period." Such a report will be of great value, and His Honor will await Mr. Lane's report next year with interest.

ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE MONGHYR MUNIOI-PALITY FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

No. 57, dated Monghyr, the 30th April 1874.

From—E. D. Lockwoop, Esq., Officiating Magistrate and Chairman of the Municipal Committee, Monghyr,

To—The Officiating Commissioner of Bhagulpore.

I have the honor to submit the administration report of the Monghyr Municipality for the year ending March 1874.

The figured statement of receipts and disbursements is prepared in the form prescribed in Government Circular No. 2655 of the 25th April 1572.

Monghyr is the only town in this district in which Act III (B.C.) of 1864 is in force. The population, according to the census paper, is 59,698. The income at the disposal of the committee during the year 1873-74 was Rs. 44,911-8, as per detail below:—

The taxes authorized by Act III (B.C.) of 1864 are as follows:—

A tax on houses, buildings, and lands, according to the annual value thereof. and is actually levied on the houses only 51 per cent.

Licenses under Section 77 of Act III of 1864, and under Act VII of 1865, for slaughtering animals within the municipality.

A tax on carts, hackeries, and other wheeled vehicles without springs, under Section 49 of the Act.

A tax on carriages and horses, ponies, mules, and elephants, under Section 35

Tax on carriages and palanquins plying for hire under Act V (B.C.) of 1866.

Fines for offences against municipal laws and bye-laws.

In addition, the Government has made over to the municipality the proceeds of ferries and pounds situated within the nunicipal limits, as also the fines imposed under the Gambling

Act within the municipal circle.

The house-tax and ferries are the principal sources of our income. The lowest amount received is 1 anna 8 pics per quarter, and the highest annual value fixed on any house is Rs. 300 per month. The jail is valued at this sum. It is the custom that whenever any one comes forward to have his tax reduced, one of the Commissioners personally visits the house of the party, and after due inquiry disposes of the matter on its merits. Section 77 of the Act authorizes the grant of license for brick-kilns, lime-kilns, depôts for hay, straw, wood, and trades in hides, &c. This is a very useful section, and on its careful working depends materially the health and comfort of the town. The rates of such licenses are as follows:—We levy Rs. 2 for each lakh of bricks; Rs. 5 a year per lime-kiln; depôts for hay, straw, and wood, &c., one rupec per cottah yearly, and for hide godowns Rs. 50 a year. The reason for fixing the rate of the latter on a rather high scale is owing to the Commissioners being desirous of excluding traders in hides altogether from the municipal limits.

But notwithstanding this high rate, the dealers have not yet removed their godowns. The profits accruing to them are no doubt sufficiently large to counterbalance their fees. Rs. 364-8 for all these licenses have been received by the municipality during the year under report.

The income accruing from the slaughtering fees during the year was Rs. 158 from the three slaughter-houses situated within the municipality, viz., first, at Mohalla Jajal Kita;

second, at Quasim Bazar; and 3rd, at Mogul Bazar.

The tax on bullock-carts, or vehicles without springs, are levied at the rate of Rs 2 yearly per cart. The income from this source was Rs. 1,208 during the year. The tax on spring carriages, and on horses, &c., according to the rates given in the schedule of the Act, fetched Rs. 1,303-8.

The tax levied under Act V (B.C.) of 1866 on palanquins and carriages plying for hire brings in a nominal sum of Rs. 92. This sum is levied on thirty palanquins at Rs. 2-8 per annum, three second-class hackney carriages at Rs. 4 a year, and one first-class at Rs. 5. The income from this source is very small. The tax has been introduced chiefly with a view to the exercise of control over the cartmen and bearers rather than gain. The income from fines amounted to Rs. 409-0-11. The laws and byelaws were very carefully enforced during the year. Sittings of benches of Honorary Magistrates were held tween in a month with the greatest resultant for this laws and had a law of the laws and byelaws were very carefully enforced during the year. Magistrates were held twice in a month with the greatest regularity for trial of all breaches of the municipal law.

With regard to the expenditure side, our total expenditure is Rs. 33,054-14-10. The principal works undertaken by the Commissioners during the year under report were as follows:—

Rs. 8,776-5-2 were spent in repairing, remetalling kutcha-pucca roads, drains, lance, &c., about the town and fort of Monghyr. The new works during the year were four municipal police phandees, which were built within the town at a total cost of Rs. 2,455-7-5 in different mohallas, viz. Betwan Bazar, Mohuddipore, Jajalkita, and Basdeopore. This work was sanctioned by the Commissioners on the proposal of Major Waller, who pointed out a yearly saving of Rs. 225, which sum had formerly to be paid by the municipality for the rent of buildings occupied by the municipal police.

Rs. 8,971-4-10 have been spent in conservancy, including contingencies. expending this sum we kept the streets and compounds clean, removed night-soil and other filth from the latrines and slaughter-houses to the conservancy field. Thirteen latrines, scattered all over the town, are in full use.

The dry-earth system has worked well during the year.

25 beeghas 3 cottahs and 8 dhoors of land were taken by the municipality for conservancy fields, out of winch 7 becghas 14 cottals and 16 dhoors have been farmed out to the ryots at a rate of Rs. 10 per bergha. Rs. 77-6-5 have been realized by the above lands.

The night-soil was buried twice in them, and we hope in future the rate will increase.

18 beeghas 17 cottahs and 2 dhoors of land, in which no night-soil was buried, was also leased to the ryots at Rs. 5 per beegha. This piece of land brought Rs. 69-4-5. 8 beeghas 12 cottahs 10 dhoors of land is still reserved for our own use. The total income from the above lands was Rs. 146-10-10, and the amount we pay to the zemindar is Bs. 140-6-1. Although the monetary profit accruing to the municipality is small, the health

The heaviest charge on the municipality is the maintenance of the municipal police, which cost Rs. 9,726-2-5 during the year.

All our men are trained constables enrolled under the Police Act and paid by the municipality. We have five head-constables on Rs. 10 and 117 constables at Rs. 6 each.

Rs. 270 were spent for vaccination within the municipality and under sanction of Government; Rs. 791-10-8 were spent in subscription to the charitable dispensary in this town. The dispensary needed this grant very much. The committee have spent Rs. 45 during the year under report for establishing a patshala at Basdeopore. This is a very successful school. Most of the boys and girls can read capitally. Rs. 5 for the chief guru and Rs. 3 for the assistant guru were sauctioned, and the committee have determined that directly our funds admit of further expenditure, other schools should be supported.

The balance in hand at the end of the year was Rs. 11,826-9-2, i.e., Rs. 8,911-12-6 in the treasury, and Rs. 2,914-12-8 in the hands of the overseer. This balance also includes Rs. 5,000, which have been borrowed by the committee from Government with a view to affording relief to the inhabitants of Moughyr, who were this year more in need of work than in any ordinary year.

A sufficient quantity of ballast has been collected on both sides of the several roads within the municipality for metalling purposes. After metalling the roads will be in excellent condition, and will last for several years. Some of the roads on which metalling has been done are now in very good order. The health of the town during the year has been very good. The attendance of the Municipal Commissioners has been more regular and praiseworthy, and they afford real substantial assistance to the Magistrate, for which he feels duly grateful.

The appearance of the Monghyr Fort has been a good deal improved during the year by the completion of the church. The new jail wall, which combines elegance with security; and lastly, the improvement of the public garden under the able management of Colonel Murray, makes Monghyr, according to visitors who have seen it, the cleanest and prettiest station in Bengal.

ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE BHAGULPORE MUNICIPALITY FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

No. 14, dated Bhagulpore, the 10th July 1874. From—V. T. TAYLER, Esq., Chairman of the Bhagulpore Municipality, To—The Officiating Commissioner of the Bhagulpore Division.

I HAVE the honor to submit herewith the annual administration report on the Bhagulpore municipality for the year 1873-74 under Act III (B.C.) of 1864, together with a statement of the actual income and expenditure in the usual form.

With reference to Government of Bengal Circular No. 27 of the 16th August 1873, under paragraph 5, I have to state that the house-tax in this town has been imposed on the actual value of the house, and it works justly. The rate of assessment is at that of 5 per cent., the people being generally poor and unable to pay at a higher rate.

With reference to paragraph 7, I beg to state that the tax on horses and carriages does not fall heavy on the people, and it is easily collected. There is as usual great difficulty experienced in the collection of hackery tax. The people have a great dislike apparently to come to cutcherry and pay unless prosecuted, which takes up a great deal of time and labour. If the above tax was collected like the carriage or house-tax, there would be no difficulty in collecting it.

The license fees are easily collected under Section 77 of Act III of 1864, but this amounts to very little, as will be seen in the statement submitted.

The remaining roads that were left to be metalled were metalled during the year, and the roads are now in a far better condition than previously. The metalling costs a great deal of money, but it is, I think, money well laid out. There were only eight meetings held-during the year. Other meetings were called, at which quorums could not be obtained. There were, however, thirty-three sittings of the sub-committee for the examination of accounts and other business, but I regret that the members generally do not take much interest in the affairs of the municipality, though five new members were appointed during the year in place of gentlemen who had left the station. There has been a great improvement in the disposal of municipal prosecutions. A municipal bench, consisting of the Vice-Chairman and two other members, sit regularly every Saturday. There has been a great decrease of crime during the year within the limits of the municipality, owing in a great measure to the exertions of a good inspector, Muhfooz Hossain, and constant inspection by the District Superintendent, Major Gordon. The inhabitants themselves feel much more secure than they formerly did.

There has been nothing new occurring during the year which calls for any particular remark. The Bhagulpore municipality asked to have their year changed to the calendar year, but were evidently in a considerable minority on this subject, to judge from the Government orders, in which it was decided that no change was necessary. The municipality generally is cleaner and more healthy than it was, and a good deal of, drainage work is in hand for next year, which I hope will turn to further improvement. The straggling haracter of the municipality is well known, and renders a great deal of good that might be one casily in a compact town almost impossible.

ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE PURNEAH MUNICI-PALITY FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

No. 22, dated Purneah, the 13th July 1874

From—The Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners, Purneah, To—The Officiating Commissioner of Bhagulpore.

I HAVE the honor to submit herewith my report on the Purneah Municipality.

The committee have held nine meetings during the year

They have been engaged in revising the house assessment, in superintending the repair of the roads, and the cleaning of the town

The houses in the town were all newly assessed by the committee, who adopted a system of assessing each house according to its size, a house of 9 haths × 5 haths being assessed at half anna a month, and larger houses in proportion, according to a table prepared by the committee.

Very many objections were, however, made after the publication of the assessment, which was fully discussed in committee. The matter was referred to a sub-committee consisting of Mr Wyer, Joint-Magistrate, and Mr McQueen and Mirza Mahomed Hossein, who inquired personally into almost every case. The result of their inquiry was that the tax of all persons who formerly paid less than 8 annas a month remained unchanged, in some instances that of wealther persons was enhanced.

In short, it was found impossible to raise the tax to any appreciable extent.

The rate now is 6 per cent on the actual or supposed rental. It brought in last year Rs 9,537,* out of Rs 11,750 estimated. The incidence is 10 annas 8 pie on each person in the municipality.

4 An income was also derived from tolls on the Sowrah bridge, pounds, fines, and carts.

The Sourah Bridge was an old wooden structure, erected about forty years ago. In the year 1866 it was resolved to put a toll on it, and to accumulate thereby a fund for building a good non bridge. This intention was never fully earned out. The toll has been regularly levied, but the proceeds, which this year amounted to Rs. 1,688 0-11, instead of being set aside, have been regularly spent. In December last both Mi Anley and Mr Cordner, two Executive Engineers, pronounced the timbers unsafe, they were therefore pulled down and arrangements commenced for bringing out from England a bridge similar to those lately erected on the Ganges and Darjeeling road. We have lost for the present what was scarcely a legitimate source of income, but by the liberality of two native gentlemen, Baboos Nukched Lall and Mohesh Lall, which will be separately reported upon, we hope to obtain that which we ought to have provided for ourselves from these tolls.

Pounds, of which we have two, bring us in an income of Rs 1,236-5-6, being Rs 3C 5-6 over the estimate

Fines, principally for breaches of municipal laws and on defaulters, brought in only Rs. 42-11 This is a source of income scarcely worth mentioning

Carts — Up to last December a tax of Rs 2 per annum was levied on each bullock-cart When it was ascertained that the crops had fulled, and that scarcity was impending, it was resolved in committee to remit this tax in order to encourage people to make carts and buy bullocks to bring grain into the city

This measure was productive of much good and brought a large increase to the .carriage available in the town Our estimate under this head was Rs. 1,500, out of which we had only collected Rs 386,*

when the tax was remitted

5. One of the most important and certainly, with regard to the Europeans and the richer natives, the most important proceeding of the year, has been the introduction of the carriage, horse, and elephant- ax under Section 35 of the Act

Early in the year I addressed a circular letter to the members of committee on the subject, and it was resolved, at a meeting held on the 2nd December, to ask the sanction of Government for this impost which was granted in the notification in Calcutta Gazette dated 4th February 1874. The tax came into force from April 1st, and we estimate to derive an income of Rs. 3,500 from this source

6. As we have been saving money for the Sowrah bridge, the expenditure of the year was under the estimate, and we had a balance of R 5,339-12-5. We have made a new pueca road running off from the Ganges and Darjeeling road through the native quarter of the station called Khazanehee Haut.

The road from the station to the town has been repaired, but it requires thoroughly remetalling with stone, not brick. This, I hope, will be done next year. This work, though it may cost more affirst, will pay in the end.

The unusual ry season was against the epairs being properly carried out.

3500 SUPPLEMENT TO THE CALCUTTA GAZETTE, NOVEMBER 25, 1874.

The usual repairs to the town drains and to the kutcha roads have been done by the permanent staff of coolies.

7. Hospitals.—The municipality contributes Rs. 20 a month to this charity, Rs. 10 to the dispensary and Rs. 10 for the vaccinator, of whose services the people in the town gladly avail themselves. The returns show that 627 people came under his hands during the year, 557 cases being successful. He also instructs inoculators and others from the villages in the art of vaccination.

The Churman's attention has been drawn to Act II (BC) of 1873

8. Schools.—The Act does not give us power to contribute anything for education.

There is in the city a very good school, where English-Hindi, and Urdu are taught, endowed by the late Mirza Mahomed Hossein, besides a good number of patshalas.

9. Police—Rs. 5,693-14-6 was spent on the municipal police, and Rs. 589-10-6 on police buildings, &c. I should much like to see the members of the committee take more interest in the police as well as in other matters for which they are taxed

The fire consists of four head-constables and seventy-two constables. The town is divided into six circles, viz —

(1) Jafribagh

(2) Allumgunge.

(3) Mohadipore

(1) Nımtullah.

(5) Kh zanchee Haut.

THE HON'BLE SIR RICHARD TEMPLE, K.C.S.I.,

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF BENGAL,

DATED THE 31st OCTOBER 1874.

- (2).—GUARANTEED RAILWAYS.

The list of officers who have done good work is, I am happy to say, a long one. If need should again arise for similar services, the present record will show the names of officers fitted by experience for every kind of relief duty.

PART I.—RELIEF.

(1).—Supervision by Commissioners.

Mr. Stuart Bayley (Commissioner of the Patna Division) held the most arduous and responsible office of all the executive officers under the Government of Bengal. He occupied a much larger sphere of control than any other officer, and had under his supervision the very worst of the distressed districts. Out of an estimated total number of $4\frac{1}{2}$ millions of persons receiving assistance from Government during the worst period, nearly $2\frac{1}{2}$ millions were in his division.

Not only were all the relief operations, but also the north Behar Transport Department, under his general command. He sustained with complete efficiency the pressure of a great variety of urgent affairs, both as regards transport and relief, simultaneously presenting themselves for decision. He so managed that the several classes of officers under his control should work together without friction amidst all the trials and anxieties of the time. He set to them an example of equable temper and self-command. He won respect and co-operation from those with whom he had relations, official and non-official. He discharged his multifarious duties with discrimination, steadfastness, and readiness of resource; and despite his manifold cares of supervision, he was present wherever conjunctures threatened to arise throughout his charge, and took an active share in the guidance of the operations.

It is difficult for me to express to him the acknowledgments of the Government of Bengal as warmly as they ought to be expressed.

The next most arduous duty devolved on Mr. C. T. Metcalle, who, as Additional Commissioner, had the immediate supervision of relief in eastern and northern Tirhoot. His charge extended over those parts where the danger to the people and the complications of the work were much worse than in any other part of the distressed districts. At one time it included 1½ million of persons receiving assistance from Government. When he entered on his work the aspect of affairs was threatening. In moments of anxiety he evinced promptitude, energy, and resolution. By actively moving about his jurisdiction in the most inclement weather, he set to all concerned a high example. He used all the preparations of Government, so that they told with force and impression upon the distress; and as the difficulties began to yield, he seized all opportunities with masterful perseverance to enforce the prescribed system till it reached every village.

Mr. W. LeF. Robinson was Special Commissioner for relief and transport in the Rajshahye Division, north of the Ganges. The supervision of the large jurisdiction entrusted to him demanded incessant personal attention. He brought to bear on this task an extensive knowledge and a lengthened experience of the places and of the people. His man gement was characterised throughout by foresight, vigilance, and promptitud. By travelling at all seasons over those parts of his jurisdiction where the work was most urgent, he set an example to all his officers of devotion to the relief service. His power of combination was manifested in his transport arrangements by land and water for the Dinagepore district.

- Mr. G. N. Barlow, cs.I, Commissioner of the Bhagulpore Division, had within his jurisdiction several very distressed districts. Actuated by the utmost anxiety to obtain sanction to relief measures suitable to his jurisdiction, he evinced zeal in making them operate successfully, and aptitude in carrying them on to their legitimate conclusion.
- Mr. C. T. Buckland, Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, had the supervision of a part of the country where scarcity, supervening after several years of endemic sickness, assumed novel and complex forms; where outbreaks of trouble occurred in ways hard to be provided against; and where a second year's drought followed the first. In all these affairs he displayed insight into the realities of the trouble, and quickness in devising remedies.
- Mr E. W. Molony, Commissioner of the Rajshahye Division, conducted with judgment and knowledge the despatch of Government supplies by river routes north of the Ganges, and superintended judiciously the relief operations immediately south of that river.

Colonel E. T. Dalton, c s 1., Commissioner of the Chota Nagpore Division, afforded to the relief operations the benefit of his intimate experience of the needs of the country, and of the peculiarities of the people. His high personal qualifications rendered his active supervision specially valuable.

Sir William Horschel, Commissioner of Cooch Behar, satisfactorily met a sudden and dangerous outbreak of scarcity and distress with vigor and ability.

(2) -Administration by Magistrate-Collectors and by Sub-divisional Officers.

To the Magistrate-Collectors of districts pertained the duty of rendering the information upon which Government must mainly rely, and of causing the execution, through their numerous subordinates, of the measures which had been ordered.

Mr. E. Lowis (Dinagepore,) Mr. J. S. Drummond (Sarun), Mr. W. Kemble (Purneah), were the Magistrate-Collectors of districts which presented difficulties spreading over broad areas. They guarded against all contingencies; watched over the growing needs of the people; enlisted the willing services of men representing all classes; organised, disposed, and distributed the extensive relief establishments; elaborated the prescribed system in all its ramifications; dealt with conjunctures as they arose; compiled with punctuality the facts, figures, and information upon which the conduct of operations depended; and conducted the operations to the desired end. They have had the most to do, and have done it the best of all the Collectors on this important occasion.

- Mr. E. G. Glazier (Rungport), Mr. H. F. T. Kean (Chumparun), Mr. C. F. Worsley (West Tirhott), Mr. E. D. Lockwood (Monghyr), Mr. V. T. Taylor (Bhagulpore), Mr. E. J. Barton (Bogra), Mr. E. H. Whinfield (Burdwan), Colonel E. A. Rowlatt (Manbhoom), were Magistrate-Collectors of districts in which large portions were severely and dangerously distressed. Possessing or acquiring intimate knowledge of their districts, they employed the landholders and village notables in averting or arresting distress; they raised and directed such relief agency as was required, and brought their respective charges safely through a very critical period.
- Mr. F. Wyer (Maldah), Mr. W. Wavell (Moorshedabad), Mr. R. D. Hime (Beerbhoom), Mr. J. Boxwell (Sonthal Pergumaha), Mr. W. R. Larminie (Bankoora), Mr. F. H. Pellew (Hooghly), Mr. F. J. Alexander (the late) (Maldah), Mr. W. H. D'Oyly (Rajshahye), Captain R. C. Money (Julpigoree), were Magistrate-Collectors of districts where considerable portions were severely distressed. They promptly informed the Government of the failure of crops wherever it occurred; they relieved distress when it broke out unexpectedly; and under their administration their respective districts passed through the scarcity of 1874 with but little suffering to the people.
- Mr. H. W. Alexander (Shahabad), Mr. W. V. G. Taylor (Pubna), Mr. A. V. Palmer (Gya), Mr. C. C. Stevens (Nuddea), Mr. F. B. Peacock (24-Pergunnahs), Mr. H. S. Beadon (Hazarocbagh), Mr Ware Edgar, c.s.i. (Darjeeling Terai), Mr. T. Smith (Cooch Behar), were Magistrate-Collectors of districts of which parts were distressed. They kept their districts free from panic; they relieved, in the most economical way, such local needs as became apparent, and prevented distress from becoming general.
- Mr. A. C. Mangles, Collector of Patna, had a district which escaped distress, but situated as he was, on the base of operations in the immediate rear of the most distressed tracts, he had to despatch a mass of business for districts other than his own. All this he did with commendable efficiency.
- Mr. F. M. Halliday (Collector of Tirhoot) was forced by affliction to take leave at an early period of the trouble. He possessed the confidence of those influential classes who were best able to co-operate in the relief work. He was instrumental in arranging the terms with the contractors for the transport that had to be organized in his district.
- Among the sub-divisional officers Mr. A. P. MacDonnell (Durbhunga) and Mr. C. F. Magrath (Mudhoobunnee) stand foremost. The charges they held at this time were virtually equal to Collectorates—one of these two officers having one million, the other three-quarters of a million, of persons in his jurisdiction respectively, and both having for a time to arrange for the support of more than half the people. On no two executive officers in all the distressed districts did a severer stress of hard work fall. They had to bear the brunt of the trouble in the worst parts of the whole country. They exercised foresight regarding the approach of famine, and vigilance regarding its manifestations. They confronted with steadiness the troubles by which they were beset, and found remedies for every emergency as it arose.

Colonel J. Burn, manager of the Debhunga estate under the Court of Wards, had the landlord's control over estates in the heart of the distressed country (north-east Tirhoot and north Bhagulpore), which estates contained a population of half a million of souls, and were equal to one-third of an average district. He arranged the importation of grain for food and seed, undertook or prosecuted engineering works of utility in order to afford relief, and caused rents to be postponed in order to relieve the tenantry. In all respects he was a valuable coadjutor to the district authorities. In the performance of all these duties, the assistant manager, Mr. G. W. Llewhellin, displayed an extraordinary knowledge of landed tenures and of everything affecting the agricultural classes. He also organised all the resources of the Durbhunga estates for the transport of Government grain in north-eastern Tirhoot and in north Bhagulpore.

(3.)—Executive Duties of Sub-divisional and Relief Circle Officers.

In some districts there are parts remote from the supervision of the Magistrate-Collector. In such parts there are sub-divisions established, and in them the immediate supervision of the relief operations devolved on the sub-divisional officers, subject to the general control of the Collectors. The officers of the two largest sub-divisions (Durbhunga and Mudhoobunnee) have been already classed with the Collectors.

Mr. T. M. Kirkwood (north Bhagulpore), Mr. A. W. Howe (Ramnuggur), Mr. G. J. S. Hodgkinson (Hutwa), Colonel H. Moore (Sonthalia), Mr. W. B. Oldham (Motecharee), held sub-divisional charges involving peculiar difficulties. They exhibited self-reliance and self-help in mastering the affairs entrusted to them, in smoothing away obstacles, and in conducting their business to a favourable issue.

The following sub-divisional relief officers performed most satisfactorily duties of an onerous and responsible nature:—

Mr. H. Mosley (Naraya, north-east Tirhoot)

- " A. Forbes (Sectamurhee)
- ,, S. H. Damant (Rungpore)
- ,, R. S. Aikman (Hathee, east Tirhoot)

- Mr. J. F. Hewitt, c.s., was employed until May as chief Assistant to the Commissioner of Patna. He directed with care and diligence the transport operations, and efficiently conducted other relief affairs during the absence of the Commissioner on tours of inspection. From the month of May he was employed as Junior Secretary to Government in the Relief Department, and conducted the Government business at Calcutta. Mr. G. E. Porter, c.s., succeeded Mr. Hewitt at Patna, and gave efficient assistance to the Commissioner. Messrs. E. V. Westmacott, H. P. Mulock, and G. J. Nicholls, did valuable work in directing relief affairs and giving general aid to the superior officers in three of the most distressed districts, and in the Rajshahye division generally.

In the relief circles, the execution of all orders in immediate contact with the people devolved upon the circle officers. Though they were generally of very junior standing, yet from them were demanded the qualities most effective in civil employ. These qualities, namely insight into the realities of everchanging situations, power of causing things to be done at the right moment, tact and perception in appreciating instructions, readmess of sympathy with the people, were displayed by the following young officers of the Covenanted Civil Service.—

The names of some of these gentlemen will be brought to the notice of the Government of India in a separate Minute, setting forth the work done by non-official residents during the famine.

The civil officers of Bengal, who had not heretofore come much in contact with native gentlemen of this class, were much impressed with the zeal, energy, and trustworthiness displayed by the native officers of the army who served in the relief department.

(4).—MEDICAL ASSISTANCE.

Closely connected with the relief department was the medical service.

Dr. Campbell Brown, c.B., the Surgeon-General, Indian Medical Department, rendered valuable assistance by collecting together, with remarkable expedition, a large staff of medical officers, assistant surgeons, and native doctors, from all branches of the service and from all parts of the Bengal presidency.

- Dr. C. R. Francis, Deputy Surgeon-General of the Behar circle, and Dr. H. B. Buckle, c.B., of the Bengal circle, had the task of posting and despatching all these subordinate medical officers to the various relief centres. This task was discharged with a promptitude advantageous to the public service.
- Dr. J. M. Coates, the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal, visited almost all parts of the distressed districts, at the most unfavourable season of the year, examining the condition of the people on the works, in the poor-houses, and in the field hospitals.
- Dr. F. G. French was specially deputed to go round all the 130 relief centres in the Burdwan district for medical inspection and for administrative direction. He discharged this duty in a humane spirit, with insight into the varying degrees of sickness and emaciation, and with due appreciation of the most suitable modes of applying relief.
- Dr. E. A. Birch and Dr. F. Macdonnell were successively attached to the medical charge of east Tirhoot when distress was at its height. Their activity in making circuits through all the relief circles, their skill in distinguishing the various forms and stages of physical depression, their ability in suggesting remedial measures, administrative as well as sanatory, proved of high value.

The following officers, civil surgeons of districts, gave much time and thought to the service of relief in addition to the ordinary cares of their medical appointments:—

- Dr. E. J. Gayer (Mozufferpore, in Tirhoot)
- " J. Cullen (Chumparun)
- " C. M. Russell (Sarun)
- .. W. E. Battersby (Bettiah).

PART II.—TRANSPORT.

(1.) TRANSPORT SERVICE BY ROAD AND RIVER

THE first place in this branch of the operations belongs to Colonel C. M. MacGregor, Assistant Quarter-Master General. He was the Director of Transport in north Behar. The magnitude of his charge may in general terms be measured thus. He had at one time about 50,000 two-bullock carts, and in addition about 15,000 pack-animals, working under his supervision, carrying from first to last 282,000 tons of grain, equal to over four millions of bags. He had to distribute this mass of grain among the numerous depôts and granaries, according to instructions received from the Relief Department. He had 65 European commissioned officers under his immediate command, and at his disposal were the services of two companies of Sappers and Miners, and four companies of the 32nd Pioneers Regiment. In the discharge of these duties he displayed many of those qualities which make up the character of an administrator,—intelligence in mastering the facts, skill in adapting means to the ends in view, aptitude in raising resources against difficulties, power of combining and concentrating efforts from many quarters on particular objects, and persistency in carrying measures to their termination. His services were most valuable in the accomplishment of the important task devolving on the Transport Department.

Mr. H. Hankey (Civil Service) was for two months Special Commissioner and Superintendent of Transport in the districts of Bhagulpore, Monghyr, and Purheah. He worked on till the large contracts for carriage were concluded, and was then obliged, under medical certificate, to proceed to England. His proceedings were marked by zeal, activity, and administrative aptitude.

Colonel A Mackenzie, Assistant Commissary-General, commanded the transport depôts on both banks of the Ganges, and directed all the operations for conveying about 250,000 tons, equal to three and a half million bags, across that broad and difficult river. To this important task he applied the detailed knowledge gained during a varied experience in the Commissariat Department. He evinced determination to have the work completed with exactitude. In the early days of the operations, before his subordinate officers had joined their posts, he worked almost alone, in forming the transport depôts on both banks of the Ganges.

Captain R. A. Grant, Assistant Quarter-Master General, served in the transport department of Bhagulpore, Purneah, and Monghyr. The executive control of those operations devolved on him after the departure of Mr. Hankey, and he discharged that 'duty with intelligence and energy. When difficulties arose in the transport arrangements of the Manbhoom and Bankoora districts, he was selected to introduce the contract system, and to raise the strength of the carriage resources up to the required standard. This task also he performed with promptitude, judgment, and efficiency. When his line of march was attacked by cholera, he maintained order and steadiness among his transport people.

Major DeKantzow and Captain Rennick had charge respectively of the transport depôts on the north bank of the Ganges opposite Patna and Barrh. Their merit is equal in degree. One of them had to deal with carriage numbering 25,000 carts, the other with carriage numbering 12,000 carts and 12,000 pack-animals, all which had to be worked at all hours for many weeks consecutively. In coping with this work, they exhibited energy on the one hand and tact on the other—smoothing away obstacles, conciliating where cooperation was needed, enforcing command where authority was required, according to the shifting circumstances. With the vast number of the bags of grain passing through their hands, they displayed vigilance in guarding against fraud and wastage. They rendered their accounts with accuracy and punctuality. All this they did under exposure to the out-door heat of the hottest season. They both suffered in health after the successful conclusion of their labours.

In the Transport Department the officers to be named below distinguished themselves by activity under exposure to inclement weather, and by practical aptitude in examining beforehand the best available routes, or by opening out temporary roadways across country, or in superintending the construction of temporary bridges, or in removing the obstacles from the lines of transit, or by promoting the efficiency of the transport service by work in the field or at the desk:—

Major C. T. Bates,
,, T. N. Walker,
,, M. G. King Harman,
Captain J. M. Trotter,
,, A. Conolly,
,, M. H. Heathcote,
,, A. G. Ross,
,, H. M. L. Hutchinson,

Captain A. H. S. Neill, C. I. Horse,
,, M. G. King Harman,
Quarter-Master Lenton,
Lieutenant A. Gaselee,
,, G. H. Elliot,
,, W. H. Lyster,
,, D. A. Macpherson.

Major W. Jackson, who was employed in transporting grain from Arrah to Sarun, merits also favorable distinction.

Honourable notice is accorded to Lieutenant W. E. L. Morgan, R.E., commanding the 5th Company, Sappers and Miners. He and his men were ever to the fore when any business had to be done with rapidity. His energy was conspicuous. Praise is also due to Lieutenant T. Hare, R.E., and Lieutenant F. Brown, R.E., each commanding a company of Sappers, for their services Among many other things, one of these two officers constructed sixteen temporary bridges of some size, and the other thirteen.

The following officers have won much credit for service in the field with the transport, performed under circumstances requiring the exercise of judgment:—

Major H. D. Jackson,
,, W. Ker,
Captain T. Nicholls, Pioneers,
,, R. Wodehouse,

Captain E. Hemsted, ,, R. G. Birch, Lieutenant E. H. Bingham. The undermentioned young officers showed, by work done in the transport service, the promise of future merit:—

Lieutonant	T. L. Verner,	Lieutenant	T. G. Vivian,
,,	J. C. Kinchant,	,,	H. L. Hallewell,
,,	G. E. Money,	,,	H. H. R. Heath,
"	G. H. More Molyneux,	,,	P. A. Buckland.
"	F. W. L. Jackson,	"

Veterinary Surgeons Mr. G. A. A. Oliver, Mr. W. Walker, Mr. J. E. Elphick, Mr. E. Ewing, and Mr. G. D. Whitfield were of great use in curing the numerous sick animals and in supervising the field hospitals.

The undermentioned European non-commissioned officers sustained the good character with which they came to the transport service:—

Sergeant-Major Tonge,
Sergeant Farmer, 109th Regiment,
,, Watt, 6th Company, Sappers,
,, Seppings, 10th Company, Sappers.

The native officers whose exertions and merits in the transport service entitle them to honourable mention are—

Ressaldar Mahomed Hossen Khan, 7th Bengal Cavalry,
Wordee-Major Allah Rusal, Central India Horse,
Jemadar Bhoolasing, 5th Company, Sappers, Subahdar Alum Sing,
,, Arab Ali Khan, 18th Native Infantry,
Subahdar-Major Shere Ali, 25th ditto,
Jemadar Charoo Sing, 32nd Pioneers,
Subahdar Mohr Ali, 25th Native Infantry,
,, Godagar Sing, 45th ditto.

There were many other native officers who did well, which shows that they must have been in the first instance carefully and judiciously selected for the special service by the regimental authorities. Many selected sepoys also held temporarily situations of trust and responsibility, performing duties which ordinarily fall to the lot of native officers. These native officers and men had often charge of considerable sums of money, and they had to train and manage an undisciplined body of 14,000 camp followers attached to the various branches of the Transport Department.

I am glad to join with all the officers, civil and military, who witnessed the transport service, in testifying to the excellent conduct of the 3rd, 5th, and 6th Companies of Sappers, and the 32nd Regiment Pioneers. These troops were scattered all over the country in small detachments, serving under strange officers, charged with special duties foreign to their previous experience, and exposed to every sort of trial.

Among other officers employed in the Transport Department, Mr. F. A. Dawson had the heaviest duty at Kooshtea, whence he sent off by steamers and native boats 45,000 tons of grain to different parts of the Rajshahye division. Mr. J. F. Hewitt's services during the early days of the transport operations from the East Indian Railway into north Behar have already been noticed. Mr. A. A. Wace, c.s., of Tajpore, performed useful service in procuring local carriage and transporting grain supplies before the Transport Department had Mr. E. V. Westmacott commenced the transport operations at been organised. Rajmehal and Maldah, and carried them on until he was deputed to other duty. Major W. Ker gained commendation in the Transport Department and afterwards as grain officer in Rajshahye. Mr. H Munro, of the Bengal Police, efficiently directed the Purneah despatches from Caragolah, the landing place on the right bank of the Ganges, and Major W. Gordon despatched the consignments from Colgong, and these two officers contributed to the early completion of the Purneah transport. Mr. A Blair did good service on the transport route from Kaligunge to Rungpore. Mr. Davies, sub-divisional officer at Goalundo. the point of river debarkation for Rungpore. Mr. C. Nash, at Godagaree. Mr. Gray Glen, at Barrh, discharged heavy duties connected with the transport operations.

Mr. J. White, sub-divisional officer at Barrh, where the grain for the east Tirhoot transport routes left the railway, did service of a miscellaneous but useful character to the Transport Department

(2).—Iniand Marine Sprvice.

The Master-Attendant at Calcutta, Captain A. Baker, showed promptitude and departmental ability in concentrating on the line of the Ganges all the steam vessels of the Bengal Marine in a condition fitted for service.

Mr. J. MacGregor, Superintendent of the Dockyard at Calcutta, displayed much constructive and mechanical skill and great personal energy in building small steamers and barges for the inland rivers. His vessels are pronounced by professional authority, and proved by actual service, to be strongly and economically constructed.

Among the commanders of steamers on the relief service, the following are honourably mentioned:—•

- Mr. C. Nash, of the Government flat Gogra.
- .. J. Niederham, of the Government steamer Koladyne.
- ,, Brown, of the India General Steam Navigation Company's steamer Lucknow.
- ,, Gordon, of the India General Steam Navigation Company's steamer Bombay.
- ,, W. Millman, of the India General Steam Navigation Company's steamer Success.
- ,, F. Hockley, of the India General Steam Navigation Company's steamer
- ,, J. Gunn, who directed the working of all the small steamers belonging to the Government reserve.

(3) .- GOVERNMENT RESERVE TRANSPORT TRAIN.

Mr. H. Rivett-Carnac, c.s., Commissioner of Cotton and Commerce, was deputed, with the permission of the Government of India, to take charge of the formation of the Government reserve transport train (about 3,685 carts with three bullocks each on the average and about 11,500 packanimals). His charge involved the general arrangements for the purchase and collection of this carriage in different parts of northern India; the officering, organising, and equipping of it when collected; the despatching and placing of it for effective service on the north of the Ganges. For this work he had had 32 European commissioned officers under his orders. By the completion of so extensive a work within the brief time allowed, he displayed much organising ability and administrative power. The service being over, and the carriage being ordered to be disposed of, he is applying himself to its disposal with method and system. He also had the purchasing in northern India, and the despatching to Behar, chiefly by boat, about 11,000 tons of fodder. During the early stages of transport operations he did service in preventing accumulations of grain at railway stations, and generally in helping to promote the working of the very heavy grain traffic on the East Indian Railway in Behar.

Of the officers who served in Mr. Rivett-Carnac's department, the following deserve honourable notice, and have rendered excellent service either in preparing the reserve transport train for work, or in conducting it from Hindoostan to Behar:—

Mr. J. H. Twigg (c s.), Captain C. O. W. Apporly, Lieutenant A. J. Pearson, Captain Thomas, Assistant Commissary-General, Benarcs, Captain A. D. Anderson, Mr. Carbery.

.The undermentioned officers also creditably discharged their duties in the same line:—

Colonel A. C. Bunbury,
Captain T. J. Fitzsimon, 62nd Regiment,
Captain H. Affleck Graves, R.A.,

Lieutenant H. K. R Ross, R.A., ,, W. H. Salmon,

,, D. M. D. Waterfield, R.A.

The purchasing of the carriage for Government in the various districts of the North-Western Provinces and of the Punjab was done (under orders of the Government of those provinces) by the Collectors. The thanks of the Government of Bengal are due to the undermentioned Collectors in those provinces for having collected and despatched this carriage in so short a time:—

Mr. M. Claremont Daniell, Cawnpore,

,, J. Robertson, Allahabad,

" A. J. Lawrence, Etawah,

,, G. S. D. Dale, Joint-Magistrate of Cawnpore,

Major E. P. Gurdon, Deputy Commissioner, Loodiana,

Lieutenant C. H. T. Marshall, Assistant Commissioner, Umballa.

A tribute of acknowledgment must also be offered by the Government of Bengal to the Hon'ble J. D. Inglis, Senior Member of the Board of Revenue at Allahabad, for the cordial co-operation he afforded in securing compliance with the requisitions which had been addressed to the Government of the North-Western Provinces.

(4).—Transport Contractors.

In connection with the Transport Department, I desire to mention honourably the names of several of the contractors:—

Mr. T. M. Gibbon (Bettiah),

- " Minden Wilson (Hajeepore),
- " W. A. Thomas (Monghyr),
- ,, J. C. Smith (Shahpore, near Hajeepore),

Mr. R. F. Lethbridge (Bettiah),

Mr. J. C. Swaine (Mozufferpore),

- "J. Hennessy (Bhagulpore),
- "M. Fox (Shahabad),
- " Llewhellin, Junior (Mudhoobunnee),
- ,, Macdonald (Dowlutpore, Rowsera).

These are private gentlemen not in the service of Government, and were working on their own responsibility; but they were engaged on a service of public consequence, and in intimate relations with the Government officers. They laboured to give effect to the policy prescribed, just as if they had been public servants.

PART III.—PUBLIC WORKS.

(1).—RELIEF WORKS.

Colonel W. S. Trevor, R.E. and v.C., has been Special Chief Engineer for the relief roads north of the Ganges, which were placed under the Department of Public Works. This charge included about 4,000 miles of road scattered over the whole of north Behar and northern Bengal, which were being worked upon at one time by 1,730,000 persons, and upon which about £1,750,000 have been spent within six months. Colonel Trevor has supervised this extensive charge in a satisfactory manner, striving to introduce regularity and system into works where the first rapid influx of relief labourers had unavoidably caused confusion; preventing the waste and abuses incidental to such hurried undertakings; infusing some professional element into operations, necessarily commenced in such unprofessional manner as emergent circumstances admitted of; exacting a fair amount of labour for the wages disbursed, and suggesting the procedure for rendering the works permanently useful.

In all these respects he was ably seconded by the Superintending Engineers of the three divisions into which the Public Works special charge was divided: namely, Mr. W. Barnfather (east Behar), Mr. G. Pothecary (north-west Behar), Mr. L. R. Roberts (northern Bengal). These three officers by their constant presence at the works in the various parts of their extensive divisions, contributed to the attainment of the several objects indicated above.

Among the Executive Engineers employed on relief works, the first place belongs to Lieutenant J. T. Wright, R.E., who served in Mudhoobunnee, the very works of all the distressed tracts. His were the roads upon which the greatest rush of labourers occurred—250,000 persons within a few days crowding upon a length of only a few miles. He withstood the crisis quietly and steadfastly, ontortaining and feeding the hungry multitudes as fast as they came in, and aligning roadways for them to work upon. As leisure permitted, he compelled them to labour on lines professionally laid out, and ended by causing the works to be finished in a permanently useful manner.

The following Executive Engineers distinguished themselves by controlling works scattered over broad areas; by reducing to order large bands of labourers; by preventing idleness and inefficiency in labour, and by securing a good proportion of permanently useful work:—

Mr. H. Joll (Durbhunga), Mr. R. A. Cordner (Purneah), Captain May (Sarun), Mr. W. F. F. Handcock (Chumparun).

Among the Executive Engineers whose charges were of less importance, and among the Assistant Engineers, the undermentioned officers may be recommended as having laboured with energy and success to provide relief work, and to turn relief labour to the best advantage:—

EXECUTIVE ENGINEERS.

Mr. R. Foley (Bogra),

" J. Sheldon (Rungpore),

,, W. H. Johnson (Bhagulpore), Captain W. M. Story (East Tirhoot),

Mr. W. H. Nightingale Burdwan), Baboo Gopal Chunder Mookerjee

(Rungpore),

Mr. E. J. Meara (Sonthal Pergunnahs),

Mr. R. C. Anderson (South Tirhoot), Baboo Madhub Chunder Roy (Sectamurhee), Baboo Khetter Mohun Bose (Man-bhoom).

ASSISTANT ENGINEERS.

Mr. W. Eckstein,,, H. J. Handley,,, J. F. Mackenzie,Baboo Raj Chunder Ghose,

Mr. L. F. Maclean,

Mr. L. O'Toole, ,, W. E. Green, Baboo Ramkissen Mookerjee, Mr. J. Smart.

Mr. T. H. Wickes, Executive Engineer, who possesses experience of Bengal rivers, did good service in clearing obstacles from some of the larger rivers, and by inspecting the water routes by which grain could be carried into the interior of the distressed districts during the rainy season.

Mr. Stevens, Civil Engineer of the Durbhunga estates (afterwards promoted to the rank of Superintending Engineer), having designed and partly carried out many works calculated to benefit not only the estates, but also the surrounding country, possessed facilities for employing labour at the beginning of the distress, of which advantages he availed himself for the good of the people. He was the first person who appeared in the field with remedies in hand and opened relief works; and he was the first who broached the suggestion of a tramway between Durbhunga and the Ganges. He afterwards had charge of the design and execution of what was then intended to be the permanent railway line in that quarter. His conduct was marked by a desire to render his skill and knowledge available in every direction.

Many subordinate officers of the Public Works Department distinguished themselves by hard work, under difficulties of climate and circumstances. Among these may be named—

Baboo Surut Chunder Ghose, Sub-Engineer,
Conductor S. S. Saunders, ditto,
Mr. J. H. Kenyon, ditto,
Sub-Conductor Cummings, Supervisor,
Sergeant A. Freeman, Overseer,
,, R. Strangham, ditto,
Baboo Poorna Chunder Goopta, Overseer,
Sergeant R. Dunlop, ditto,
Baboo Kali Prosonno Mozoomdar, ditto,
Mr. G. W. Martin, ditto,
Andrasseer Hormusjee Deoga, ditto,
Baboo Heeralall Mitter, ditto.

(2).—Temporary Railway to Durbhunga.

The construction of the temporary line from the Ganges to Durbhunga (53 miles of length, opened only after 53 days' work) was an extraordinary achievement in respect to speed. To carry the line over a country intersected by three considerable streams; to make it strong enough to carry 2,000 tons in a day; to open it within the prescribed time, demanded primarily an indefatigable energy, but also professional skill and administrative ability. All these qualities were displayed by Major F. S. Stanton, R.E., the Engineer-in-Chief. Having thus made the line, he worked its heavy State traffic with the same efficiency.

In this race of work against time, the officer whom he termed his right-hand man was Lieutenent W. H. Rathborne, R.E., whose endurance and ability were conspicuous.

On this line also the following officers are honourably mentioned for their exertions and merits:—

Mr. J. H. Cochran,
,, C. H. Burt,
Lieutenant H. G. Kanhardt, R.E.,
Mr. E. J. Moore,
,, H. W. Warden.

It is not necessary to say more in this place, as the thanks of the Government of India have already been given to Major Stanton and the officers who served under him.

(3).—IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

In the Irrigation and Embankment Department of north Behar (chiefly the Chumparun and Sarun districts), Mr. T. Martin was Superintending Engineer, and Mr. W. G. L. Cotton, Mr. J. C. Vertannes, and Mr. E. B. Gronsilliers were Executive Engineers. They exerted themselves in designing projects which might afford present help and might lay the foundation of improvement in the future. The project on the left bank of the Gunduk, in the Chumparun district, was undertaken as a relief work; but it will be even more useful in the future, in saving the villages from inundation and in conducting the water to agricultural uses. As regards the application of relief labour to this undertaking, these four officers rendered good service.

The Soane Canal, with its branches, was projected before the famine was apprehended, and will continue to be prosecuted. This is not therefore the place to notice the services of the Superintending Engineer, Mr. A. C. Levinge, and his officers. Still Mr. Levinge has rendered aid towards the prevention of famine. At the outset it was arranged that even the unfinished canal should give water to the plains around, whereby the scarcity was beaten back in that quarter, and the people were inspired with hope. He then obtained sanction to the undertaking of additional branches of the canal, by which employment would be afforded to the poor; and he arranged the terms of employment so as to suit the capabilities of relief labourers.

In the co-operation thus afforded to the relief service in the districts of Shahabad and Gya, the following officers are honourably mentioned:—

Captain J. M. McNeile, R.E., ,, J. M. Heywood, R.E., Mr. T. B. Stoney.

(4).—STATE RAILWAY DEPARTMENT.

Major Lindsay was Engineer-in-Chief of the Northern Bengal State Railway, the commencement of which was undertaken as a relief work. The railway was designed before the famine was apprehended, and will continue to be prosecuted. Throughout the famine he showed every desire to render the railway work useful for purposes of relief. He also undertook several "feeder" roads, that is roads leading from the interior to the sites of railway stations, the labour on which roads afforded employment to the distressed poor.

The members of the engineering staff on this line had to keep the works open for all comers during the most insalubrious months of the year, in a country flooded in the rainy season. They were in consequence all prostrated more or less by sickness. Among them the following officers have earned commendation for their conduct:—

ditto,

Mr. W. B. Carter, Superintendent of Works,

" T. M. Vigors,

- "H. W. Henderson, Executive Engineer (who employed many thousands on the railway feeder roads under his charge),
- " J. M. Luff, Executive Engineer (who also performed much useful grain transport work).

(5).—ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH SERVICE.

Major H. Mallock, Director of Construction, Electric Telegraph Department, signalised himself by skill and quickness in constructing 525 miles of temporary and permanent telegraph lines in about five weeks. The work was done with a considerable degree of stability. The lines were maintained without interruption once occurring throughout the rainy season, in a country much exposed to inundation.

Mr. C. H. Reynolds superintended the working of the temporary telegraph, and caused its business to be performed with accuracy and punctuality. This accuracy was the more remarkable, in that the often lengthy messages referred to unfamiliar things and to strange nomenclatures. The completeness with which the messages were rendered was worthy of the repute of the Government telegraph in India.

PART IV.—GENERAL.

(1).—SECRETARIAT AND HEAD-QUARTERS.

Mr. C. E. Bernard has been Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Scarcity and Relief Department from the beginning to the end of the Famine. Up to the 8th April 1874 he was with my predecessor, Sir George Campbell; since that date he has been with me. My predecessor, when departing, recorded the following testimony regarding him:—

"Especially I desire to testify to the very great burden which, during all "these months, has been borne by Mr. Bernard as Secretary in the Depart- ment of Scarcity and Relief. Now that the famine tracts are becoming more defined, it is difficult to realize the amount of labour and anxiety which for several months fell on those who had to watch all the symptoms in so many different quarters, and to provide for so many eventualities. Of all this "Mr. Bernard has throughout borne the lion's share: and I have felt under extraordinary obligations to him. I beg to record my sense of his merits in "the strongest terms I can use."

Mr. Bernard has subsequently served me with the same measure of talent and efficiency. He has accompanied me in all tours, and has had charge of all the business relating to the famine, of the issue of the emergent orders, of the preparation of important figured statements. His knowledge of the country, his practical experience, his insight into the habits and sentiments of the people, his power of despatching affairs, and generally his qualifications as a public servant, have rendered his counsel and assistance valuable, and entitle him to the acknowledgments of the Government of Bengal.

My predecessor left with me the following record regarding Mr. A. Mackenzie:—

"Seeing the increasing urgency and importance of relief matters, I thought that the best talent available in the Bengal Office should be given to it, and I arranged that Mr. Mackenzie should assist Mr. Bernard. He has since taken a large share of the work, and has made himself thoroughly cognizant of it. He also accompanied me on tour, and was then extremely useful to me."

Mr. Mackenzie served for a few weeks under me, when he was compelled by medical advice to proceed to England. During that time he evinced general capacity and a special aptitude for the higher branches of statistics.

On Mr. G. Toynbee devolved the duty of receiving and despatching from Calcutta all the Government grain. He discharged this emergent duty with smoothness and efficiency, giving satisfaction to the Government, as well as to the relief officers in the interior and the railway companies with whom he had relations. When the grain despatch was completed, he took up the duties of Under-Secretary.

Under the orders of Government Mr. J. C. Geddes compiled a hand-book of the "Experiences of Former Famines," which has been useful to relief officers throughout their operations. He gave assistance in systematising the forms of accounts and registers for relief operations.

- "My Private Secretary, Mr. Luttman-Johnson, volunteered to act as an "Under-Secretary to Mr. Bernard in the Relief Department in addition to "his other duties, and in that capacity he rendered much excellent service."
- Mr. C. E. Buckland, Mr. L. Abbott, and Mr. G. Hart, accompanied me on the tours in the distressed districts made between January and April, and through their hands passed the minutes, statements, and estimates, which were then prepared. Their services deserve my cordial acknowledgments.
- Colonel J. E. T. Nicolls, Secretary in the Public Works Department and Chief Engineer to the Government of Bengal, directed the relief works until Colonel Trevor was deputed to the distressed districts as special Chief Engineer in the month of February. Since that time Colonel Nicolls has had the duty of providing Engineers and subordinates, of supplying tools and plant, and of supporting Colonel Trevor and the Relief Engineers in the prosecution of their duties.
- Colonel H. W. Gulliver, Secretary and Chief Engineer in the Irrigation Department, directed the relief works (Soane Canal and Gunduk Embankments) pertaining to his branch of the Public Works. His advice has during the past year been of special value on more than one occasion.
- Mr. F. R. Boyce, the Controller of Public Works Accounts, and his Deputy, Captain F. G. Oldham, R.E., diligently, and I hope successfully, laboured to audit and bring to account all the large expenditure on relief works.

Captain Oldham, by visiting the distressed districts, was able to help the Engineers to put their accounts in good order.

Mr. James Taylor, belonging to the Financial Department of the Government of India, was deputed by the Government of Bengal to inspect and direct the local account offices on the spot. He visited all the chief offices, and taught the clerks how to compile their accounts of grain and cash. Supported by the superior officers of the Finance Department, Mr. Taylor has succeeded in bringing the relief accounts into such order that they will, it is believed, be completed and adjusted within three months of the close of the operations. Among the junior officers of the Finance Department deputed to direct the chief local offices of relief accounts, Mr. Dobbie of Chumparun has done well. Mr. Ellis (of Mudhoobunnee), Mr. Frew (of Durbhunga), Mr. Atkinson (of Mozufferpore), have done valuable work in the Account Department. Our officers have to acknowledge much valuable advice and information, in respect to the keeping of the famine accounts, received from Mr. D'H. Larpent, Deputy Auditor-General.

The Hon'ble V. H. Schalch served as President of the Central Committee at Calcutta. With the help of the Committee he arranged for expending the large relief funds in accordance with the wishes of the subscribers, kept the District Relief Committees and Government officers supplied with funds, allowed these funds to be spent on auxiliary relief, such as clothes for the poor, or pecuniary help for persons who had lost their plough-cattle and other means of livelihood. He will eventually present the charitable public with a statement showing how their funds have been spent.

(2) —GUARANTEED RAII WAYS

I desire to record the sense entertained by the Government of Bengal regarding the untiring efforts made by the Traffic Manager of the East Indian Railway, Mr. J. C. Batchelor, to cause the mass of Government grain to be delivered punctually and satisfactorily at the unloading stations on the banks of the Ganges. In these efforts he was ably seconded by his assistants Mr. Urban Broughton, Mr. W. Allen, and Mr. J. Hudson.

On the Eastern Bengal line the Company's Agent, Mr. Franklin Prestage, co-operated with the Government officers in securing the regular arrival of the Government grain at the stations of Kooshtoa and Goalundo.

The Government Consulting Engineer's Department afforded aid and counsel regarding matters connected with working the railways and causing the greatest quantity of Government grain to be carried with least inconvenience to private traffic. In these affairs, and also in arranging for sidings and station improvement, Lieutenant W. S. S. Bisset, R.L., a representative of that department, was specially useful.

(3) -O(EAN MARINF SLRVICE

The Government of India have recorded the obligations which Bengal and Behar owe to the British Indian Steam Navigation Company's for the manner in which the bulk of the Government grain was conveyed by the Company's steamers from Rangoon to Calcutta. Those who witnessed the difficulties which beset the transport of the masses of grain from Calcutta up-country into the interior can best appreciate the advantages of receiving the toreign consignments with regularity at the seaport. That advantage was enjoyed by the Government of Bengal, by reason of the forethought and enterprise of Mr. James Mackinnon, the Chairman of the Company, and the manner in which his directions were carried out by the agent at Calcutta, Mr. T. M Russell.

Nor should the Government of Bengal forget its obligations to Mossrs. Bullock Brothers and Messrs. Mohr, through whom the purchases of grain destined for its use were made in British Burmah, and to Messrs. Bird & Co., to whom the despatches of grain were consigned at Calcutta, for unloading and for landing.

[First Publication.] NOTIFICATION.

The 21st November 1874.—The following revised rules connected with the departmental examinations of junior members of the Covenanted Civil Service, the Subordinate Executive Service, the Non-Regulation Commission, Police, &c., have been sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, and are published for general information:—

- 1. All Assistant Magistrates, Assistant and Extra Assistant Commissioners, Deputy Magistrates and Collectors, Assistant Superintendents of Police, and others to whom these rules may be applicable, who may have been more than six months on duty, shall, and those who have been less than six months on duty may, at their option, be subjected to half-yearly departmental examinations, and shall be required to pass according to the standard, or the standards of examination which may be applicable to them, respectively, in each subject according to the rules hereinafter set forth.
- 2. To direct and control these half-yearly departmental examinations, there shall be a Central Examination Committee appointed by Government. It shall consist of a President, and of as many members (of whom one shall be Secretary) as the Government may think proper to appoint from time to time.
- 3. The examinations may be held, in the Regulation Provinces, at any station which is the head-quarters of a Divisional Commissioner, and at any other station where there is a Zillah Judge.
- 4. For the Non-Regulation Provinces the examinations may be held at the following stations, and at any other stations where the Commissioners may, in communication with the Central Examination Committee, think it necessary to hold Committees for examination:—

For Chota Nagpore, at Ranchee.

For Cooch Behar, at Darjeeling or Julpigoree.

For Sonthal Pergunnahs, at Bhagulpore.

For Chittagong Hill Tracts, at Chittagong.

- 5. Each Divisional Commissioner should notify, at least one month before the date of examination, at how many stations in his division examinations are to be held, and for the officers of what districts each shall be held. If a Divisional Commissioner has only a very few examinees, and if the means of locomotion are easy, he will probably have only one or two centres of examination in his division. For remote or inaccessible districts, he might have special examinations. For instance, the Presidency Division and Midnapore District examinees could all come in to Alipore, and the rest of the Burdwan Division men to Hooghly, or all to the Presidency. The Commissioners of Rajshahye and Dacca would probably decide to have two, three, or more centres of examination. The Commissioners of the Chittagong, Bhagulpore, and Orissa Divisions, would probably want only one; the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore two; and the Commissioner of Patna either one or two centres of examination. But in all divisions the Lieutenant-Governor would leave it to each Commissioner to decide for each examination.
- 6. The Central Examination Committee are authorized to sanction, on sufficient cause being shown, the appearance of an officer for examination at a station other than that at which under ordinary circumstances he would be required to present himself.
- 7. At the several stations at which it may be determined that examinations are to be held, Local Committees shall be formed, who shall conduct the examinations under the instructions of the Central Committee, with whom they will correspond on all matters relating to the examinations.
- 8. The Local Committee at each station, which is the head-quarters of a Commissioner, shall consist of the Commissioner, the Collector (or Deputy Commissioner), and a Native civil officer to be selected by the Commissioner. In the absence of the Commissioner, or Collector, the Judge (or Judicial Commissioner) shall take his place on the Committee. At the other stations the Committee shall consist of the Judge, the Collector, and any native officer to be selected by the Judge. At the stations in the Non-Regulation Provinces, which are not the head-quarters of the Commissioner, and at which there is no Judicial Commissioner, the Deputy Commissioner shall form a Committee with one or two other officers to be selected by him in communication, if necessary, with the Commissioner of the division.
- 9. The Government will on every occasion fix, in communication with the Central Committee, the days for the half-yearly examination, which shall be the same for every district. The firsts half-yearly examination will usually be held in the month of April, May, or June, and the second in the month of October, November, or December.
- 10. It shall be the duty of the Central Committee to prepare beforehand, for each examination, sets of questions to be put to the examinees; to forward a sufficient number of copies of each of such sets to the President of each Local Committee in a sealed packet, which shall not be opened until the moment of examination; to determine the order in which the examinations in each paper and subject shall be held; and to arrange all other details for the conduct of the examinations. The Central Committee, from time to time, shall lay down such rules as may appear to them best for the guidance of the Local Committees, in order to ensure a fair and uniform method of fixing the degree of attainment upon each point of examination which the several officers examined may reach.

only so far as may be necessary to ensure the conduct of them with proper strictness. They shall not examine the written answers, but shall forward them to the Central Committee with a report, which shall be furnished by the District Officer and Commissioner under whom the examinee has been employed, as to his official character, qualifications, and the work done by him during the preceding six months, as well as a paper of marks which they shall assign to candidates for conversation, in which branch their decision shall be final. The Central Committee, after taking all the reports into consideration, and perusing all the examination papers, shall report to Government the names of such officers as, in their opinion, have come up to the requirements according to one or other of the standards in force, noticing especially, in the order of their merit, those who may have passed with distinction. They shall also report the names of those who, in their opinion, have succeeded in passing in one or more of the subjects, as well as of those who have failed altogether.

12. There shall be two standards of examination in Law and Languages: the First or the Lower and the Second or the Higher Standard. As regards languages, the papers and marks for each standard shall for the present be kept distinct.

13. The only language in which officers generally shall be required to pass by the Lower Standard shall be the vernacular of the district in which they may be serving, and the principal object of the examination shall be to test the proficiency, for practical purposes, of the examinee in such language.

14. Lithographed copies of at least two documents, written in different running hands, shall be forwarded by the Central Committee to each Local Committee; and the examinees shall be required, within a limited time, to be fixed by the Central Committee, to transcribe the papers set into Roman character, and also to give an intelligible written translation thereof in English, provided they know that language. Native officers who do not know English will be required only to translate these documents. The Local Committee shall forward the transcripts and translations for the final decision of the Central Committee as to the number of marks to be awarded. An English judgment, or other official paper, to be furnished by the Central Committee, must be translated by the examinee into the vernacular without assistance. The examinee must also dictate off-hand, with some fluency, the translation into the vernacular of an English report, or other official paper, also to be furnished by the Central Committee, whereof the translation shall be written down exactly as dictated. He must then be tested in conversation with two or three natives, in such manner and to such extent as shall suffice to satisfy the Committee as to the degree of his power of understanding natives of different classes, and of making himself understood by them, both in common conversation and in the usual course of office business. An examinee must pass successfully through every step of this branch of the examination, in order to qualify himself according to the First Standard. The translation must be substantially correct in meaning, and intelligible to a native, tolerably correct in grammar and spelling, and free from any very bad errors of idiom. The dictated paper must in like manner be intelligible and substantially correct.

25. The next object of the First or Lower Standard of examination shall be to test the examinee's practical acquaintance with the Criminal Codes, and his general knowledge of certain of the more important local laws, regulations, and rules. One paper shall be prepared specially for this examination, which shall be confined to the Criminal Codes, and for which the use of books shall be allowed. The questions must not be such as can be answered by copying a passage from a book; they must be such as shall thoroughly test the intelligent knowledge of the examinees in understanding the bearing of facts, and knowing where to look for the law and how to apply it. Another paper shall be prepared, consisting of questions on the local laws, regulations, and rules enumerated in Appendix I below. These must be answered without the aid of books. The whole of this paper shall be equally available to the candidates for the Lower and the Higher Standards of examination, but the number of marks required for passing shall be less in the case of examinees by the Lower than in that of those by the Higher Standard of examination.

16. In the examination by the Higher Standard it shall be necessary for the examinee to pass in both the required vernacular languages—ordinarily Bengali and Urdu. The standard of examination shall be similar in its nature to the first, but more difficult in degree. In the vernacular portion of it the papers selected as tests should be of a more difficult description of office papers; the translation, dictation, and conversation should be fluent, generally correct, and readily intelligible; and the examinee should be tested in his power of explaining himself clearly, and with sufficient propriety, in the vernacular, in an argument or topic of some difficulty, such as may occur in official business. The questions of law and practice should be selected from the whole field of the duties of a Magistrate and Collector. All examinees will be required to pass in two papers. The nature of the one, in answering the questions in which the use of books will not be allowed, has already been explained in paragraph 15. The other paper, for which the use of books will be allowed, will contain questions on the local laws, regulations, and rules set forth in Appendix II. The examinees should have all the Acts, Regulations, and Circulars, but the questions should be confined as much as possible to cases commonly arising in the ordinary routine of a Magistrate and Collector, or of a Police Superintendent's office. They should consist almost entirely of stating certain facts of probable occurrence in real practice, and requiring the examinee to find and apply the law applicable to the facts.

17. Covenanted Civil Servants may pass by the Lower or the Higher Standard in either or both the languages whenever they can. They must pass the examination in "local laws, regulations, and rules," and in both languages, by the Higher Standard. They will be required to pass by the Lower Standard in languages only, and will not be subject to any restrictions in respect of the order of passing the different language-tests in the Higher Standard.

18. Covenanted Civil Servants must always pass by the Higher Standard in Bengali, and these who have not so passed in Hindustani will have no claim to full powers or to the full pay of Rs. 500, and cannot have powers or promotion in a Hindustani district, although the higher powers may be conferred on them in a Bengali district, if the public service requires it.

19. All officers other than Covenanted Civil Servants will be required to pass fully both the Lower and the Higher Standards of examination, with the following exceptions:-

20. Officers who, after passing in the higher grade the preliminary examination for admission into the Subordinate Executive Service held in 1873, or subsequently received appointments in that service, will be subject to no further examination except the Higher Standard departmental examination, and the opium laws examination for those candidates who are appointed to the Opium Department without having taken the opium papers. Candidates who passed at the Subordinate Executive Service examination held in 1872 are exempted from examination by the Lower Standard in the vernacular only. They will, however, be required to pass in Law by that standard.

21. Natives of Hindustan serving in Behar and Hazareebagh shall not be required to pass in Bengali, but it will be optional with them to do so, and those who do pass will be eligible for service and promotion in Bengal as well as in Behar.

22. Officers other than natives of Ilindustan will not be required to pass in Hindustani, but may do so, and will then be eligible for service and promotion in Bchar and Hazareebagh as well as in Bengal.

23. These exemptions are not applicable to officers in the Police, who must pass in both

Bengali and Hindustani as now, unless specially exempted.

All native officers in the Subordinate Executive Service, in the Non-Regulation Commission, and in the Police, will be strictly examined in their own vernacular, the object of the examination being to test their thorough competency to conduct the correspondence and other ordinary business of their offices with their own hands.

25. In case a candidate, allowed by Government for any special reason to present himself for examination by the Higher Standard in Law or Languages before passing the Lower, fail to pass the Higher Standard in either subject, the Central Examination Committee shall have full authority to decide whether he has done sufficiently well to entitle him to be passed by the Lower Standard.

Officers who succeed in passing by either standard, either (a) in Law or (b) in either of the languages, shall not again be required to present himself for examination by the same standard in the subject in which he was successful, but only in those in which he failed.

27. The marks to be assigned to each branch of the examination, the proportion required for passing by the different standards, and the time allowed for each paper, are set forth in Appendix III. Uniformity must be rigidly enforced in the time allowed for each subject, whether in Law or Language.

28. A civil officer who has passed according to the First Standard of examination, and who has exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the Third Class for six months, shall usually be vested with the powers, of a Magistrate of the Second Class described in Sections 20, 24 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Act X of 1872), provided he is certified by the Commissioner to be fully competent to exercise them. Assistant Magistrates and Assistant Commissioners will also then be vested with the powers of a Deputy Collector.

29. An officer, however, who shall have passed by the Lower Standard in the Criminal Codes and in the language of his district, may be vested with the powers of a Magistrate of the Second Class, on the Commissioner of the division submitting a recommendation to that effect, provided he has had not less than six months' experience in his Magisterial duties.

80. An officer who has passed according to the Second Standard shall be eligible to be vested with the powers of a Magistrate of the First Class, but not until he shall have exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the Second Class for at least six months.

31. An officer who has passed in Law and in the language of his district according to the Second Standard, may also be vested with the powers of a Magistrate of the First Class, subject to the condition of his having exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the Second Class for six months, but he shall not be entitled to any promotion or increase of pay until he has passed fully by the Second Standard. He shall exercise the powers of a Magistrate of the First Class so long only as he is employed in a district where the language in which he has passed is the vernacular.

- 32. Assistant Magistrates and Assistant Commissioners on first appointment draw only Rs. 400 a month. On passing the Lower Standard of examination they shall be allowed an increase of Rs. 50 a month, provided they have exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the Third Class for six months at least; and on passing fully the Higher Standard and being invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the First Class, they will receive a second increase of Rs. 50, provided they have also exercised the powers of a Magistrate of the Second Class for not less than six months.
- 33. Officers attending these examinations will be allowed travelling allowance according to the ordinary rates of such allowances prevailing in the services to which they respectively belong. Covenanted Civil Servants and Military Officers in civil employ will draw travelling allowance for attending examinations on three occasions for each standard. Uncovenanted Officers will draw such allowances on two occasions only.
- 34. No application from any junior officer liable to examination, for privilegedeave or leave on private affairs, will be entertained, if the following half-yearly examinations fall due before the expiry of the leave applied for, unless the application specifies that the applicant will attend the examination.
- 35. If such leave is applied for, and the application from such an officer is submitted to Government, it should be stated that he is liable to pass an examination, and that the next examination will be held within the period of the leave applied for. This will enable the Lieutenant-Governor to decide whether, for the reasons stated, the leave should be granted; and if so, with what conditions.
- It is the duty of District Officers to look to the practical training of the young officers placed under them, from their first entering into official life till they acquire a practical experience in their duties, and qualify themselves for the exercise of higher powers by passing the prescribed examinations. District Officers are expected to take active interest in the well-being of the young men placed under them by exercising due supervision over their studies, by holding periodical examinations to test their qualifications and official knowledge, and by any other means which may seem to them to be expedient for the purpose.

SPECIAL RULES.

1. Officers in Orissa must pass in Uriya as their first language.

For the future no officer who did not on the 4th May 1874 hold the substantive rank of a District Magistrate shall be promoted to that substantive rank in a district of Orissa until he has passed in Uriya by the Higher Standard; and the same condition as to Bengali will govern the promotion of an officer transferred from Orissa to a Bengali-speaking district. From these conditions, however, all officers who on the 4th May 1874 were of 12 years' standing (from the date of commencement of civil service) in Bengal are exempt.

3. Military Officers in civil employ under this Government, who would ordinarily be subject to examination in Urdu, shall not be required to pass in that language by either the First or the Second Standard of the departmental examinations, if they have previously passed by the Higher Standard according to the tests for the Examination of Military Officers in that language, laid down in G.G. O. No. 734, dated 9th September 1864, and G. G. O. No. 294, dated 24th March 1866.

4. For Police Officers the examination for the Lower Standard shall consist of the language of the district in which they are employed, and of the papers in Criminal Codes prepared for Executive Officers. The examination for the Higher Standard shall be in both the Bengali and Urdu languages, and in a special paper which must be prepared in Criminal Law only, including the Salt, Excise and Opium Laws, to be answered without books.

- 5. Police Officers employed in Orissa must pass in Uriya as their first language.
 6. All Police Officers are required to pass in Bengali according to the Second Standard, and until they so pass they will not be considered eligible for transfer out of Bengal Proper.
- 7. Police Officers transferred to the executive service, or who desire such transfer, will be required to pass the same tests as those prescribed above for officers of the Subordinate Executive Service, subject to the exception noted below.

8. When an officer so circumstanced has already passed by either standard in a language, the pass will be accepted as sufficient to that degree.

- 9. Such officers who have passed in Law by the Lower Standard (as hitherto required for the Police) will still be required to pass for the Lower Standard in the general papers of local laws, &c., but they will be exempted from examination in the Criminal Codes prescribed for the Lower Standard, if they desire to avail themselves of the exemption. But if any such officer elects to pass the examination in the Codes, such pass will be taken into account in his favor.
- Such officers who have passed by the Higher Police Standard in Law will still be required to pass in both law papers prescribed in paragraph 16 above, the word "law" being now used in a much broader sense to cover revenue and general law.
- 11. Candidates for admission into the Opium Department will continue to be examined according to the rules laid down in G. O. No. 1157G, of 28th October 1872. It will therefore only be in exceptional cases that after admission any such candidate will be required to appear at the departmental examinations to which the above rules refer.

An account of the weight of the drug when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue.

- 18. It is hereby further notified that under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March 1815, quoted below, the Agents in India of the French Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1875, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided however that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this notification. The Rig-Veda, the oldest book of Indian literature, has very properly been made one of the principal class-books for those who study Sanskrit in the schools and colleges in India, and though at present a scholar-like knowlege of the Vedic hymns is in the examinations required of the more advanced students only, yet, as soon as editions, translations, grammars, and distinuaries shall have rendered the study of these ancient documents more accessible. I doubt not that the time will come when no one in India will call himself a Sanskrit scholar who cannot construct the hymns of the ancient Rishis of his country.—Estract from Preface.

the law relating to Civil Appeals the Lower Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now honour to present this preliminary report.

2. The marginally noted communications from the Rájshahai

Association, from the Secretary to the British Indian Association and from the Pleaders of the High Court, Calcutta, all raise objections to the whole principle of the Bill, so far as it restricts the right of appealing. These objections are principally founded on the insufficiency of the existing Courts below the High Court to dispose of suits in a way satisfactory to the suitors. The Rájshahai Association submit proposals for improving the Mofussil Courts, but whatever consideration such proposals may receive from the Government, we have not considered them within the scope of our functions.

3. We think that the fears expressed about the operation of the measure are to a considerable extent due to an imperfect apprehension of the mode in which it is calculated to work, and in particular to some forgetfulness of the fact that, at the present time, there is no second appeal from a decision on the facts, even though the District Court may have reversed the decision of the Court below, and may be clearly shown to have erred in so doing, and that the Bill proposes to open a door to appeal in such cases.

- We do not wish to make light of the fears expressed about a change which everybody admits to be tentative and which it is therefore prudent to introduce cautiously. And we have made some important alterations with the view of meeting those fears to a considerable extent. For this reason we have wholly struck out the limitations placed by the Bill as introduced on first appeals, and have left them to be regulated by the existing law, namely, Act VI of 1871, section 29. We have by section 5, clauses (c) and (d) conferred a much larger measure of discretion on the High Court to admit second appeals; and we hope we have made it clear, both by direct enactment and by illustration, that rent-suits as well as other suits raising questions of general interest will be fit subjects for a second appeal. Perhaps we ought hardly to describe this last point as an alteration, because it was the intertion of the Bill as introduced; but the language then used may not have been sufficiently clear to prevent doubt, whether it included all the classes of suits intended.
- We have not felt justified consistently with the maintenance of the measure in going any further in the direction of greater latitude of appeal, and in our opinion the measure is one the main principles of which will be beneficial to the community they affect.
 - The other alterations which we have made may be briefly stated as follows:—
- We think the proposed Act should not apply to suits in which appellate decrees have been made within three months before it passes.
- We have provided that, whether a Judge allows or disallows an appeal, he shall state his reasons for so doing.
- We have slightly reduced the time within which applications for leave to appeal must be made. But we have admitted applications after the prescribed period when the applicant was prevented applying in time by causes beyond his control. And in computing this period we have authorized the exclusion of the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the decree sought to be appealed against.
- We have authorized the Court stating a case under the proposed Act, as well as the Court allowing an appeal, to impose terms as to costs on the party applying for a second appeal. All orders imposing such terms will be reversible by the High Court on the decision of the appeal or case referred to.
- We think that the Court allowing a second appeal-should fix a time (not exceeding ninety days from the date of the allowance) within which the appeal must be presented, and we have declared that every such appeal presented after such period shall be dismissed.
- 12. We have made a few verbal amendments and given some illustrations, and recommend that the Bill thus altered be passed. But first we think that it should be republished with this report, and the papers above mentioned in the second paragraph.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to appeals in civil suits in the Lower Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal; It is hereby enacted as follows:-

- where the importance of the suit to the person seeking to appeal cannot properly be measured in money, and the decree or order sought to be appealed against has substantially varied the decree of the Court of first instance;

- A sues Z for the possession of a family idol of which each claims to be the proper custodian as representing the family. The Munsif decrees in favour of one, the District Judge in favour of the other. To both of them the suit is one the importance of which cannot properly be measured in money. Court may therefore allow an appeal at the instance of either.

materials. The Munsif decrees in favour of one, the District Judge in favour of the other. To A the suit is one the importance of which cannot properly be measured in money, but it is not so to Z. The Court may therefore allow an appeal at the instance of A, but not at the instance of Z.

- (2). In a like suit the question is whether the law is such as the legislative body which made it has power to make. This is a question of general importance to the public.
- (3). A sues Z according to the law of British India. Z pleads that the territory by the law of which the rights of the parties are governed is not any part of British India. This is a question of general importance to the public.
- (1). A, a ryot, contests the claim of Z, a zamindár, to Rs. 2 enhanced rent. The determination of the issue raised between A and Z will form a case in point for the determination of similar issues between Z and his other ryots, or between neighbouring zamindars and their ryots. This is a question of common interest to a large class of persons.
- where on the face of the judgment, decree or order sought to be appealed against, there is a manifest error substantially affecting the merits of the case.

On the 1st April 1873, A institutes a suit against B for Rs. 150. The Judge dismisses the suit on the ground that it was barred under Act XIV of 1859. That Act, when the suit was brought, had been repealed, and under the Act which replaced it, the suit was brought in due time. The High Court may allow an appeal from the order dismissing the suit.

 Sections twenty-two, twenty-six and twenty-seven, appeals shall lie as follows:—
- (a) from decrees and orders of Munsifs to the District Judge;
- (b) from original decrees and orders of Subordinate Judges to the District Judge, except where the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds five thousand rupees, in which case the appeal shall lie to the High Court;

- (d) from all decrees and orders of District Judges and Additional Judges, to the High Court.
- 8. The Court allowing any appeal under this Time within which appeals allowed under this Act shall fix a time within which it shall be presented: provided that the time so fixed shall not exceed ninety days from the date of the order allowing the appeal.

 thereon, for the consideration of the High Court.

The High Court shall have power to hear and determine any case so stated, and shall fix an early day for such hearing and cause notice of such day to be placed in the Court house.

The parties to the suit may appear and be heard in person or by advocate or vakil in the High Court.

When a case is referred under this section, the Court referred to may alter, cancel or set aside any order or decree which the Court making the reference may have made in the suit, and may make such order as the justice of the case may require.

When the case has been heard and determined, the High Court shall send a copy of its judgment under the seal of the Court to the Court by which the statement was made, and such Court shall, on receipt of the copy, dispose of the suit conformably to the decision of the High Court.

11. Whenever an appeal is allowed under section three or section five, and whenever a case is stated under section ten, the Court allowing the appeal or stating the case, may impose such terms as it thinks fit as to costs or otherwise on the party applying for the appeal.

Illustrations.

- (a). A applies for a second appeal. The Court may put him on the terms of giving security for costs, either before the presentation of the appeal or before its hearing, and under penalty of dismissal of the appeal in case security is not given, as to the Court seems just.
- (b). A applies for a second appeal. He has not complied with the decree. The Court may put him on the terms of first complying with the decree.
- (c). A sues B and gets a decree which is affirmed on appeal. B applies for a second appeal on the ground that a question of law of public importance is involved. The Court is of opinion that such a question is involved, but that it is hard upon A to make him pay for its decision. It may put B on the terms of paying the costs, or of not receiving costs, or on such other terms as may appear to it to meet the justice of the case.
- Power to reverse orders under section eleven may be reversed or modified by the High Court on the decision of the appeal or case therein referred to.

Act not to apply to 13. This Act does not certain appeals and suits. apply—

- (a) to appeals from any decree or order by the High Court or any Judge thereof;
- (b) to special appeals presented before the passing of this Act; or
- (c) to suits in which appellate decrees have been made within ninety days before the passing of this Act.

From Assistant Secretary, Rájshahai Association, to the Private Secretary to His Excellency the Viceroy,—(dated 3rd September 1874).

I have the honour to send herewith a memorial from the Rájshalai Association to His Excellency. I beg that you will kindly lay it before His Excellency.

(Signed) KISHORI LAL SARKAR.

To

HIS EXCRLLENCY THE VICEROY AND GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA.

The humble memorial of the Rajshahai Association.

Most Humbly Shewern,—That the subject of Civil Appeals being under legislative consideration, your Excellency's memorialists would venture to submit their views on it as follows:—

2. An amendment of appeals is proposed, because, firstly, of the extremely unsatisfactory effect of partial appeals; secondly, the vast number of appeals which reach the High Court and consume the time of the Judges; and, thirdly, the great and disproportionate expense to the public caused by appeals for very trifling sums of money.

- 3. These three circumstances, as stated by the honourable mover of the Bill, do, in the humble opinion of your Excellency's memorialists, indicate a very unsatisfactory state of things. The first circumstance mentioned, namely, the evil effect of partial appeals, is obvious. But you's Excellency's memorialists sincerely doubt as to how far the other two circumstances, taken barely, should be referred to as calling for changes such as are proposed.
- 4. A vast number of appeals consuming the time of the Judges of the High Court is stated as the first ground. If such appeals be not the result of an unreasonably litigious spirit, this consumption of the time of the Judges of the High Court cannot, in the humble opinion of your Excellency's memorialists, be called to be an evil.
- 5. Referring to the third ground, namely, the great and disproportionate expense to the public caused by appeals for very trifling sums of money, your Excellency's memorialists would also beg to say the same. If the expenses of maintaining a Court be large, compared with the total value of properties which formed the subject of disputes before it, this alone would not be objectionable, as the object of Courts, in the humble opinion of your Excellency's memorialists, seems to be not only the granting of relief in disputes that actually occur, but also the creation of a general satisfaction in the minds of the people as a whole. If, then, all these things and not alone the relief granted by adjudications of actual dispute are to be put against the cost of a Court of justice, the value of the time of the Judges could not be called as inadequately repaid simply because of its being devoted to cases of small valuation.
- 6. In fact, your Excellency's memorialists do not understand the second and third circumstances being put forward in the Council as themselves constituting matters for complaints to the public, but they take them to have been stated as pointing at some evils underlying these circumstances. In your Excellency's memorialists' humble opinion, the evil which these grounds, namely, abundance and trivial character of appeals, indicate, consists in the constitution of our Mofussil Courts. But it seems that the honourable mover of the Bill thinks that they are attributable to a morbid litigious tendency in the people of these provinces, it is accordingly proposed to make changes curtailing the power of appealing with a view to discourage this tendency.
- aware that in Bengal parties in a case are often seen to evince a perverse and obstinate spirit of litigious rivalry, which should by all means be corrected, yet to the minds of your Excellency's memorialists this morbid tendency is not really so much as it is supposed. Parties who manifest this bad spirit never formed a great majority of suitors, and whatever their number was it is fast falling off owing to several causes.
- 8. Excepting simple rent cases and cases of Small Cause Court nature, the classes of suit which come before the Mofussil Courts are chiefly the following: Enhancement of rent cases, succession

- cases, adoption cases, Hindú widow alienation cases, joint-family cases, sale-at-auction cases, boundary cases, chur cases, easement cases, mortgage cases, contribution cases, benámí cases, nikash or account cases. Of these, it is generally in respect of boundary, easement, and joint-family cases alone that, for obvious reasons, an obstinate spirit of litigiousness is manifested. The number of persons involved in disputes of these limited sorts could never have been very great, and that number is certainly decreasing, thanks to education and increase of a boud fide business spirit on one hand, and the ruin of many of the feudal-minded landowner families and general poverty on the other.
- 9. Suitors also in the remaining classes of cases described above do not stop short of the last chance of appeals. But they are naturally impelled to it (as men similarly circumstanced would be in any other country) by the important character of the cases and the defective constitution of our Mofussil Courts. Cases of succession, adoption, new-formed land, enhancement of rent and the like, which have to fix the status of persons and settle proprietary-rights, require a broad-minded and sifting inquiry, which it must be admitted our District Appellate Courts are not in a state to make so as to give satisfaction to the parties.
- 10. Your Excellency's humble memorialists would heartily wish to have this system of appeal over an appeal abolished. But if no attempt be made to improve the constitution of our Mofussil Courts, they greatly fear that it would be making things worse to reduce appeals to the High Court, as it is proposed in the Bill.
- 11. As to the pecuniary limitation imposed by clause (a), section 2, objections showing the difficulties and evil effects of it have proceeded from many quarters. Your Excellency's memorialists will only add that the discretionary power given to the Local Government to reduce the minimum valuation for appeals will be of no practical avail to meet the objections. On the other hand, the exercise of this power by Government will, in all probability, only add confusion and discontent.
- 12. As to clause (b), section 2, the objection that this may operate to interfere with the due discharge of duties by the Appellate Court, is weighty in the humble opinion of your Excellency's memorialists. Besides, your Excellency's memorialists submit that a concurrence of two Courts as they are in the Mofassil, although it will have a great weight in respect of decision on facts, will not carry any great presumption as to correctness in law, which is ever of great importance, especially in the classes of cases your Excellency's memorialists have enumerated.
- 13. As to sections 4 and 5. These sections will only, as your Excellency's humble memorialists humbly think, place the Appellate Court Judges in constant embarrassments, out of which they will seek to escape each in a way characteristic to himself. He may allow appeals or disallow them under the influence of feelings which are remote from the considerations contemplated in these sections. So the chances under these sections are, that one Judge will allow appeal which the Act intends to disallow, while another will disallow appeals which the Act means to permit, there being confusion to the boot in the course of things in either event.

- 14. As to section 6, clause (c) is the most important part of this section. And in the humble opinion of your Excellency's memorialists, it seems that, taken with the explanations, this clause will be virtually inoperative in its effects. And they most respectfully think that the insertion of a number of illustrations may not improve matters, as each illustration will be a rule by itself and will thus lead to complications and give scope to that sort of litigation which is intended to be remedied, as it will lead to constant attempts to move the High Court successfully or unsuccessfully.
- 15. In the humble opinion of your Excellency's memorialists, the only thing which may at present, without attempting any change in the constitution of our Mofussil Courts, be advantageously considered, is that put as the first ground of complaint by the honourable mover, namely, the extremely unsatisfactory effect of partial appeals. The recent Note by Sir Richard Couch strongly shows the desirability of converting the present partial appeals to the High Court into full and regular But to keep the business of the High Court within limits which it can conveniently dispose of, power should be given to the High Court to disallow appeals in certain cases as it may think fit. The High Court, for instance, may have the power to reject appeals below rupees 100, or those from the concurrent decision of two lower Courts, unless very glaring and striking errors and irregularities were pointed out at the time of filing The effect of such a reservation of power to the High Court will be quite different from the rules now proposed in the Bill in restraint of appeals. In fact, such discretionary power in the hands of the High Court will have none of the evils calculated to follow from those rules.
- 16. One evil effect which is likely to follow the introduction of the arbitrary rules in the Bill checking appeals in civil cases without removing the causes which give to parties substantial grounds of dissatisfaction with the judgment of the District Courts, would be an increased tendency in parties to resort to force and violence or to intrigues. Thus a saving of time in respect of civil appeals may indirectly create other business for the Courts, although in different shapes.
- 17. Comparison is sometimes made between England and India in respect of litigation. the humble opinion of your Excellency's memorialists, the guarantees of justice in England are far greater than in this country. The trial by jury in the Nisi Prius Court and County Courts generally speaking; the experience and legal training of the Judges, the Judge presiding over the Nisi Prius Courts being one of the Judges of the superior Courts; the varieties of appeals and motions, from the judgment of the Nisi Prius Courts to the Court in Bane at Westminster, and from the Westminster Benches to the Court of Exchequer Chamber, and finally from the Exchequer Chamber to the House of Lords; the strong public opinion; the independent relation between the Bench and Bar. All these, as your Excellency's nemorialists need scarcely tell, form a variety of safeguards against injustice in England, in the place of which there is the only one of appealing in this country, which also is in an The value of trial by jury is unsatisfactory state. unjustly under-rated by some. But in the humble epinion of your Excellency's memorialists, the - decision of a composite tribunal, either as under the jury-system or in any other form, is, as a general rule, likely to end more satisfactorily, at any event, to give more satisfaction to the parties, than of Courts composed of individual Judges; in fact, when two or more Judges give their opinion in a case consecutively one after another, there is no guarantee of the final result being so good as there would be if all of them sat together assisting and consulting with each other in arriving at a conclusion. In difficult points, the tendency to consult is so strong in a Judge that, in the District Courts occasionally, Judges may be found who are tempted to consult with their sarishtadars. The presence of a brother Judge is also calculated to check whims and fancies. in the humble opinion of your Excellency's memorialists, the want either of a jury-system or of a composite District Court leaves the parties in a reasonable dissatisfaction. And if it is not proper to suffer this state of things to remain in the Mofussil, the partial appeal to the High Court is not an adequate remedy for it.

- 18. Your Excellency's memorialists sincerely wish, as they have already submitted before, the abolition of second or special appeals. But, in that event, they would consider a re-construction of the Courts to be indispensable. To provide for trial by juries in our Courts of first instance, is not likely to succeed in this country. They would therefore most humbly suggest the following scheme. The special appeals being abolished, the time of the High Court Judges thus saved may advantageously be employed in making circuits for the purpose of sitting with the District Judges to hear such appeals from orders of the subordinate Judges, which are now appealable to the District Judges. The High Court Judges will do this work in the same way as the Judges of the Westminster Courts do Nisi Prius Courts' work in England. In the next place, your Excellency's memorialists would have the appointment of an associate Judge in each District Court for the purpose of sitting with the subordinate Judge or the District Judge in hearing all appeals from the decrees of Munsifs. These associate Judges ought to be selected from among pleaders of position, their salary varying from rupees 500 to rupees 1,000 per month. They will be a strong element of the Appellate Court, and at the same time be got at a cheap cost. In cases of difference between two Judges hearing appeals, there may be a provision for reference to the High Court without any necessity on the part of the suitor to appeal.
- 19. In conclusion, your Excellency's memorialists would humbly beg to state that, should a re-construction of the Courts as humbly proposed by them be not found practicable or advisable, they would humbly pray that the objections they have ventured to make to the provisions of the Bill retrenching second appeals, and their prayers in that behalf, will be taken into the favourable consideration of your Excellency in Council.

And your Excellency's memorialists, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

From Honorary Secretary, British Indian Association, to Secretary to Government of India, Legislative Department,—(dated 12th October 1874).

In accordance with a Resolution of a public meeting of the Native inhabitants of Bengal held at the British Indian Association on the 30th September last, I have the honour to forward herewith the memorial adopted at that meeting signed by the Chairman of the same, together with a newspaper report of its proceedings, and to request that you will be so good as to lay it before His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General in Council for consideration.

(Signed) JOTÍNDRA MOHAN TAGORE.

To

HIS EXCELLENCY THE VICEROY AND GOVERNOR-GENERAL IN COUNCIL.

> The humble memorial of the inhabitants of Bengal in public meeting assembled.

RESPECTIVILLY SHEWETH,—That your memorialists have carefully perused the Bill entitled 'A Bill to amend the law relating to Civil Appeals in the Lower Provinces of Fort William in Bengal, introduced in your Excellency's Council for making Laws and Regulations.

'The main objects of the measure,' says the Hon'ble and learned mover of the Bill, 'are to place some check on the great latitude of appeal which is allowed in this country, and at the same time to provide for the more efficient hearing of such cases as are proper subjects of appeal to the High Court.'

In this statement the Hon'ble and learned author of the Bill has proceeded upon an assumption which your memorialists respectfully submit lies at the root of the misconceptions upon which they presume this measure is grounded. He seems to think that there is a 'great latitude of appeal' in this country which needs some check or restriction; but if he had considered the grave defects in the constitution of the Courts and in the administration of justice in this country, he would not, your memorialists feel confident, have condemped the present system of appeals.

It is, your memorialists believe, generally supposed that the people of this country are fond of appeals, and that the greater the number of appeals the more are they apt to have recourse to them. There does not exist, your memorialists venture to remark, a greater mistake than this. the idiosyncracies of particular individuals, the people as a body could not be justly charged with a love of litigation, if regard was had to the variety of rights and interests connected with the land which exist in this country, and the agency employed for the administration of justice. No fair comparison can be instituted between England and Bengal on this point. In the first place, the population of Bengal is more than treble that of England and Wales put together; in the second place, almost every man in Bengal owns an ancestral homestead or a leasehold of some kind or other, with occupancy or other rights arising from the complicated nature of the land-tenures of the country; whereas the land in England is vested in a few individuals, whose rights are well defined and secured by the law of primogeniture and entail; in the third place, the wide diffusion and subdivision of landed rights necessarily give rise to disputes, which can rarely arise among a community where the relations between the few and the many are those of landlords and farmers or tenantsat-will, or capitalists and labourers; in the fourth place, the heterogenous elements of race and religion, composing society in Bengal, not without reason lead to misunderstandings, which require the arbitrement of a Court of justice, but which are generally absent in a homogenous community living under free institutions; in the fifth place, in no small degree is English legislation, which is necessarily made from an imperfect acquaintance with the usages, wants and feelings of the people, responsible for the confusion and complications which give rise to litigation; in the sixth place, the judicial agency provided in Bengal is so markedly inferior to that of England, and the other accessories to an efficient administration of justice, namely, the Bar and public opinion, are so notoriously defective, that the people, who want bare justice and nothing more, cannot justly be blamed if they show an anxiety for a right of appeal to the highest Court in the land, which alone is so constituted as to merit their confidence. And notwithstanding all these causes of difference, which would under ordinary circumstances lead to more litigation in this country than in England, the total number of civil suits instituted in the original and appellate Courts of this country is far smaller than in the Courts of England and Wales. The materials for comparison for a series of years are not accessible to your memorialists, but from the Registrar General's returns for 1866, it appears that the total number of suits, exclusive of those in the Court of the Vice-Warden of Stannaries, the Court of Chancery, the Privy Council, the High Court of Admiralty, the Court of Probate, the Divorce Court, and the Ecclesiastical Courts of England, was 9,16,035, giving an average of one case for every 21-9 of the population; whereas the annual report of the High Court of Bengal for 1865 gives a total number of suits, in all kinds of Courts, both original and appellate, at 1,44,658, or an average of one for every 456 379 of the population, notwithstanding the remarkable fact that in England rent is realised by distraint or sale through bailiffs, and not included in the Registrar General's returns, whereas in the Bengal returns the rent suits under Act X of 1859 are all included. That in later years the relative proportions remain very much the same your memorialists have no reason to doubt, though they have not the necessary figures at hand to quote here.

Such being the case, your memorialists take leave to doubt whether it can be rightly affirmed that there is great latitude of appeal in this country which needs check or restriction. All law reformers, who have written on the subject of the administration of justice in Bengal, have with more or less force admitted the necessity of appeals. The system of appeals,' says the late Law Member of your Excellency's Council, 'does undoubtedly afford some sort of security against the indifference and carelessness into which Judges altogether unchecked by public opinion and by the criticism of the Bar could hardly fail to fall.' Mr. Fitzjames Stephen continues: 'The fear of having judgment reversed on appeal or by a superior Court in the exercise of the power of supervision, and the fear of the reproofs which may accompany the reversal of the decision, are the sanctions by which Indian Judges are kept up to their work.

It is not proposed by this Bill to interfere with the present system of appeals; as the Hou'ble and learned author of the Bill says, 'we are not proposing to alter it.' The object of the Bill is to prohibit second appeal, (a) where the subject-matter is less than two hundred rupees, or (b) where the first Court of appeal agrees with the Court of first instance.

The Hon'ble and learned mover of the Bill has sketched the history of this second appeal. Your memorialists will not refer to the ante-Regulation period, when the newly acquired British territory had hardly settled into order and regularity. Then all appeals lay to the fountain source of authority -the Governor-General in Council—who exercised the functions of Sadr Diwani Adalat. In 1793, -that memorable epoch in the history of British India when the insignia of Western civilization were for the first time introduced in the shape of fixed land settlement, fixed principles of law, fairly organized Courts, and an intelligent demarcation of executive and judicial functions,—Provincial Courts of Appeal were established, to which all appeals lay from the zila Courts, which were the Courts of first instance, and from the decisions of the Provincial Courts to the Sadr Court in cases over one thousand rupces in value. In the preamble to Regulation V of 1793 establishing these Courts it was declared as follows:-

And it being essential to the prosperity of the country that all persons, especially the cultivators of the soil, the traders, and manufacturers, and the other classes of the lower and most industrious orders of the community in the different parts of the provinces, who may be dissatisfied with the decisions of those Courts, should have an appeal to a higher Court to which they can have ready access, and that this Court should be so constituted that they may look up to it with confidence for speedy redress against unjust or erroneous decisions, the Governor General in Council has cnacted as follows:—

'Four Courts of Appeal shall be established, one in the vicinity of Calcutta, one at the city of Patna, one at the city of Dacca, and one at the city of Murshidábád, to be denominated, respectively, the Provincial Courts of Appeal for the Division of Calcutta, Patna, Dacca and Murshidábád. Each Court is to be superintended by three Judges, who are to be styled the first, second and third Judge of the Court to which they may be appointed.'

It would be observed from the above that the Provincial Courts of Appeal were composed of three Judges, and it was yet deemed necessary to allow a second appeal to the Sadr Diwani Adulat in cases over rupees one thousand in value both on law and facts.

In 1803 Regulation XLIX was enacted for the purpose of improving the administration of justice, and that Regulation allowed a second or special appeal to the provincial Court in cases in which the decisions of the zila Courts were declared final. Section 24 of that Regulation quoted by the hon'ble and learned mover of the Bill runs as follows:—

'Suits tried in the first instance by the Native commissioners, or by the registers of the zila and city Courts, and heard in appeal by the Judges of those Courts, may also occasionally involve questions of a general and important nature, particularly in causes between landholders or farmers of land and the ryots for arrears or exactions of rent wherein the rights of the landlord and tenant may be at issue, and an erroneous decision not revocable by appeal might be of serious ill consequence. It is, therefore, hereby provided, that in all cases wherein a regular appeal may not lie to the Provincial Courts of Appeal from the decrees of the Judges of the zila and city Courts, under the present or any other Regulation, it shall be competent to the provincial Court to admit a special appeal (on performance of the general conditions of appeals), if on the face of the decree of the zila or city Judge, or from any information before the Provincial Court, it shall appear to them erroneous or unjust; or if, from the nature of the cause, as stated in the decree, or otherwise, it shall appear to them of sufficient importance to merit a further investigation in appeal.

This second appeal was allowed on both facts and law. A similar power for admitting a special appeal was also granted to the Sadr Díwání Adálat by Regulation I of 1805.

It is true that this special or second appeal was not allowed as a matter of right, but at the discretion of the Provincial Courts. But the suits tried by the Native commissioners under Regulation XL of 1793 were of the small cause type. Section 2 of that Regulation provided that 'commission shall be granted to Muhammadans and Hindús of the cities of Patna, Dacca, and Murshidábád, and in the several zilas, to try and determine suits for sums of money or personal property not exceeding in amount or value fifty sicca rupces. By section 20 of the same Regulation all decisions passed by the Native commissioners were declared appealable to the zila and city Courts, and by section 2 of Regulation III of 1800 zila Judges were empowered to refer to their Registers appeals from the decisions of commissioners not exceeding twenty-five rupees; but the last-mentioned provision was rescinded by Regulation XLIX of 1803, and all appeals from the decisions of the commissioners lay to the zila Courts. The zila and city Courts were empowered by section 6, Regulation XIII of 1793, 'to authorize the Registers of their respective Courts to try and decide any suits for money or personal property where the amount or the value of the thing contested should not exceed the sum of two hundred sicca rupecs, and for lákhiráji land the produce of which should not be more than twenty sicca rupces per annum.' In the first instance the decisions of the Registers in suits not exceeding rupees twenty-five in value were declared final, but this provision was repealed by Regulation XLIX of 1803, and all decisions passed by the Registers were made appealable to the zila Courts.

It would be thus seen that no fair analogy could be instituted between the suits which were triable by the Native commissioners and those triable under the existing law by Munsifs. Suits of all descriptions relating to real and personal property are now tried by the Munsif, while his pecuniary jurisdiction has been extended to rupees one thousand. All suits now triable by the Native commissioner or the Register were tried by the zila and city Courts, and were appealable to the Provincial Courts of Appeal, composed of three Judges, subject to a special appeal to the Sadr Diwani Adalat.

It is observable that the Native commissioners under Regulation XL of 1793, who were vested with the powers of Munsif, 'were chiefly intended for the assistance of the landholders and farmers of land in the recovery of arrears of rent from their under-tenants' (vide preamble to Regulation XLIX of 1803). In that view the selection of Native commissioners was by law restricted, except in large towns, 'to proprietors or farmers of land and their under-renters, or officers employed by them in the management of their estates or farms, and the Native officers employed by Government in the collection of the land revenue.' original jurisdiction as Munsifs was also limited to the cognizance of suits preferred to them against under-renters or ryots, as to estate, farm, or mahál, in virtue of which they may have been invested with the office of commissioner, or to which their jurisdiction may be extended by the Court of Sadr Diwani Adalat. Thus the landholders or their servants or under-renters were made the triers of suits between them and their tenants. Such a system was manifestly calculated to lead to abuse, and it was accordingly abolished by Regulation XLIX of 1803, and the reasons for this abolition were thus set forth in the preamble to that Regulation: 'More effectual means' for this purpose (recovery of rent) have since been provided by Regulation VII of 1799, whereby the levy of distress for arrears of rent has been facilitated, and if this be insufficient, or if the landholders and farmers should not be desirous of having recourse to it, they are enabled to cause the immediate arrest of the defaulting tenant and his surety; their confinement on a summary enquiry by the Judge of the district till the arrears due from them be discharged, and the attachment of the farm, jole, or other tenure of the defaulter. It is therefore no longer necessary to continue the office of Munsif for the particular aid of the landholders and farmers in the recovery of arrears of rent.' Nevertheless, it was considered advisable to empower Provincial Courts of Appeal to admit special appeals in suits tried in the first instance by the Native commissioners or by the Registers of the zila and city Courts, and heard in appeal by the Judges of those Courts, * * * particularly in causes between landholders and farmers of land and the ryots for arrears or exactions of rent, wherein the rights of the landlord and tenant may be at issue, and an erroneous decision not revocable by appeal might be of serious ill con-

The powers and facilities given to the landlord for the recovery of arrears of rent by Regulation VII of 1799 have now been entirely withdrawn, and there is therefore no analogy between the law then existing and the present law on the subject. It was then immaterial whether a second appeal in rent suits was allowed or not; for the rights of the landlord were then clearly defined and protected, and the facilities for the collection of rent were far greater than the present state of the rentlaw affords. Things being thus so unequal, your memorialists appeal to your Excellency in Council to consider whether the present Bill, as has been urged, could be 'more correctly described as a plan for restoring special appeals.' Then, only money suits to the value of fifty rupees were triable by the Native commissioner, whereas now all suits to the value of rupees 1,000 may be tried by the Munsif; then, the landlord had special facilities for recovering rent by arresting the defaulter or attaching his holding, or by other summary means, whereas now the rent suit is a regular civil suit; and the special appeal then allowed was therefore widely different from what it is now understood to be, particularly when it is remembered that all suits not triable by the Native commissioner or the Register—and these officers could try only suits of small value and of what would now be designated the small cause type—were appealable to the Provincial Court of three Judges, whereas the present District Court consists of a single Judge.

If the status quo ante were restored, your memorialists would not object to the restoration of the old system of special appeals. But it is, they respectfully submit, inconsistent to let the present state of things continue, and justify the abolition of special appeals as a matter of right on the assumption that the proposed plan is nothing more than a restoration of the old system. If the Provincial Courts of Appeal, presided over by three Judges, could be revived, and though the old law for the recovery of arrears of rent, which was certainly attended with abuses, could not be restored, still if adequate facilities for the speedy realization of rent were given, it would be then consistent to restore the old system of special. appeals.

The Hon'ble and learned mover of the Bill has represented the real state of opinion in Bengul regarding the working of the law of special appeals, when he says that the limitation of the appeal only to points of law leads to 'waste of time and money.' He justly remarks:—

The real hope of the parties is that the High Court will be so struck with the hardship done by a reversal of the Munsif's judgment, that it will find a way to interfere. But the appeal will only lie on some question of law or practice; so all the pleader's ingenuity is set to work to ferret out some question of that kind on which he can hang his appeal. The waste of time and money thus caused is considerable.

'Another secondary mischief is that strained and unnatural interpretations are put upon the law. It is not in human nature to see glaring error and injustice without striving to remedy it. The maxim that 'hard cases make bad law' is well known; and if that is so under a system which leaves the whole case open to the Court, what must it be under a system which precludes the Court from entering on the most material parts of the case? In point of fact, the Judges are placed under strong temptation to wrest the law to the purposes of justice, and to this temptation, we are told, they sometimes yield.

But it constantly happens that, wish as they may, they are unable to do what they see to be justice. The legal objection taken to the appellate decree is too weak to stand. So the parties have all the vexation and cost of an appeal which practically decides nothing. And the High Court and the parties who prevailed before the Munsif have the dissatisfaction of feeling certain that he was right, even that he may have been overruled in ignorance or from carelessness, and yet that there is no possibility of restoring his decree.

'Again, when the High Court can disturb the finding of fact as being grounded on some erroneous principle, they cannot do so directly, but only by the clumsy and circuitous process of a remand—a process which remits the case to the same Judge, which may or may not produce the desired results, and which sometimes has to be repeated, and even repeated again.

'I might give the Council some detailed evidence on the point I am now discussing; but really there is found to be so little difference of opinion about it, that I feel I should be wasting time by dwelling upon it longer. Sir R. Couch proposes that, where there is a second appeal, it shall be an effectual one—that is to say, an appeal on the whole case; and on this point there is a very general concurrence of opinion, at least in Bengal.'

And the obvious remedy, your memorialists venture to remark, for the state of things described above is that power should be given to the High Court to open the whole case on second appeal. Such would be the logical sequence of the argument of the learned Law Member. But instead of providing this general remedy, he proposes certain provisions which will practically prohibit a second appeal in the majority of cases which are now open to a special appeal to the High Court, and thus keep out of view the injustice done. A wrong is not righted by simply ignoring it. The Bill is certainly an improvement, so far as it allows, at least your memorialists understand it to mean so, a second appeal upon the whole case, but the limitations proposed, they repeat, will defeat the good object in by far the large majority of cases.

In the first place, the Bill provides that no appeal shall lie against any decree or order of a Judge in the exercise of his appellate jurisdiction when the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit does not exceed rupees two hundred. This prohibition will exclude about two-thirds of the cases which now come before the High Court on special appeal. Although these cases are of small value, still they do not unfrequently involve the most momentous consequences to the parties concerned. To the poor man a suit of, say, rupees 100 or so, covering rights which might have come down to him from generation to generation, which might involve his ancestral homestead, or involve questions of contract, caste or usage that might affect him for life, is of infinitely greater importance than a suit of rupees 10,000 or rupees 100,000 in value may be to the rich man. The latter has always means to cope with his opponent, but the former has no such means, and to deny him the benefit of a Court in which he has, by reason of its constitution, great confidence would be to deny him justice. deprivation of this right would, your memorialists fear, be attended with great dissatisfaction and discontent.

This provision would also lead to demoralization and increased expense. As it is not in human nature to rest contented when there is one stone left unturned for obtaining redress to a wrong, real or imaginary, the poor suitor, when he will see that he cannot approach the High Court without falsely enhancing his claim, will not hesitate to do so, and this will be another instance of the laws corrupting the morals of the people. As a matter of cours, the exaggeration of the claim will lead to increased stamp-duty, and your memorialists will not be surprised if ignorant and credulous people were to attribute this provision to an ill-concealed desire of Covernment to augment the stamp-revenue. In many districts, such as Sylhet, Chittagong, and other places, the land is held in very small parcels, the value of which is generally shuch less than rupees 200, and as regards those districts complicated questions of fact and law not unoften arise in suits connected with land, and it would be a gross injustice to them to deprive them of the benefit of the appellate authority of the High Court. It is true that power is given to the Local Government to fix a less sum as the money limit in order to meet such cases, but whatever the limit the Local Government may assign it will not meet all cases, while in matters of this kind the sanction of law is of greater importance than orders of the Executive Government. Further, many suits of small value are what may be called test-suits, being tentative in their nature, and it is of the highest importance to the parties concerned that such suits should be decided by the High Court. The provisos in section 6 will not meet such cases, for the money-value of the particular suit it is not difficult to ascertain, but its ulterior consequences, though not of importance to the general public, are of the last importance to the parties interested, involving a much larger amount than the value of the claim in dispute. Such, for instance, are possession, lákhiráj and easement cases.

The limitation of rupees 200 will exclude nearly the whole body of appeals in rent cases. memorialists have shown above, by reference to. the old Regulations, how anxious was the legislature to provide for the efficient trial of suits between the landlord and tenant. It might be said that the system of special appeals was introduced chiefly with a view to assist the landlord and tenant. In the words of Regulation XLIX of 1803 in causes between landholders or farmers of land and the ryots for arrears or exactions of rent, wherein the rights of landlord and tenant might be at issue, an erroneous decision not revocable by law might be of serious ill consequence.' The later laws, as your Excellency in Council is aware, have introduced changes in the status of the landlord altogether inconsistent with the rights and privileges conferred upon him by the Permanent Settlement Regulations, and even the rights recognized by the existing law are sometimes rudely invaded by arbitrary constructions of law. These constructions are not of course confined to the District Courts, but when a case is decided by the High Court the suitor has one satisfaction, that of having laid it before the highest tribunal in the country. But the prohibition under comment would deprive the landholders of even this small satisfaction. In the same way it may be argued on the side of the ryots. ther it be a dispute between ryot and ryot, or a ryot and a zamíndár, a suit may involve nice questions of law, or a decree passed by the lower Courts may be wholly erroneous or unjust, and it would be a grievous hardship to the ryot, which he would not forget in his life-time, if he were denied the opportunity of obtaining the judgment of the highest Court in the land. The conditions described in section 6 might not apply to cases of this kind. A landlord may bring a testsuit for enhancement, which would affect perhaps a few of the villages of his estate, and he could not then avail himself of the exception as to the importance of a case to the public. Again, the error or injustice complained of can be judged only by going through the whole case, but the Court may decline to do so, particularly when it is declared in Explanation II that 'an appeal is not necessary for the purpose of justice because the Court above may think that the Court below has erred in its view of the law or the facts.

Remembering the primary object of the Bill, namely, the reduction of special appeals, your memorialists submit it may be easily imagined that the High Court would not be generally inclined to admit special appeals under the exceptions prescribed in section 6. Indeed, if the legislature intends that it should generally admit special appeals under that section, then they fail to understand the object of this measure. No relief would be afforded to the High Court; on the contrary, the demand upon its time would be increased. But it is evident that such is not the intention of the legislature, for the exceptions are so described as to afford the least possible scope for special appeals for special appeals. With regard to the second prohibition, to the effect that no special appeal shall lie when the decree or order of the first appellate Court substantially affirms the decree or order appealed against, your memorialists are of opinion that this proposition is unexceptionable in theory. Nothing could be more reasonable than to provide that when two Courts, the one deciding upon the evidence of the live witness, and the other upon the dead record, come to substantially the same conclusion, it is both meet and just that there should be no second appeal from such concurrent decision. But unfortunately the constitution of the Mofussil Courts is not such as to render the proposed arrangement an efficient aid to justice. Your memorialists feel a peculiar pleasure in testifying to the superior qualifications of the present class of Munsifs, who possess both a liberal and professional education, and they believe that the Judges of the District Courts as a body discharge their duties conscientiously. But they cannot at the same time deny that many of the present Munsifs, being younger men than those who preceded them, lack that experience and knowledge of the world which are so essential to a thorough and satisfactory sifting of disputes between man and man, and that the appellate Judges under the new system of 'parallel promotion' are much younger than their predecessors, and generally devoid of professional education and training so necessary in a Judge. It is observable that the class of officers who are raised to the District Bench have rarely an opportunity of acquiring an experience in the administration of civil law and understanding the tangled web of real property in all its ramifications in this country till they are drafted to the judicial service proper, and then they are at once armed with full powers. They begin their judicial career as Assistant Magistrates, and the only opportunity they possessed of acquainting themselves with the working of the civil laws has been withdrawn by the transfer of the rent-suits from the Revenue Courts to the Civil Courts. It may therefore be well imagined whether it will be conducive to the interests of justice to give a finality to their decisions which are in concurrence with those of the lower Courts. With that honourable frankness which so eminently distinguishes the rulers of this country, the members of the covenanted service themselves admit the grave deficiencies of its judicial branch, so much so that some of them have not hesitated to record officially that the District Judges in the knowledge of law and evidence are being fast surpassed by the Indian law graduates who now fill the Bench and the Bar. It is therefore eminently worthy of the consideration of your Excellency in Council whether the powers of the first Courts of appeal so constituted should be increased without effecting the antecedent improvement in their constitution so much desiderated on all sides. Without that improvement your memorialists fear justice may not unoften miscarry in consequence of the inefficiency or weakness of those Courts. The argument about giving finality to the judgment of the first appellate Court when it substantially affirms that of the lower Court doubtless rests upon the assumption that the former is properly constituted, strong, and efficient; but, as observed above, this proposition is denied by the covenanted officers themselves, and it would be scarcely reasonable to expect that the High Court, either by the exercise of its general power of supervision or of the discretion vested in it by section 6, would be able to correct its radical defects. The practical effect of the finality clause, your memorialists apprehend, will be that the weak and inefficient Judge will seek to cover his deficiency by expressing his concurrence with the Court of first instance. It is, indeed, highly inconsistent to insist upon the necessity of supervision over the subordinate Courts, and at the same time to diminish the opportunities which the system of appeals provides in this country for an effective supervision.

Your memorialists submit it is equally inconsistent to profess confidence in the appellate Court when it agrees with the Court of first instance, and to withdraw that confidence when it disagrees; in other words, to make the judgment of the subordinate Court the criterion of trustworthiness of the superior Court. This half and half confidence, your memorialists respectfully submit, has the appearance of a reflection upon the appellate Courts in the districts. It is observable that the provision will have a demoralizing effect upon the Courts of first instance. Constituted as Mofussil society is, the sympathies and antipathies of the Judges of the District Courts remain no matters of secreey, and as the prospect of promotion of the subordinate judicial officers depends upon the good will and recommendation of the District Judges, it would not be unnatural if weak-minded Munsifs should seek to adapt their judgments to the predilections and caprices of the appellate Courts in order to shew a long roll of confirmations of their judgments in appeal. Thus the provision under comment would have a demoralizing tendency and balk the ends of justice.

The safeguards proposed in section 6, your memorialists fear, will prove no efficient protection. The exceptions or conditions authorizing the admission, in the discretion of the High Court, of a special appeal are, as shewn above, too limited to be of much efficacy in redressing the wrong done by the lower Courts. The discretion given to the High Court would ipso facto be exceptional, and the large majority of suitors would not therefore derive any benefit from it, not to say that the real merits of a case could be best tested by going into the whole case; but a mere application for a special appeal would not upon the face of it be a satisfactory test, and even if an advo-cate be heard in support of the application, though it is not clear whether such a hearing would be allowed under the new Bill, the true bearings of a case could not be set forth without a full exposition necessitating a reference to the records, and as the object of this measure is to reduce special appeals, it might be easily surmised that the High Court would be little disposed to grant a full hearing.

There would have been, your memorialists submit, less danger from the proposed enactment if there were an independent Bar and an intelligent and vigilant public Press in the Mofussil. But these two valuable accessories to an efficient administration of justice are sadly defective in the interior of the country. It is true that there has been considerable improvement in the Mofussil Bar of late years, but in the absence of a strong public opinion it is ill able to assert independence, and consequently the improved intelligence of the Bar, where it exists, is not efficacious in checking the faults of the Bench.

As a question of principle your memorialists do not advocate the multiplication of appeals, but in the present constitution of the Mofussil Courts, as already observed, it is an inevitable necessity. Your memorialists gratefully acknowledge the solicitude of the British Government to secure good and substantial justice to its subjects, and diverse measures have from time to time been It is also adopted to accomplish that object. worthy of remark that the people are highly taxed for the privilege of receiving an efficient and impartial administration of justice. The receipts of the Court fees stamps, exclusive of process fees, for 1874-75, which are derived chiefly from the institution and appeal fees of the Civil Courts, are estimated at rupees 59,37,800, while the total cost of the High Court, the District Courts, and the subordinate Courts, is given at rupees 42,54,000 (vide Civil Estimates for 1874-75). There is thus a large surplus left, and your memorialists submit that, primarily, it ought to be applied to the improvement of the judicial machinery, for the maintenance of which the present heavy tax upon justice is levied. Your memorialists submit that if the Courts in the Mofussil were so constituted as to command the confidence of the people, they would be the first to hail the abolition of the present system of double appeals. But they repeat that it would be inconsistent with the general policy of Government, which is to secure good and substantial justice to the people, if the present safeguard of special appeal, however insufficient it might be, were done away with without a reformation of the Courts, though the tax on justice levied by Government leaves a large surplus applicable to that purpose.

It would be presumptuous on the part of your memorialists to remind your Excellency in Council of the care and solicitude evinced by Her Majesty's Government to provide the best agency available for the administration of justice in the United Kingdom. No expense is spared there to render the Courts as efficient as practicable. The highest juridical talents and abilities are engaged in the service of the State, and as a mark of the estimation in which this branch of the public service is held, the judiciary is paid on a scale which is not recognized for the remuneration of any other body of public servants. Although the Courts in England are presided over by the most talented lawyers and jurists, and aided by an equally able Bar, and by a most active and intelligent public press, still, until lately, a second appeal was admissible as a matter of right from all decisions, though not always resorted to by all suitors. A most important judicial reform was arried out in England by the Judicature Act of last year, and that Act provides for an appeal from the decisions of the eminent gentlemen who compose courts of first instance, presided over though they are by three Judges, and also allows a second appeal from the decisions of the Courts of appeal in the form of a rehearing. The last provision was introduced at the instance of Lord Cairns, the present Lord Chancellor, whose remarks on this point apply with a peculiar force to the state of things in this country. Your memorialists take the liberty to transcribe those remarks: 'It is extremely plausible,' said his Lordship, 'to say that there shall be only one appeal, but I doubt whether the principle is quite sound. Great injustice may be done if the single appeal is insisted on, and it must not be forgotten that a third Court has great advantages over a first appeal The arguments to be submitted to it are more matured and better understood, and the judgments of the Judges are considered side by side and can be corrected. I am not ignorant of the danger of multiplying appeals; but my objection is that you may go too far in the other direction. think therefore it would be better that there should be no appeal from the appellate Court when there was unanimity among the Judges, but that there should be an opportunity of appeal when there was a division of opinion. — Hansard's Parliamentary Delates, first volume of Session 1873, p. 364. Your memorialists need not point out that the concurrence of the appellate Court with the Court of first instance was not considered, as proposed in the Bill under notice, a bar to a second appeal. If such was the opinion of the present Lord Chancellor on the necessity of allowing a second appeal in England, notwithstanding the brilliant legal luminaries which adorn the Courts of first instance and appeal in that country, how much more necessary is it to allow a second appeal in this country, where the quality of the judicial material is admittedly much inferior, not to say that the first appellate Court in Bengal is presided over by a single Judge. Your memorialists are humbly of opinion that the remarks of Lord Cairns apply with equal force to suits of great or small value. Now, as regards suits of great value, that is exceeding rupees 10,000, a second appeal is allowed to Her Majesty the Queen in Council, but it is only in cases of small value the privilege of a second appeal is to be withdrawn. The distinction made between the rich and the poor suitor, though sometimes unavoidable, can in the present instance, your memorialists respectfully submit, be hardly considered justifiable, when it is grounded upon the abolition of a privilege which had been in existence for upwards of thirty years.

The primary object of the proposed measure is to reduce special appeals to the High Court. Your memorialists have no means to compare the state of the file of the Court as to special appeals since its establishment, but they observe that 3047 special appeals were filed in 1869, (vide Mr. Fitzjames Stephen's Minute on the Administration of Justice), and 1985 in 1872, (vide Bengal Administration Report for 1872-73). there is a natural tendency to reduction in the number of special appeals, but, if the fact were otherwise, your memorialists respectfully submit that the all-important consideration of justice ought to outweigh the secondary question of the convenience of the High Court. Your memorialists observe that the number of Judges of the High Court has been reduced from fourteen to twelve, and this fact is a proof positive that the business of the Court is not so great as to require the compulsory reduction of special appeals by a prohibitory law. It is also worthy of remark that the complaint of waste of public time by the institution of alleged frivolous special appeals is scarcely just to the litigating public, for it is their contributions which maintain all classes of Courts—Civil, Fiscal and Criminal—including the Law Officers of the Crown, and not a pice is drawn from the general revenues for the working of the judicial machinery. The real defect in the present system of special appeals is, not that it encourages frivolous appeals, but that it does not admit of the opening of the whole case, a bar which causes unnecessary waste of time and money. In the interests of justice that bar ought to be removed, but if it be not considered desirable to increase the business of the High Court by allowing a second appeal on questions of both facts and law, considerations of sound policy require that the constitution of the first appellate Courts should be so improved as to command the confidence of the people, and thus dispense with the necessity of a second appeal. It is not for your memorialists to suggest a definite scheme, but they cannot too earnestly urge that the necessity of the reform in question is imperative and universally acknowledged.

Your memorialists do not think it necessary to dwell on the details of the Bill; they may however observe that, as regards the prohibition of appeals where the subject-matter is less than rupees 20 and the suit is one of Small Cause type, the object may be better obtained by conferring Small Cause Court jurisdiction upon carefully selected Munsifs; that the barring of appeal where the decree has been made by consent, or the parties have agreed not to appeal, is superfluous, because such appeals are unknown; that the like provision where the appeal relates to costs only, which are left to the discretion of the Court, may be sometimes attended with hardship and injustice; and that the time allowed (ten days) for an application to the first appellate Court to allow a second appeal is too short, inasmuch as in many cases the parties are non-resident in the district where the suit has been tried, and they cannot therefore have sufficient time to consider the judgment of the first appellate Court.

Your memorialists have been emboldened to make the above remarks and suggestions by the enlightened and generous spirit which distinguishes the deliberations of your Excellency's Council, and by the desire evinced particularly under your Excellency's administration to adapt legislation to the reasonable feelings and wishes of the people. They feel confident that if your Excellency in Council be convinced that the Bill as now framed would defeat the ends of justice, your Excellency in Council would not hesitate to introduce in it necessary alterations and amendments.

In conclusion, your memorialists pray that your Excellency in Council may be pleased—1stly.—To take into consideration the facts, circumstances, arguments and suggestions set forth above.

2ndly.—To introduce such improvements in the constitution of the appellate Courts in the Mofussil as your Excellency in Council may consider fit with a view to promote the efficient administration of justice, and thus render them worthy of the confidence of the people, and then to prohibit appeals to the High Court except on questions of law, thereby relegating the High Court to its legitimate position as the highest tribunal for the exposition of law; or

3rdly.—To allow a second appeal to the High Court in all cases both on facts and law, and to add to the numerical strength of that Court in order to enable it to meet the increased business which will necessarily ensue, and 4thly.—To make such other changes, alterations and amendments as to your Excellency in Council may seem meet.

(Signed) DIGAMBAR MITTRA,

Chairman of Public Meeting of Native

Inhabitants of Bengal, held in Culcutta on 30th Sept. 1874.

CALCUTTA, 30th September 1874.

From R. T. Allan, Esq., Pleader of the High Court, Appellate Side, Calcutta to Honble A. Hobhouse, Q. C.,—(dated 28th September 1874).

Allow me first to express the thanks of the Pleaders of the Appellate High Court, as well as my own individual thanks, for your courtesy and kindness in permitting us to have a copy of the Civil Appeals Bill (Bengal), 1874, as amended. Having carefully perused the said Bill, permit me to allude to some of the provisions contained in it, and to which I now beg to offer a few remarks for your consideration, which remarks, I feel assured, will obtain all such attention as they may deserve, regard being had to the extreme importance of the measure, the large class of the community whose interests will be affected thereby, and the changes it will work in the administration of justice when contrasted with the present course of procedure which regulates appeals.

- 2. It appearing to myself and the Pleaders of the Appellate High Court that the amendments proposed to be introduced do not meet all the objections which, we submit, he to the Bill as originally framed, I therefore, on behalf of myself and the Pleaders of the Appellate High Court, beg to submit the following observations and suggestions on some of the important sections of the amended Bill in reference to proceedings connected with or incidental to a second appeal.
- 3. Section 1 confines the operation of the Act to the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal; and here permit me to observe that, although the professional experience of the members of the Appellate High Court Bar is mainly confined to the provinces of Bengal and Behar, yet it does not appear, nor is any particular reason assigned, why the legislature should deem it necessary to make any alteration in the uniformity of procedure in appeals hitherto existing in all the Presidencies, and to limit such alteration to the Presidency of Bengal, whereby its inhabi are curtailed of a right to appeal to the High Court, although such right is still allowed to suitors in other territories. I am not aware that it can be truthfully asserted that the people and residents of Bengal and Pehar are more litigious than those of the sister Presidencies. It is no doubt true that the cases tried and determined by the High Court of Bengal are more numerous than those appealed to and decided by other High - Court tribunals. But this, I submit, is not owing to the litigious spirit of the parties resident in Bengal, but is attributable to the complicated system of land-tenures existing in Bengal, which gives rise to difficult and intricate questions of law the solution of which by any other than the highest Court of the country fails to satisfy the suitors interested in such cases; besides, Bengal is richer, more populous and larger in area than any of the other provinces, which is a further reason why a much larger number of cases are instituted and determined in Bengal.

- Section 3.—With reference to section 3 (a) which fixes a limit to appeals against decisions of the Lower Courts under the value of two hundred rupees, I have to submit that the application of the provisions of this section to suits for or affecting immoveable properties cannot fail to bring about considerable hardship. There is an ample provision in the law for excluding second appeals in suits of the Small Cause Court class up to Rs. 500. But considering the circumstances of the country, where a great value is set on land, and where small holdings form the chief property of a large majority of the people, and also because the large majority of cases for enhancement of rent are valued below Rs. 200, but the determination in which cases fixes the legal principle of enhancement which is to govern numerous cases of the like nature, the Pleaders beg to observe that to exclude the privilege of a second appeal in suits for land or any interests therein or in respect thereof, merely from a consideration of their money valuation, is ill suited to the country and will be productive of great injury and dissatisfaction. The Pleaders crave leave also to observe that the difficulties and complications of law and fact and equitable considerations which arise in the determination of suits relating to immoveable property occur in all such cases, more or less, quite irrespective of their pecuniary limit or valuation.
- 5. Section 3 (b.)—With reference to section 3 (b), which excludes a second appeal in all cases where two judgments are concurrent, the Pleaders beg to observe that, in the proposed law, no distinction has been made between a concurrence on a point of law, and a concurrence on a point of fact. Having regard to the constitution of the Mofussil Courts, the present state of the Mofussil Bar and the large number of cases in which, to the knowledge of the Pleaders of the Appellate Court, concurrent opinions of two Mofussil Judges on points of law have been expressed (but which opinions, however, have been reversed in appeal by the High Court), the Pleaders therefore submit that it is not expedient to leave to the hands of Mofussil Judges the conclusive determination of cases which are decided on points of law. On this point the Pleaders would beg to bring to the notice of the Council, that even the High Court Judges frequently differ in their judgments on points of law, which are consequently referred to and settled authoritatively by a Full Bench.
- 6. The Pleaders, therefore, would beg to suggest that, on points of law, the concurrence of two judgments should not form a ground for excluding a second appeal. It is only on pure questions of fact that two concurrent judgments of Mofussil Courts ought to be binding upon suitors. But on questions of law a second appeal should, the Pleaders respectfully submit, be allowed in every case as

- of right. While on this subject of concurrent judgments, the Pleaders solicit permission to state that it will be a real improvement in the law, and that it will remedy the evils of partial appeals, to allow, as appears to be the intention of the proposed Bill, second appeals on points of fact and law when the judgments of the Courts below are not concurrent, or where the decree of the Court of first instance is partially altered by the Court of Appeal.
- 7. As to clause (c), section 6, the Pleaders beg to suggest that very rarely a case would arise where, on the face of the decree or order of the Court below, a manifest error in law could be found, and yet if the record of the case be allowed to be read, errors not only of law but misconstructions of documents and statements unwarranted by the pleadings or evidence could be discovered, which would materially alter the judgments and lead to a reversal of the decree of the Lower Courts. To confine appeals to cases where, on the face of the decree or order sought to be appealed against, there is a manifest error in law, would practically bar appeals altogether. The Pleaders therefore beg most respectfully to suggest that a second appeal should be allowed in all cases in which, from a perusal of the judgments of the Courts below and of other papers (authenticated copies of which might be filed with the application for leave to appeal, accompanied, when necessary, by affidavits to be presented with such application), it might be made to appear to the Court applied to that where was an error in law in the decision appealed against substantially affecting the merits of the case, or that the appeal was otherwise necessary for the ends of justice.
- 8. Section 6.—If the honourable Council be pleased to adopt the views of the Pleaders regarding section 3 (a), then the enactment of clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 6, except for allowing an appeal in cases coming under section 2, would be unnecessary.
- 9. We would draw your attention to the practice which formerly prevailed in the late Sadr Court, which was that, before a special appeal was admitted, application was first made to the Judges for leave to have such special appeal admitted under section 8 of Regulation XVI of 1853, and thereupon the Judges of the Sadr Court, after perusal of the petition and other papers in sup-port thereof, admitted the appeal on the special grounds contained in their certificate. After the establishment of the High Court for some time, it became the practice for application to be made by motion to the Judges of the High Court for leave to file special appeals, which application on such motion was either allowed or rejected. But no certificate or order was passed thereon. We are informed that the latter proceeding, as to permission to register appeals by the Judges of the High Court, has been regarded as affording no security that such special appeals were well founded. But if the practice above referred to, as the same prevailed before the Judges of the Sadr Court, was followed by the High Court, then the objection as to frivolous appeals being filed would be obviated.
- 10. In conclusion, the Pleaders would submit that if it be deemed expedient that some changes should be introduced in the present law of appeals, and assuming that in some cases there are frivolous appeals preferred to the High Court, to check which some measures should be adopted, yet in deing so, the Pleaders would submit, it would be inexpedient to introduce such sweeping changes as are proposed and which cannot fail to militate against the interests of the suitors, especially as such interests would, by the narrow limits prescribed for the determination of a suit, in many instances work the greatest injustice, regard being had to the present constitution and legal capacity of the Mofussil Courts.

11. We are given to understand that there is to be a public meeting held at the instance of the British Indian Association, whose interests, no doubt, are personally affected by the proposed changes in the procedure of the Courts and administration of justice in civil cases. The Association will, no doubt, submit their memorial setting forth their grounds of complaint; but the Pleaders of the Appellate High Court, to whom are entrusted professionally the cases of suitors generally, have ventured to address you with the view to bring under your notice the practical results that would, according to their legal know-ledge and experience, flow from the alterations proposed by the amended Bill, so that you might be pleased to take them into consideration from a purely legal point of view.

Distresses for Rents in the Presidency Towns was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

2. We have excluded from the operation of the proposed Act arrears of rent due for more than twelve months before the application for the distress-warrant. For arrears due for more than that time, we think that the landlord may fairly be left to his remedy by ordinary suit.

- 3. In clause 3, we have altered the definition of Court of Small Causes, so as to make it apply to Courts for the time being established by law.
 - We have provided that distress-warrants shall be returnable within six days.
- In clause 10, we have exempted from seizure (a) things in actual use, (b) tools and implements not in use when there is other moveable property on the premises sufficient to cover the amount distrained for and the costs, (c) the debtor's necessary wearing apparel, and (d) goods in the custody of the law.
- At the suggestion of the learned First Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes, we have introduced a clause, resembling section 88 of Act IX of 1850, providing for the adjudication of claims by strangers to goods distrained under the proposed Act. This is intended as a substitute for the cumbrous and circuitous remedy of a suit in replevin.
- Where an application is made to discharge or suspend a distress-warrant, or where a claim to goods distrained is made by a stranger, we have empowered the Judge to order compensation by way of damages to the successful party, and we have declared that such compensation shall bar a subsequent suit in respect of injury caused by the distress.
- We have altered clause 18 and schedule E so as to provide for fees in distresses for rent exceeding 100 rupees.
- 9. We have been urged in the paper marginally noted as received from the British Indian Association to alter the law respecting tiled huts. What is said in that paper seems to us deserving of careful consideration; but it is connected rather with the law of executions than with that of distresses, and we have therefore not thought it right to suggest any alteration in the present Bill on such a subject.
- We have made no other substantial changes: we think the Bill had better be republished, and its passing delayed for a short time.

ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE PATNA MUNICI-PALITY FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

No. 16, dated Bankipore, the 4th May 1874.

From-A. C. Mangles, Esq., Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners, Patna, To-The Commissioner of Patna.

In compliance with Government of Bengal's letter No. 2655, dated 25th April 1872. I have the honor to submit my annual administration report of the Patna City Municipality for the year 1873-74.

2. Area of municipality and jurisdiction.-No change whatever has taken place in the area or jurisdiction of the municipality. As previously reported, it extends over about 8 square miles, and contains a population of 155,461 souls according to the last census.

3. Constitution.—Syed Mahomed Nawab was appointed a Municipal Commissioner in accordance with Bengal Government letter No. 109 of 28th May 1873, but no other change has occurred in the constitution of the municipal committee during the past year.

4. Meelings.—There were fifteen meetings during the year under report for the audit of accounts and for the transaction of other miscellaneous business. Most of the Commissioners, I regret to say, have shown great apathy and want of interest in municipal matters, and indeed on several occasions a sufficient number of them could not be got together to form a quorum.

5. Cases.—During the past year 331 cases were instituted for violations of the Municipal Acts and Bye-laws, as compared with 678 in the preceding year. This failing off in the number of such cases is not attributable to any remissness on the part of the servants of the municipality, but must be ascribed to the fact that the people are fast learning that infringements of municipal rules are speedily followed by punishment, and they are therefore becoming more careful to carry out the requirements of the law.

Assessment.—The maximum rate of 7½ per cent., prescribed by Section 26, Act III (B.C.) of 1864, has been maintained during the year under report.

7. Collection.—The system of collection detailed in my previous administration reports has been strictly followed, and the results are very satisfactory. Thus out of the total demand of Rs. 55,144-12-9 for house-tax, a sum of Rs. 1,252-10-6 was struck off during the year as irrecoverable, and Rs. 1,299-11-6 only remained outstanding on the 31st of March. Subsequently, up to the 20th of April, the sum of Rs. 471-1-0 has been recovered, leaving a balance, as per margin, of Rs. 828-10-6, most of which is irrecoverable.

Pounds.—There are four pounds within the municipality, viz., one at Bankipore, one at Sultangunge, one at Sadickpore, and one at Dhowlpoorah. They yielded an income of Rs. 706-6-6 during the past year against Rs. 511-15-0 for the previous year. The expenditure amounts to Rs. 457-15-6, leaving a balance of Rs. 248-7-0 as profit under this head.

9. Medical.—During the year under report the municipal hospital was supplied with the necessary furniture in accordance with the Civil Surgeon's indent. The building might afford accommodation to about fifty persons, but the average daily attendance of in-door patients is only thirteen. So that it would appear that the natives of this part of the country have not yet overcome their repugnance to hospital treatment, and still prefer to have recourse to "kabirajes," who treat them in the native fashion at their own houses. The hospital is considered as the place of last resort, and it is almost an invariable rule that patients do not seck admittance there until they have exhausted the skill of their own native physicians. On the requisition of the Civil Surgeon, the Municipal Commissioners sanctioned the employment of four extra vaccinators for the season, with a view to prevent an outbreak of small-pox as far as practicable; and I am happy to say that, with the exception of some few cases towards the close of the year, the measures adopted to check the spread of this terrible malady have met with fair success. There were, as usual, a few scattered cases of cholera between June and August, but in no part of the town did the disease appear in an epidemic form.

Sanitation.—The town has been tolerably healthy throughout the year notwithstanding the scantiness of the rainfall. Various attempts were made by the Municipal Commissioners to prevent the nuisances caused by the accumulation of night-soil in the most thickly populated portions of the town, and these sanitary arrangements have to some extent been successful, but much still remains to be done, and other improvements are under contemplation. The widening of Maroofgunge Road, sanctioned by Government, has been postponed on the representation of some of the inhabitants, whose petition is still under the consideration of Government. The reclamation of a swamp called Shaikh Mutha Garhee, in the very heart of the city, at a cost of Rs. 49,828-0-0, has been sanctioned by Government, and its conversion into a public garden will not only be a great ornament to the town, but will be a sanitary measure of no ordinary importance to the residents in the neighbourhood. The necessary levels have been taken, but the work cannot be commenced upon until after the ensuing rainy scason, as the place will be flooded for some months. The Sadickpore Bazar yielded an income of only Rs. 68 2-6 during the year; so that it cannot be said to be in a flourishing condition; and I regret to add that there do not seem to be any signs of improvement.

Conservancy.—This most necessary branch of the municipal system was carefully looked after during the period under review, and the result of the supervision exercised contrasts favourably with the experience of previous years. Many of the lanes are so extremely narrow that the conservancy carts cannot enter them, but this difficulty has bleen overcome to a great extent by the employment of boy-sweepers with baskets, who collect the filth from the lanes and deposit it on the nearest broad streets, and in this way the town has been kept tolerably clean throughout the year.

Roads.—Of the eight miles of the main road, two and a half miles have been newly re-metalled with stone during the year. The traffic over this road is so great that it has been found necessary to use stone metalling in preference to either kunkur or brick, as these would not stand the wear and tear to which this road is subjected. For the same reason the Backergunge Road from the race course to the lunatic asylum has also been metalled with stone. Kunkur and brick-metal, however, have been employed on the other roads, lanes, and bye-lanes where the traffic is comparatively light. Thirteen of the kutcha lanes have been newly metalled, and ten others have been re-metalled and repaired out of municipal funds during the year. Two bridges with a 10-fect span have been built on the Bhiknapaharee Road as well as two culverts of 3-feet span on the main road, and two culverts of 2-feet span on Kowakho Lane, and one of 3-feet span on Belwargunge Road. These results of the year's operations must, I think, be considered satisfactory when the comparatively small sum available for such works is borne in mind.

13. Watering.—Twenty-six carts are employed daily for watering the principal streets of the town; but to carry on this work as satisfactorily as could be desired would require a far greater expenditure than the municipality is in a position to afford. 1 am, however, satisfied that what we have been able to do in this respect is regarded as a great boon by all classes of the community. It is also in contemplation to increase the number of the watering carts by four, and to extend the sphere of their operations as far as our means will admit of. The expenditure for the year under this head is Rs. 5,405-9-0.

14. Lighting.—The main lines of communication through the town, namely—(1) the main road from the western limit of the municipality to Purab Darwazee; (2) the road from Purab Darwazee to Patna city station; (3) the road from the race (4) the road from the road of the limit of the l joining the main road at the 3rd mile and passing the lunatic asylum; and (4) the Sukrigulee Road, have been lighted throughout the year. Other lines of roads will also be lighted as the means of the municipality admit of this. The total expenditure for the year under this head amounts to Rs. 4,168-14-6.

Wheel-tax.—The tax on carriages and horses, employed within the limits of this municipality during the year under review, yielded an income of Rs. 9.375-5-3, as shown in the annexed statement. No expenses are incurred in the collection of this tax, as the establishment entertained for the house-tax collections is utilized in this duty in addition to its other work.

-During the year the receipts under this head amounted to Rs. 19,344-15-10 16. Ferry.against Rs. 19,086-2-0 of the previous year. The whole sum for which the municipal ferrics were leased during the year has been realized without any difficulty.

17. Other sources of income.—During the year under report this municipality has derived an income of Rs. 1.671-0-11 from gambling fines and escheats under the Gambling Act. At the recommendation of the District Superintendent of Police, a sum of Rs. 60-0-0 was paid as rewards to informers in two cases in which the amount stated above was received. The sum of Rs. 1,556-0-0 was collected during the year as fees on musical processions.

18. In conclusion, I have the honor to submit herewith, in duplicate, the annual statement of receipts and disbursements, from which it will appear that the municipality is showing signs of improvement both financially and as an institution of public utility.

A. C. MANGLES, Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners.

BANKIPORE, the 4th May 1874.

No. 416L, dated Bankipore, the 23rd August 1874.

From-A. C. Mangles, Esq., Magistrate of Patna, To-The Commissioner of Patna.

In acknowledging receipt of your circular letter No. 148J of the 14th ultimo, I have the honor to enclose herewith the revised returns of receipts and disbursements for the different municipalities and townships in this district as therein called for, and, in continuation of the report already submitted by me, to submit as follows.

2. The conservancy of a large town like Patna, extending on almost a dead level over some nine or ten miles of country, is always a difficult matter, even supposing that funds are ample; but is doubly so when, as in the present instance, the funds are very limited.

- 3. The Municipal Commissioners, whilst having done much to add to the cleanliness of the town by having increased the number of their conservancy carts, which twice a daymorning and evening-traverse the principal streets and the broader lanes in the city, and by having engaged troops of sweeper-boys, who by means of buckets and hand-baskets remove the filth from those lanes which by their narrowness will not admit the carts, are aware that much yet remains to be done, though with their very limited means, and the heavy and everincreasing demands which the police and the maintenance of the roads make upon them, they regret that they are unable to see their way to any real reform, but must content themselves by going on little by little, in the hope that the people will by degrees see the advantages of cleanliness, and take upon themselves much which they now expect the municipality to do for them.
- 4. Before the conservancy of the town could be considered to be on anything like a satisfactory footing, it would be necessary to introduce (1) a complete system of drainage, and (2) a complete system of latrines, both of which are schemes which, if undertaken at all, must be undertaken thoroughly, and, as such, are far beyond our limited means.

5. The city of Patna being, as I said before, almost on a dead level from one end to another, its drainage, if undertaken at all, must be undertaken in one connected scheme, or else the good done in one locality would be more than counterbalanced by the harm done in another; and in the same way with the latrines, to be a benefit to the people, or, in other words, not to be a real nuisance, they must be in sufficient number, and so situated as to allow of the residents from all parts of the town visiting them night or day without inconvenience to themselves, and thus, to prevent their being a nuisance to those living in their vicinity, a very large staff of sweepers must be maintained, or, in other words, their introduction would require a heavy outlay in the first instance, and a steady monthly expenditure in perpetuity.

6. With its limited means and its increasing expenditure, the maintenance of the main road leading through the city having lately been put upon it, the municipality have been compelled, much against their will, to put aside these two plans for adding to the healthiness of the town as being beyond their reach, and would have had to do the same with regard to procuring a proper water-supply, were it not that nature had stepped in to their assistance and, by changing the course of the river, brought to their very doors what their limited income would not allow of their bringing by artificial means.

7. Though from the paucity of their funds the municipality are thus precluded from undertaking any general scheme for the sanitation of the town, they have, with the assistance of Government (it having given them some Rs. 50,000 from the Wahabee fund), determined on the reclamation of a large pool or swamp in the heart of the city, and hope, by converting it into a garden, to add both to the healthiness of the town and to the comforts and pleasures of its residents.

8. With this one exception the municipality do not see their way to effecting any great change in the conservancy of the town, and must content themselves, as funds permit, with widening and opening out the lanes so as to facilitate the removal of the filth, which the went of a proper system of drainage will not permit of being removed in any other way.

The mean barometer as likewise the dry and wet bulb thermometer means are derived from the twenty-four hourly observations made during the day.

The dew-point is computed with the Greenwich constants. The figures in column 10 represent the humidity of the air, the complete saturation of which being taken at unity. The receiver of the lower rain gauge is 1½ feet, and that of the anemometer 70 feet 10 inches above the level of the ground. The velocity of wind, as indicated by Robinson's anemometer, is registered from noon to noon.

T. H. WICKES, C.E., Esc. Engr., Nudden Rivers Division.

BERHAMPORE, the 7th December 1874.

Notice.

The Mofussil rent-roll of Kandgurdi is at present Rs. 12,350-8-6, and the area beeghas 10,037-9-7. The rent-roll is susceptible of considerable extension, as much of the land has been out of cultivation since the famine of 1866.

Kandgurdi is situated close to the rising port of Chandbally on the Byturnec, and will probably become very valuable as the trade of the port increases.

The Kunika estate is settled in perpetuity at a low quit-rent, or peshkush, and is therefore an unusually good investment.

ANNUAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE GYA MUNICIPALITY FOR THE YEAR 1873-74.

No. 127L.F., dated Gya, the 24th April 1874.

From—A. V. Palmer, Esq., Chairman of the Municipal Committee, To—The Commissioner of the Patna Division.

I HAVE the honor to submit herewith an annual administration report, together with a statement of receipts and disbursements, &c., of this municipality for the year 1873-74.

Annual Administration Report for 1873-74 of the Gya Municipality.

This is the only municipality in the district. Act III of 1864 was first extended here in May 1865, since which time the town has been increasing in size and prosperity.

- 2. Members.—It is unnecessary to mention these by name. The accompanying statement shows that the Municipal Commissioners are twelve in number. Of these, five are Europeans and seven natives, and the same proportion exists between official and non-official members. During the greater portion of the year the Commissioners were without a Vice-Chairman. Mr. Barlow was appointed to that office on 30th January 1874. Since his death, in the beginning of March last, no one has taken his place. The Commissioners have also lost two of their number—Baboo Hurkissen Paharee, by death; and Baboo Sreckissen Chatterjee, by transfer. The former's post has been filled by Baboo Buldeo Lall Khurkora, and the latter's vacancy is at present unfilled.
- 3. Meetings.—During the year fourteen meetings were held against seventeen in the year preceding. During the cold weather months, when all executive officers are in the interior of the district, it has been found difficult to obtain a quorum, and as during that period there are few matters of importance to occupy the attention of the Commissioners, the meetings have become less frequent. The Municipal Commissioners, especially the native portion, are regular in their attendance, excepting perhaps the professional members, and take an interest in the affairs of the municipality.

Population.—According to the last calculations, the municipality contains 66,843 souls. These may be divided as per margin.

Christians Eurasians Hindoos 134 52,265 14,411 ... Museulmans Other creeds 66,843 Total

During the year the births registered were 556, of which 299 were males and 257 females. The number of deaths for the same period was 2,028, of which 1,114 were males and 914 females. Looking to the very great disproportion of births to deaths, it would appear that there is room for improvement in obtaining correct information of all births.

Income.—The sources of income are as follows:—House-tax, cattle pound, tolls, bazars, fines. Detailed information regarding each is given in the statement which accompanies. It will be sufficient here to state that the total income amounted to Rs. 29,283, as against Rs. 28,647-3 in the preceding year. The house-tax obviously brings in the chief income (Rs. 24,144). The rate was fixed at 7½ per cent., but this rate has been reduced to 6 per cent. during the current year on two considerations: Firstly, that the object for which funds had been assessed, viz., the relaying of the drainage of the town, has been temporarily abandoned; and secondly, that in consequence of the searcity and high prices of food that unhappily obtain now in the municipality, it would be nothing more than reasonable and equitable to reduce taxation to the lowest possible limit. I have much satisfaction in being able to record that the entire demand was recovered within the year. Municipal cases are not now heard as formerly at the Municipal Office, but by a bench of Magistrates, who sit at the Magistrate's Office twice a week to hear and dispose of these and cognute cases.

6. Expenditure.—The sources of expenditure are as follows:—Police, conservancy, lighting, establishment, roads. Police still continues to be a very heavy item of expenditure, amounting to no less than Rs. 12,853 per annum. The District Superintendent is of opinion that no reduction can be made, and would like to increase the force. The present force was determined some two years back by the Deputy Inspector-General and District Superintendent and approved of by the Magistrate, and no special causes have since arisen to render augmentation of the force necessary.

7. The conservancy of the town has received the Chairman's best attention throughout the year. The faulty construction of some of the drains prevent their remaining at all times free from liquid matter, but by constant supervision, and the occasional imposition of a small fine, the town is kept clean and the health of the people preserved.

Lighting is not resorted to on moonlight nights, and this method is decidedly economical. Only two watering-carts have been maintained. It is found to be impossible to water the entire city, and these two carts are sufficient to water the principal bazars daily. From the fact of these carts only being made use of for three months in the year, they are not satisfactory, as they naturally get out of order from non-use.

The roads have, under the energetic supervision of the Overseer, Baboo Nobo Gopal Mookerjee, been maintained in thorough good order and at a small outlay. One road from distillery to Patna Branch Road, constructed last year, has this year been metalled; nearly all the main roads have undergone thorough repairs, and they are all at present in a very In the shape of local improvement, a portion of the Deghu tank—a satisfactory state. tank 740 feet by 267 feet—was during the year deepened; another large tank—Drummond's tank—has been entirely re-fenced with handsome balustrades, and the Executive Engineer has under construction a new Municipal Office.

8. Miscellaneous.—I have above alluded to the temporary abandonment of a project for surveying and relaying the drains of the town. As this measure has been one which I have advocated strongly and collected money for, I think some short explanation from me is due for relinquishing the scheme. My reasons for so doing are these: I am satisfied that the work to be of use must be done well, and to do it well would be costly undoubtedly. But this is not an insuperable objection. During the past four years I have taken every opportunity and done what lay in my power to secure the services of a competent surveyor. The Executive, Superintending, Canal Engineers have all been indented on, but

During the last rains we had for seven days an incessant fall. The river rose above what hitherto had been its highest level. The country for miles round was one sheet of water. There was very great apprehension of water collecting in the town and houses falling, and this induced me personally to traverse at this time all parts of the town. I found the roads with no water lodging on them, the drains running like mill streams. The existing drainage, though somewhat rough to look at, proved itself to be sufficient to meet an extraordinary increase of water, and I then came to the conclusion that I should not go far wrong by leaving well alone.

9. Vaccination. - The number vaccinated during the year is reported to be 623, against 430 last year. That the vaccination succeeded with so large a proportion as 603; that with seventeen only it was unsuccessful, and with three the results were not known. The proportion of successful cases is extraordinary.

The officers attached to the municipality have done their duty and have generally given satisfaction.

I.—Signals for the approaches to the Port of Calcutta.

When there is bad weather in the Bay of Bengal, the following signals will be hoisted at the Flag-staff near the Light-house on Saugor Island; at Mud Point; and at the Flag-staff, Diamond Harbour, near the Telegraph Station; on receipt of instructions telegraphed from the Meteorological Office, Calcutta:—

Name.

During Day.

Shape.

Signification.

A single cone indicates that bad weather (such as usually precedes, but is not always followed by a cyclone) is probably prevalent in the Bay.

Warning signal.

A black double cone indicates that the passage of a cyclone is probable, as a cyclonic vortex is believed to have been formed in the Bay.

When this signal is up, pilots will not put to sea, unless in their judgment the local weather symptoms are such that this course is not imprudent; and unless the master, concurring in this opinion, distinctly takes upon himself the responsibility of going to sea, and gives the pilot a writing to that effect.

A black drum indicates that a cyclone is probably approaching. When this signal is hoisted, masters or pilots in charge of vessels are forbidden to put to sea from Saugor, or proceed down from Diamond Harbour, and should make their vessels as snug and secure as possible.

Danger signal.

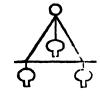

At Night.

Bad weather signal.

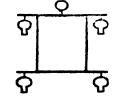

Two lights in a vertical line. Cyclonic disturbance in the Bay.

Warning signal.

Three lights in a triangle. Cyclone probable.

Danger signal.

Four lights in a square. Cyclone approaching.

The following rules for the guidance of running pilots are also published for general information:—

Kules 28 A and 28 B of the Rules for the Guidance of Running Pilots.

Rule 28 A.—When the warning signal, as described in the notification of the 20th November 1874, is hoisted on the Flag-staff at Saugor Island near the Light-house, or at Mud Point, officers in pilotage charge of vessels will not put to sea, unless in their judgment the local weather symptoms are such that this course is not imprudent; and unless the master, concurring in this opinion, distinctly takes upon himself the responsibility of going to sea, and gives the pilot a writing to that effect.

The public are hereby informed that, in providing the investment of the Behar and Benares Opium for the year 1873-74, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years—to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of Opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug, when packed at Behar and Benares, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken for the purpose of comparison from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue.
- 17. - 18. It is hereby further notified that under the 6th Article of the Convention between Great Britain and France, dated the 7th March (2) quoted below, the Agents in India of the Fresch Government, or persons duly appointed by them, are entitled to demand that out of the quantities of Behar and Benares Opium declared as above for sale at the twelve sales of the year 1875, there shall be delivered to them, at the average of the particular sale or sales to which the Opium so applied for may belong, a quantity not exceeding in the aggregate 300 chests, and the Agents of the French Government must make requisition specifying the quantity of Opium required by them at any particular sale, within thirty days from the advertisement of such intended sale, provided however that the Agents of the French Government may make such requisition for the whole quantity within thirty days from the publication of this notification. If the Agent of the French Government shall not make the requisition for Opium within the time above mentioned, the entire quantity of about 45,000 chests of

Behar and Benares, as above estimated, will be brought to sale in the usual manner; and if they shall make application for a quantity of Opium to be delivered to them out of the quantity advertized for sale at each or any of the twelve sales above mentioned, but shall not pay for it within the prescribed period of payment, the Government of Bengal reserves to itself the right of disposing of the Opium which the French Authorities may so fail to pay for, either by moreasing the quantity reserved at the sale next ensuing the date of payment, or by selling it at a sale to be held expressly for the purpose.

Article of the Convention above referred to.

Article VI.—"With regard to the trade in Opium, it is agreed between the high con"tracting parties that at each of the periodical sales of that article, there shall be reserved for
